BELLE FOURCHE—Two items on the county agenda were approved but not finalized due to an error in the publication of the notice for a public hearing. The official newspaper of the county had erred in missing publication dates; however, the official notices will be published and a public hearing will be held January 17, 2023. The commissioners approved the Adoption of Budget Supplements, which increases the Spending Authority for 2022, and the Resolution to provide for the cancellation of checks and warrants issued by Butte County that are outstanding for two years or more. City Enters Into Funding Agreement with BFDC

BELLE FOURCHE – The Belle Fourche City Council voted 7-1 to enter into a professional services agreement with Belle Fourche Development Corporation (BFDC) in which the City will pay the BFDC $90,000 per year for three years in exchange for providing the City with opportunities, plans and programs for economic expansion and retention along with advocating for the City's economic growth interests.

The contract is a major step forward for the BFDC as it puts the organization on firmer fiscal ground in the near term. It comes at a time when the city of Belle Fourche has seen exceptional growth during the last two years.

In the past, city funding for the BFDC was put under the process of general appropriations which tended to increase or decrease from year to year. According to Hollie Stalder, BFDC Executive Director, that process created continuity and planning challenges for the organization. Recruiting major businesses to the city can be a multi-year process and not having reliable funding for those efforts puts the city at a disadvantage. The agreement provides needed stability.

"It does," Stalder told the Beacon. "The continuity, based on the relationship that's been developed with the city over the past several years, has been very positive. And this is just another step in the direction that we need to go so we can build the plans that we want for our community."

The contract comes as the BFDC celebrates several major achievements. Albany Farms has moved into the former Permian Tank facility and has already invested multiple millions in its new food production operation, now employing more than 100 people. The multi-million-dollar rail siding was completed under budget and has already attracted the attention of at least two additional businesses. A housing study, released in 2021, is now being acted upon to build more single family and multi-family homes in the city. And plans are moving forward for a new $10 million convention center on the city's south side.

The first contract payment to the BFDC is due by Jan. 10 of this year. Subsequent contract payments will need to be approved each year by the city council as part of the yearly budget process. If a future council decides not to fund the BFDC the agreement would end at the conclusion of that fiscal year.

According to the agreement the BFDC's point of contact with the city will be City Administrator Bob Nelson. If that position is vacant the next in line would be Jason LaFayette, City Finance Officer. The BFDC will be required to submit quarterly reports to the city administrator that will include updates on BFDC's actions for the quarter.

The BFDC will operate as an independent contractor and not under an employer-employee relationship with the city. During debate on the contract at the Dec. 19 council meeting, Councilman Clark Sowers expressed concern that this arrangement could compromise how well the interests of a council member's constituent could be represented in potential conflicts with the city and the BFDC.

"I agree, I don't want control (of the BFDC) by the city, but I just want assurance that they'll work in the same direction as people who are also involved in the outskirts of economic development within their professions," Sowers said.

The contract states three services that the BFDC will provide. First is "economic development, expansion, growth and retention in retail, residential

It's nice to look forward to going to work everyday. It's nice to embrace Monday morning and not long for Friday. It's nice to retire. It's even nicer to know that you have been appreciated for your "exemplary quality service" and for your "loyalty, professionalism, diligence, accuracy, and unmatched dedication".

These are the words used to describe Paula Walker's 46-year career in the Butte County Register of Deeds Office. Last month, Paula was honored with an Executive Proclamation from the State of South Dakota, Office of the Governor proclaiming December 20, 2022, Paula Walker Day.

"I can't image anyone having a job they hate," Paula said

Paula, clearly a knowledgeable professional, described her work at the Register of Deeds Office.

"Mainly we deal with land records and vital statistics records. When land is bought or sold the Register of Deeds Office houses the land records and assigns numbers to keep track of them. We also issue marriage licenses and death certificates. We do other things too, but mainly we keep track of property deeds and vital statistics records."

Employees in the office are like archival librarians. There is a pleasant smell of "old book aroma" in the vault that contains stacks of large antiquated volumes of recorded land deeds. The spacious Register of Deeds Office in the Historic

City Hires CPA on As-Needed Basis

Beacon Staff

news@bellefourchebeacon.com

BELLE FOURCHE – The Belle Fourche City Council voted 5-to-2 to retain the services of Wayne Drealan as Certified Public Accountant for the city on an as-needed basis. The dissenting votes came from Ward 1 Council Member Heidi Parker and Ward 4 Council Member Bob Somervold with Councilman Randy Sowers recusing himself from voting or discussion based upon a family relationship with Mr. Drealan.

Parker told the council she was only voting no because she simply felt the services of Mr. Drealan were not needed at this time.

Drealan is a licensed CPA in

Wayne Drealan

South Dakota, and the agreement will pay an hourly rate of $100 per hour, prorated to the nearest tenth of an hour. The arrangement states that Drealan will be responsible for covering his own expenses and costs incurred during the term of the contract, which runs for the calendar year 2023.

According to the contract Drealan will provide the city with general consultation services related to accounting matters and with the purview of a CPA professional, as determined necessary by the city at its sole discretion. The agreement states that Drealan is not an attorney and will not provide legal or investment advice. He may be asked to participate in discussions with professional advisors of the city's choosing if requested. Drealan's point of contact with the city will be Jason Lafayette, City Finance Officer.

There was one modification made to the contract. Mr. Drealan requested that the council consider lowering the minimum liability insurance coverage from $1,000,000.00 to $250,000.00 due to this being an "as needed" contract.

Drealan's relationship with the city came into view in mid-2021 when the city was undergoing some financial reorganization. Drealan made several appearances before the council and pointed out some of the bookkeeping anomalies that were occurring at the time. Those events would later lead to the resignation of the previous City Finance Officer and the hiring of Casey Peterson & Associates to bring the city books up to date. No misappropriation of funds was discovered but the process for keeping the books needed to be improved. Additionally, a renewed effort for the city to submit its annual report on time was noted and successfully completed in 2022. There was also a recommendation that the city consider moving to an accrual accounting basis rather than a cash basis system.

Drealan may be pressed into service very soon. The council was set to consider approving him to investigate the difference in the city's annual report and the audit, completed by Ben Eliot of Independent Audit Services, and to come up with a plan to have one set of numbers. Also, the council will consider asking him to review the financial documents that council members currently receive and make additional recommendations if necessary.

Winter Golf at the Belle Fourche Country Club

news@bellefourchebeacon.com

One of the pleasures of life in western South Dakota is that you can usually count on at least a few balmy hours on occasional days in the winter months.

Now that there are bare patches on the golf course again and some potentially warmish days, the Belle Fourche Country Club invites golfers to play the course. The stipulation is that the temperature must be over 40 degrees to prevent damage to the grass.

The clubhouse plans to open in fair weather, regular seasonal rates apply and carts will be available.

Additionally, the clubhouse will be open for social gathering on Wednesday through Saturday from 4-8 PM.

Looking forward to spring 2023, at least one notable change is in the works. The new driving range, currently under construction, offers new tee boxes, and a wide new concrete pad.

Construction on the new driving range at the Belle Fourche Country Club moves forward. (Inset-New artificial turf tee boxes will enhance the driving range experience. English Photo

C. Ben Ruby 82

C. Ben Ruby, 82, of Newell, South Dakota, died December 23, 2022, at Monument Health Sturgis. Ben was born on October 24, 1940, to Ruth (Anderson) and Carl Ruby in Perkins County, SD. He attended his first eight grades at Inland Country School, Perkins County and Fish Draw Country School, Butte County. For a short time, Ben attended Agriculture College at Brookings. He loved being on the ranch that his parents, Uncle Jim, and Carrie Michler made successful; homesteading around 1910. He always loved coming to the ranch, which is still in the family, admiring all the pines and cedar trees, that he and his father planted. Digging dinosaur bones at the ranch was one of his passions. Ben and his dad operated Ruby Angus Ranch, selling registered bulls for years. Ben was baptized and confirmed in the Immanuel Lutheran Church at Zeona. His parents were very active in their church and every summer saw Ben attending Bible School there. He was known to stop at the church on many occasions to pray and show respect. Ben was a shy, soft-spoken man, but at any given moment, could crack a dry joke. He was very generous and kind, and will be missed by all, especially his special friend who helped him so much, Alan Youngberg. Visitation will be Friday, January 6, 2023, beginning at 2:00 p.m., at Kinkade Funeral Chapel, Sturgis, SD. Condolences may be sent at www.kinkadefunerals.com.

Pastor's Perspective
"Epiphanies and Resolutions"

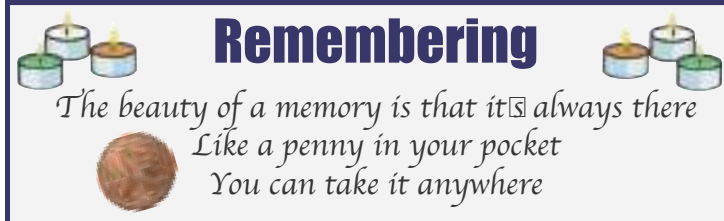

"Let those who have eyes see; those who have ears hear."

Our Gregorian calendar has just flipped us into the New Year, a year which we resolve will be better than last. This time of New Year's resolutions always coincides with liturgical calendar's time of Epiphany. It is a fitting juxtaposition, as epiphanies bring us to a new awareness, an awareness that demands our resolve to respond in new and better ways. An epiphany is an illuminating realization or discovery which changes our perceptions. Scriptures are filled with epiphanies: the magi's epiphany that led them to return home using a different route to avoid Herod and to protect the recently born Christ Child. Jesus' baptism was an epiphany, as was his resurrection. An epiphany is defined as a manifestation of a divine being, or an illuminating realization and discovery that changes the way we see things. An epiphany often is a small event which that produces an aha moment. Epiphanies open our eyes and -once we see, we cannot un-see. We become responsible for incorporating this new-to-us revelation into the way we conduct our daily business. A high school freshman, Steve provided an epiphany that changed the way I saw and treated my students. Steve had volunteered to help construct the set for a school play. I was the co-director and set designer. The play was in the Roosevelt Auditorium and required a working trap door so actors could be seen descending into a lower level. Cutting an opening into the existing stage floor was not an option. I, the college-educated set designer had a plan. First, it required one last trip to the lumber yard. Steve needed a ride to play practice and set work. He hopped into my car, and we set out. Wanting to involve this student fully, I explained what my plan for the trap door and reviewed the lumber and hardware items we would need. We had reached the stop sign by the post office, when I turned to Steve and asked, "Can you think of any thing else we might need?" Steve was silent for a bit, shook his head, and said, "That plan won't work."

This week's Pastor's Perspective is provided by Jean Helmer, Joy Fisher Ministries.

"What?" I was nonplussed. "Why won't it work?" The car did not move while Steve explained the flaw in the design. He was right. "How would you do it?" I asked. "Let me think," Steve responded, and we continued to the lumber yard. By the time we arrived, he had sketched his corrections on a paper diagram. I, with my majors in English, literature, speech and theatre arts examined the sketch presented to me by this resource room student. His analysis was correct. I purchased supplies needed for his revision. It worked beautifully. Steve's design epiphany was minor compared to mine. I realized that I had been discounting students' abilities when they had an individualized educational plan (IEP). Needing special accommodations in the regular classroom did not make that person less intelligent than "regular" students. There are eight known types of intelligence. Steve was absolutely gifted in spatial intelligence, the ability to think in three dimensions. Later, we would learn about dyslexia. Having dyslexia is akin to having the bridge out between Belle Fourche and Spearfish. You can still get there; you just need to take a different route. Each of us is gifted in some types of thinking and we each lag behind in others. That epiphany opened my eyes and gave me the responsibility for designing my classes to utilize multiple intelligences so more students could find success. Covid has brought epiphanies which open our eyes to the fragility of life. Winter Storm Diaz brought an epiphany revealing how dependent we are upon supply trucks and how quickly abundant supplies can diminish. What epiphanies did you have in 2022? What resolution--re-solutions--have they brought to your daily way of living? In Matthew 13, Jesus quotes Isaiah. "For this people's heart has become calloused; they hardly hear with their ears, and they have closed their eyes. [If] they might see with their eyes, hear with their ears, understand with their hearts and turn, and I would heal them." Thus my prayer for 2023 is, "God, grant that I may seek to see, to hear, and to understand, so that I may recognize the Christ Child who dwells in each person I encounter. Amen."

International Celebrity David Sylvester Visits Belle Fourche

Meg English
news@bellefourchebeacon.com

David Hale Sylvester, better known as “Big Dave”, dropped in at the Belle Fourche Silver Linings Senior Center last month to hug some senior citizens.

For the past 21 years, Big Dave’s mission is to hug as many people as possible. “Hugging over half a million people in 50 states and 42 countries hasn’t been easy but nothing I’ve ever attempted has been as fulfilling.” He said in a calm, reassuring voice. “I need these seniors more than they need me.”

Laura Bennett, Silver Linings Director, recalled her first meeting with Big Dave four years ago when he was in Belle Fourche for a Valentine hug party, “I learned that he had hugged my son in Olatha, Kansas.” She said.

Comfortably attired in khakis, a vest, Big Dave is very much at home around people. “I’m just a dude.” He introduced himself in our conversation. But David Hale Sylvester is more than “just a dude.” He stands out. He’s tall; he’s from Philadelphia; he’s a middle-aged black guy in Belle Fourche. More important, Big Dave stands out as a world class humanitarian.

“The world is a divided place but as humans we all have some things in common. We all want to smile. We all want to feel loved. We all want to feel useful.” He explained.

Big Dave’s mission seems a little too simple for a graduate of Temple University with a degree in statistics. He tends to stay away from the subject for good reasons.

“People are afraid of math. Conversations stop when you start talking about statistics.” He said smiling broadly. Big Dave finds much more value in listening to people telling their own stories.

His mission is as simple as the logo on his website, a distinct red heart, bounded by a white circle on a yellow background

Big Dave’s fame has grown exponentially. He has a website, a reputation as a lecturer. He knows all about traveling. He’s done a lot of it since September 11, 2001.

That was the catalyst. September 11, 2001. The day the world watched the World Trade Towers in New York come crashing down. David Hale Sylvester’s response to that terrible day in history was to jump on his bicycle and connect with people. He pedaled on highways, rough roads and over mountains in three continents, North America, Asia and Africa. From 2001 to 2015 he travelled

The Broncos traveled to Buffalo, SD for the Harding County Invitational on Thursday December 29th. Anything Left in the Barrel?

The years certainly spin by faster and faster as we gain years, and probably a few pounds too.

The Beacon is entering its 6th calendar year of publication. Could probably use a few new years resolutions and improvements.

* * *

A couple people regularly contribute to the Beacon and are not given near enough credit for the work they do each week on the paper.

* * *

First and foremost is friend and collaborator Bryan Lessley. He contributes articles, photographs, production, and insight on a regular basis, and makes sure we have a paper each and every week.

* * *

Mary Buchholz contributes on a weekly basis the “Looking Back” column and brings the history of Belle Fourche and surrounding area to life each week with her hard work and research.

By: Doug Cole

On behalf of the readers of the Beacon, I thank you Mary and Bryan.

* * *

Two other people who have been silent workers on the Beacon since day one are my wife Nancy and daughter Lucy Cole. THANK YOU!

* * *

They come and help prepare the approximately 9,000 copies of the Beacon for weekly mailing.

* * *

A thank you hardly seems adequate for all that is done by the countless number of people who each week contribute, in part, something to make the Beacon happen, but “Thank you” from the bottom of my heart, and may all enjoy a happy and prosperous 2023!

WELCOME TO THE TEAM
DR. COLTON!

We would like to introduce Dr. Colton Backhaus, DC, CSC to Belle Chiropractic. He hails from Bismarck, ND where he spent much of his youth rodeoing and raising horses with his parents. He is a BSU graduate and while attending he was a proud member of the college rodeo team. While there he had the incredible experience of qualifying for the College National Finals Rodeo three different times. After completing his undergrad, he continued to Northwestern Health Sciences University in Bloomington, MN to attain his doctorate in chiropractic. While there he also gained knowledge and expertise in strength and conditioning with the Human Performance Center. He is very excited to start his career in Belle Fourche as he has missed both the rodeo culture in this area and the Black Hills. Dr. Colton is a strong addition to Belle Chiropractic as he possesses more than one approach to manipulating the spine & extremities. He also has his certification in acupuncture, dry needling, and strength & conditioning which will add more diversity to the practice. We are excited for Dr. Colton to join us!

From A1 BFED
dential and industrial development for the Belle Fourche community.” Second, that BFDC “will be one of the primary economic development advocates for the City and advise the City as to the opportunities for all types of development as well as threats to our economy.” The third service that the BFDC will offer “will be actively providing community development programs, and providing connections to local, regional, state and federal programs which help Belle Fourche to grow and enhance services and community development.”
“I think that paragraph (2) pretty much addresses your concerns,” said Ward 3 Council Member Larry Schmaltz, in reply to Council Member Sowers. “It doesn’t specifically say that they (BFDC) will work directly with the representative of the city but that pretty much ties in with the big picture as I see it.”

Council Member Rebecca Larson asked for clarification on the amount to be paid to the BFDC. An earlier draft of the agreement stated that the city would pay an amount up to $90,000 while the final agreement stated the amount would be $90,000.
“What I don’t want to have happen is that in two years we have a really hard year, and we have $70,000 available and able to give, and if we can’t meet the $90,000 then (the funding) is nothing. That’s what I want clarification on,” she said.
City Attorney Dwight Gubbrud said that this council cannot bind future councils to the amount. He said if future councils decide not to appropriate money for a given contract, it has the legal ability to do that.

According to language in the contract if that were to happen then the agreement would be terminated at the close of that fiscal year.
The vote was 7-to-1 with Ward 1 Council Member Monte Talkington the only dissenting vote. “I’m just not sure that we would be getting $90,000 in return each year for this contract,” he told the Beacon.
Talkington said he very much appreciated the work BFDC does on behalf of the city of Belle Fourche but did not think it was in his constituents, best interests for the city to spend that amount.

From A1 Commission
made from the Contingency Fund to supplement several General Fund items. These departments came in over budget due to unforeseen costs and other issues. Higher costs developed in the Commissioners General Fund because of an increase in the Legislative Audit. In the Auditor’s Office because mapping charges were higher for the new election districting. The jail had an unexpected increase in the Prisoner Board and Economic Development did not have a budget item for BH Council of Local Gov’t Dues. Increases in unbudgeted wages for the States Attorney, Register of Deeds, County Health Nurse, and Weed Department. The Sheriff’s Department had an increase due to the purchase of two vehicles.
The Castle Rock Tower Lease had not been budgeted for Emergency Management and the County Fairgrounds had extra repairs due to the summer storm.

Jerry Nelson, Deputy Auditor, explained that supplementing these items with the Contingency Fund was simply a budgeting process that allows these funds to be solvent.
“It’s spending authority given to the commissioners,” said Nelson.
Domestic Abuse and the Highway Fund were supplemented with cash transfers from the General Fund. Both items do not generate enough income to cover costs. Domestic Abuse, funds given to the Artemis House, is funded by court fines, marriage licenses, etc.
Nelson explained that the supplements were merely moving money to balance budget items.
Numerous members of Butte County volunteer fire departments attended the meeting to sound out the commissioners for extra funding for the departments. Mark Hespe, representing Butte County Fire Protection, explained that the departments were looking for any money that was left over.

Stan Lewis, Nisland Fire and Rescue, said that their department had recently purchased six air tanks, frames, and masks at the cost of approximately $68,000. The newest remaining gear in Nisland is from 2007.
Following more questions and inputs, the commissioners voted to allocate $150,000 to the local volunteer departments. The action brought applause from the crowd and a thank you to the firemen for their work. Brett Penning was not available to provide information on audio/visual options for the commission. He plans to do more research and will have information in the near future.
The next regular commission meeting was January 3, 2023 at the county courthouse. Chad Erk was sworn in as the newest county commissioner.

From A3 Big Dave
by bicycle. Since 2016, he’s been traveling by car.
The Pandemic was a really bad time. There were no high fives, no hugging of course. “It was strange to do a tour in 2020 behind plexi-glass.” He reflected.
Big Dave knows what it feels like to need love and understanding. He knows what it feels like to be hurt by loss.
He became tearful when he remembered his friend Scott Miller who took his life, and his friend Kevin, a victim of 9/11. Both personal tragedies have shaped his future by contributing to the birth of Big Dave’s “hugging for the sake of it” empire.

Big Dave is an anomaly. He travels the world and giving hugs, high fives and lectures. He has a go fund me page to make this all happen and he travels alone without a camera crew. Big Dave has covered a lot of territory, but not so much because he likes to travel.
He gives his phone number to anyone and answers their calls. He is not a counselor. He doesn’t solve problems for people, but he will always listen.
Big Dave’s book One Hug at a Time is a collection of 99 personal stories about people

Dave has connected to with a hug. The stories are about personal tragedies, some triumphs, some not. Big Dave does not solve problems. His advice would likely be to find your way, but in the meantime know that you are loved. Learn more about Big Dave and his travels, lectures, philosophy on his website.

From A1 Paula Walker
Butte County Court House seems an appropriate setting for the work performed here.
Although Paula will miss coming to work everyday, she has prepared herself to embrace happiness in retirement too. Paula is interested in healing therapies.
For the past few years she has studied the science and practice of a particular type of therapy that involves the flow of energy in the body.
Quantum Energetics Structured Therapy (QEST) is the trademark for this holistic treatment covering a broad spectrum of physical symptoms. QEST requires training in anatomy, physiology and practice in noninvasive touch therapy.

“It’s a little like acupuncture.” Paula explained, but it’s obviously quite complicated and interesting too.
Paula likes to garden too. She is especially interested in growing herbs and processing them for therapeutic use. In particular she has researched how to grow flower herbs quite extensively in preparation for the coming growing season.
“Another thing I want to learn to do,” Paula added almost as an afterthought, “is learn to bake bread.” She paused, “The old fashioned way.”
Paula will likely be as happy in her retirement as she was in her archivist role at the Butte County Register of Deeds Office. She also looks forward to frequent visits from her ten grandchildren.

Free Treatment Day
Wednesday, January 11th

Millions of people live with pain or mobility issues that limit their ability to move and live the way they want to. Sometimes aches and pains seem to come out of nowhere, and other times what seems like a simple injury results in lasting pain. Maybe you have been trying to address your issue already but are not getting the lasting results you want. If this is you, call 605-723-0185 today and reserve your spot for Pain & Movement Solutions’ Free Treatment Day on Wednesday, January 11th.

Pain & Movement Solutions holds their bi-annual Free Treatment Day as a way for individuals to learn how physical therapy (PT) can help them with their pain or movement problem. “Unfortunately, most individuals think that you must be recovering from a major injury or surgery to come to physical therapy. This is a large misconception that is preventing people from getting the effective care they deserve and need,” says clinic owner and Doctor of Physical Therapy, Julie Wingen.

Physical therapists are movement specialists, and you can be evaluated by one without a physician referral. Physical therapy is becoming the go-to profession of the medical world, and they are recognized as practitioner of choice for all musculoskeletal injuries. Want an MRI? Go to PT first. Surgery? Go to PT first. Why? – Because, more often than not, most musculoskeletal problems are solved with PT. More and more studies are coming out about the cost effectiveness of PT with outcomes that not only get you better in the short term, but also teach you how to make yourself better in the future.

Physical therapists have a very large skill set and can treat anything from vertigo to incontinence, concussion to cancer rehabilitation, and every joint pain. This skill set is derived from over 7 years of high-level training including dissection of cadavers, differential diagnosis classes, pharmacy courses and radiologic imaging courses resulting in a Doctorate degree specializing in movement disorders.

Wingen says, “This is one of my favorite days of the year! It is a lot of fun to help so many people realize the vast benefits of PT and get them started on the right track to feeling better.” Free Treatment Day consists of a screening evaluation, followed by a treatment consisting of spinal thrust and joint mobilizations, soft tissue tools, kinesiotaping and guided home exercises that will empower you to take control of your health and recovery.

“Our goal of the day is to provide you with the expertise, solutions and direction in determining the best methods to help you.”

Want to know if you have a torn rotator cuff vs shoulder impingement? Back pain or sciatica flaring up more frequently than it used to? Source of your headaches? Do you feel pain in your shin every time you run or feel like your balance is worsening? The list can go on and on. Take control of your health and well-being. Call and reserve your free treatment spot today as space is limited; 605-723-0185.

New Year's Prayer

by Helen Steiner Rice (from the Connection of Jake Lake)

Give us through the coming year
Quietness of mind
Teach us to be patient
And always to be kind.

Give us reassurance when Everything goes wrong

So our faith remains unfaltering
And our hope and courage strong.

And show us that in quietness
We can feel Your presence near Filling us with joy and peace
Throughout the coming year.

Sharpening the chalk to perfect my story, I'm Jim Thompson.

Cause and Effect

Because of the weather the mail didn't go for several days, during that last 4 day blizzard. Because the mail didn't go, some bills didn't get paid on time. Because some weren't paid on time, some services were stopped. Like my cell phone.

No big deal, right? I would have said yes, before this happened. But it is amazing how much I have come to rely on it! I finally figured out why it was acting the way it was, and was not working, but do you think I could make any of the voice prompts work, to rectify the situation? Hard no, Darry!!

I had to go to a store where they sign you up and sell you a phone and once there, have a nice young lady get it fixed. Which involved using a credit card or cash. Credit card works faster, she said.

O K !

When she got it taken care of ... in a matter of seconds!!!! I asked her to set it up with a different source of revenue, ie, my debit card.

"No. Cant do that."
"Why?"

"Because they don't trust us to do it."

"But aren't you the one who has access to my credit card now and my phone with all my info?"

"Yes, but you will have to call to change where the money comes from."

"Can't you call for me and I will give you the info?"

"No. They don't trust us with that,....."

Man alive, we are so screwed in this world anymore...don't let your phone service lapse. It might bring down the whole country!

Shaine's Riddle of the Week

What did the snowman order at the fast food restaurant?

Answer: An ice burger with chili sauce

Capitol News

KAREN ODELL

Last week, it was easy for Ronda Cordell to listen to the 'no travel' weather advisory, because her car and pick-up were both snowed in the garage. If she was careful, her Can-Am got her to the chicken house each day. The drifts grew larger with each passing day of the week. Any plowing was abandon unless necessary. From Wednesday to Friday, the 'White out' conditions made feeding livestock a major factor. Several days were near 30 below, with wind chill between 50 to 70 below. On Thursday, Ronda helped Clint Zolnoski winterize the feeding tractor, to keep the fuel from gelling, by using Newt's dog bed mattress and the back from her mom's antique dresser. They had to block the direct wind to get the machine to keep running. There was warmer weather on Christmas Eve, and Ronda had their three-soup supper and gift opening. Curt, Krista, Caden and Carsen Zolnoski, from Rapid City, and Chad, Debby and Roudy Zolnoski, from Gillette, had come to Clint and Denise Zolnoski's the day before. Cristen Westling had to work through Saturday due to the back log of mail and packages during the storm. She and Jayda came to Ronda's in time for the soup supper and gift opening. Toney and Linda Hannah also came down for the evening. When the clock struck midnight on Christmas Eve, the temperature was 5 degrees, and at 4:30 in the morning, it was 20.6 degrees. That day, it reached 42 degrees. Cristen, Jayda and Ronda joined everyone at Clint's for late breakfast on Christmas morning. By noon, when the Westlings left for home, the deck had thawed off, and water was dripping from the snow on the roof. Curt and Caden stopped by to get their popcorn cake, leftover soup and eggs, before they all headed home, and Chad came by late afternoon for their goodies, before he headed home. A big 'Thank You' to the Southeast electric crew for getting the power back on so quickly on Friday.

Dick and Erma Albert made a trip to Spearfish and Belle Fourche on Thursday. Their tradition is to have prime rib dinner on New Year's Day.

They discovered prime rib is nearly as valuable as diamonds, but they got some anyway. On Friday, they had fried chicken at the Senior Dinner. Then Erma stayed to play cards for a while. She stopped to visit Delores Sperle after the games. Pete Anderson has spent the week at home. On New Year's Day he went in to Camp Crook to attend church at the Methodist Church.

All the kids and grandkids were at Alvin and Marlee Cordell's for Christmas. Ashley and Wade Pearson's family stayed overnight. Then the grandkids stayed until Wednesday, when Marlee took them back to Belle Fourche. Gavin liked to feed the few calves that Alvin had in. Cade came back with Marlee to help out for two more days. Matt Hendrickson stopped by on Tuesday for a visit. Roy Castille came out and helped clean snow out of the corrals. Brandon Padden came on Thursday, to haul home some of their cows that had drifted down to Alvin's during the blizzard. Alvin, Marlee and Cade went to the Corner Bar in Camp Crook on New Year's Eve for supper, but they didn't stay long enough to see the new year in. On New Year's Day, Marlee took Cade back to Belle Fourche, and went on to Spearfish to watch Kymber Cordell play basketball.

Bruce and Lynn Gustafson had gone to Dean and Mary Tarter's for Christmas Eve. Tuesday had been Lynn's birthday, so to celebrate, they went to town on Wednesday, and had a birthday dinner in Spearfish. They went to the Little Missouri Church for services on Sunday.

Doug and Julia Davis's family spent Christmas at Alfreda Davis's in Belle Fourche. They had finally gotten Doug's whole family together at one time, so they had family pictures taken in Spearfish Canyon. It is something they had been trying to plan for a long time. All the kids came out to the ranch on Monday. Travis's family stayed overnight, and then went on to Montana to visit her family. Jake and the boys did the feeding for Doug on Wednesday, so that he and Julia could make a fast trip to Denver to pick up her new wheel chair. The fast trip slowed down when they ran into snow, and they stopped overnight. On Thursday, they got the chair and headed right home. New Year's Day came without their help.

Donna Lewis was home for Christmas. As it turned out, her daughter was sick, and they did not want to spread the disease to Donna, so they encouraged her to stay home. Dusty stopped on his way from Gillette, and he took some of her cookies to Baker for her family. Toney

Hannah came with his Bobcat, and plowed Donna's car out. Donna appreciated that so much. She got out on Christmas Eve and went to Ekalaka to get some milk, but the store was closed. She stopped at Sue Breeding's to get some cream, and Sue had some milk for her, too, so things turned out great.

Ernie, Rachel and Tommy Melum spent Christmas Eva with Junior and Shirley Melum. They opened presents, and had lots to eat. On Christmas Day, Ernie, Rachel and Tommy went north to join the Kalbach family, and got to celebrate again.

All of Bryce and Dawn Padden's family celebrated together at Dorothy Padden's on Christmas Eve, Helen Stevens joined them that evening, too. On Thursday, Bryce, Dawn and Dorothy went to Buffalo for the wrestling meet. Then on Friday, they went back to Buffalo for the high school girls' and boys' basketball games. Dorothy remembered when her parents had gone to see the Rose Parade in Pasadena many years ago, and it was just as spectacular then; requiring live flowers, seeds, and plants to decorate all of the floats. We missed the parade on Sunday, so maybe we can watch it on Monday.

Charlie and Karen Odell got to visit with kids and grandkids on Christmas, and Santa had stopped by there, too. Karen's brother, Jim, called. Her high school friends Bill Foulkes and Emilio Rodriguez called, too.

This last year, at Capitol and on Tie Creek, was unbelievably strange, and difficult in ways that we had not thought of encountering; yet our community is still strong, and closer than ever. We showed our creativity by adapting, as usual. We had learned adaptability from past blizzards, droughts, fires, grasshoppers, floods, and diseases. Now we can credit the hard times, and the determination we learned from our parents, for our abilities to face each new day. Charlie and I wish to thank all of our community for sharing your good times, and bad times, with the Capitol News. This year, even more than in the past, we appreciate the accounts of your day to day, normal lives. We have enjoyed passing on your stories of natural happenings; things that seemed normal, common, and sensible. We have enjoyed laughing with you, crying with you, and learning from you. You have given us the calming effect of reality, when turmoil is lurking across the world. It is a special gift you have freely given to the readers of Capitol News. It is a gift that will someday be returned to you a thousand-fold.

Happy New Year from Karen and Charlie Odell!

Central Meade County News

By Sandy Rhoden

This past week has been a week to enjoy as far as winter goes. The week before made for some tough times for many. Starting with huge amounts of snow plugging up roads, barn yards, and making it hard on anything outside due to strong winds and snow was topped off by several more days of sub zero degree weather that was downright dangerous. Folks are hoping this is the end of our hard winter weather. However, winter is just beginning so if nothing else it serves as a wake up call and we know to have plans and equipment ready for the next possible round of winter's wrath.

Families in West River South Dakota were flexible and still made alternative plans where needed to get together with family. The Rorey and Crista Lemmel family had 9 family and friends snowed in at their place for several days. They made the most of this time and enjoyed many board games and just being together. However during the cold snap, Rorey and son traveled to Sioux Falls and headed back on Tuesday with a horse & horse trailer. They survived two nights in their pick up that was parked in Murdo. They returned home on Friday afternoon and were very happy to be home. Hundreds were stranded between Murdo and New Underwood where those communities in Wall, Murdo and Wicksville made accommodations in their community centers for cold weary travelers.

This Saturday, Dean Wink, Gary Cammack, and Kirk Chaffee will take their oath of office for this next legislative session that begins next Tuesday, January 10. It is a special year because we will have an Inauguration Ceremony in the Rotunda of the Capitol where Larry Rhoden will be sworn in as Lt. Governor for his 2nd term on Saturday, along with Governor Kristi Noem. Larry will be sworn in on his mother's and father's Bibles that are tied together. His dad's Bible was one that he carried during WWII with a metal cover for protection. His mother's Bible is worn and tattered because of so much use. This makes the swearing in much more meaningful for him and Sandy.

The Capitol Ball and Inaugural Ball will be held Saturday evening. It is an exciting time as the families and close friends will be in attendance for the evening as they celebrate the new group of leaders for the next four years. All of the Larry Rhoden boys and their ladies should all be in attendance. Always Ready, Always There - Our National Guard

The men and women in our National Guard serve with excellence. They take their job seriously, so I take my responsibility to them as their Commander in Chief very seriously.

This week, I visited our 109th Regional Support Group at Fort Hood, Texas. They are staging to ship out to the Middle East in support of Operation Inherent Resolve. They will support troops on the ground in a wide variety of missions. Normally, we'd hold a deployment ceremony to say farewell and Godspeed, but the winter storms made that ceremony impossible for these troops. I thought it was important for them to know that I have their back – that while they're defending Freedom over there, I'll do my part to defend Freedom here.

While they're gone, they will be in harm's way. They'll have families here at home concerned about them but so proud of their service. And when they come home, they'll return to a grateful state and nation.

Speaking of the winter storms, our National Guard has been responding to those, too, particularly with assistance to our Native American tribes. We've put out into the field 6 payloaders, 3 snowblowers, 2 refuelers, 2 contact trucks, 2 wreckers, 9 semis and trailers, and 5 dump trucks full of firewood to help the Rosebud Sioux Tribe and Oglala Sioux Tribe deal with the effects of the winter storm.

I want to remind us why our troops serve us, and I'm going to borrow from America's great orator, President Abraham Lincoln. In August 1864, as the Civil War continued on, President Lincoln thanked the 166th Ohio Regiment with these famous words:

"For the service you have done in this great struggle in which we are engaged, I present you sincere thanks for myself and the country... It is not merely for today, but for all time to come that we should perpetuate for our children's children this great and free government, which we have enjoyed all our lives. I beg you to remember this, not merely for my sake, but for yours... The nation is worth fighting for, to secure such an inestimable jewel."

We ask a lot of our Guard. We ask them to help keep our nation the "inestimable jewel" that we know and love. And they give us more than what we ask. They're real American heroes. I am humbled to serve as their Commander in Chief, and I am grateful for their service every single day. God bless our troops!

Noem commutes seven prison sentences, including three women serving time for manslaughter

Convicts will serve out the remainder of their sentences on parole.

Gov. Kristi Noem announced the commutations of seven people incarcerated in South Dakota late last month.

The seven had their sentences commuted to parole for the remainder of their sentences. They will have to undergo electronic monitoring which includes monitoring for alcohol use.

"These seven individuals have each earned a second chance," Noem said in a release. "Each of these individuals has demonstrated a low risk of recidivism. They are being released with precautions in place such as electronic monitoring and parole supervision to help them succeed."

Each offender, the announcement said, had followed rules and policies and showed a propensity for success on parole supervision.

The seven individuals receiving commuted sentences are:

Danielle Blakney, 30, who is incarcerated in the South Dakota Women's Prison in Pierre on possession of schedule one and schedule two drugs. She was sentenced Sept. 6 to eight years in prison, according to the Department of Corrections.

Jamie Christine Bosone, 38, in the South Dakota Women's Prison for possession of controlled substances and keeping a place for use or sale of controlled substances. She was serving four years and nine months, sentenced on Aug. 2.

Jerome R. Ferguson, 44, who is in the Sioux Falls Work Center. He was sentenced April 12 to four years and six months for possession of a controlled Substance.

Britni Jean Goodhart, 32, at the St. Francis House in Sioux Falls. She was sentenced March 15 to four years and five months for possession of a controlled substance.

Connie Hirsch, 59, who is in the Pierre Minimum Security Center. She was sentenced March 17, 2012 to 32 years and five months for first-degree manslaughter.

Tammy Kvasnicka, 40, serving a 58-year sentence for first-degree manslaughter. She is incarcerated in the Pierre Minimum Security Center. She was sentenced Nov. 7, 2014.

Whitney Renae Turney, 34, who was sentenced to 22 years and three months for first-degree manslaughter. She is serving time in the South Dakota Women's Prison.

SD Supreme Court Opinion Bolsters Work Comp Rights

Jonathan Ellis
jonathan@thedakotascout.com

An employee injured while performing work duties is entitled to receive work compensation benefits even though she previously had a similar injury, the South Dakota Supreme Court ruled.

The ruling, published Thursday, affirms decisions made by the South Dakota Department of Labor and Circuit Judge Christina Klinger, both finding that Destiny Schoon should have received benefits following the injury.

Schoon worked part time for News America Marketing as an advertising representative, and her duties included hanging advertising signage on store shelves and ceilings. On May 7, 2015, Schoon was using a screwdriver to loosen a screw on a shelf. The screwdriver gave way, and Schoon felt a sharp pain in her shoulder that worsened over the next 24 hours.

Upon seeking medical care, she complained about spasms in her neck and shoulder pain. An MRI revealed a herniated disk in her lower neck, and a neurosurgeon recommended that the disk be replaced with an artificial disk.

News America Marketing and its insurance company, Farmington Casualty Co., hired Dr. Jeffrey Nipper of ExamWorks to perform an independent medical examination of Schoon. The IME included a physical examination and a review of Schoon's records.

Nipper concluded that Schoon had strained her shoulder and that the herniated disk in her spine was unrelated to the work injury. Rather, he thought the neck injury was the result of two auto accidents, one in 2001 and the other in 2003, that Schoon had been in, as well as a fall in which Schoon fractured her wrist in 2004.

Based on Nipper's opinion, Farmington Casualty denied Schoon's claim. Schoon received medical treatment for the previous accidents, and in a lawsuit related to her fall, a chiropractor testified that she would likely suffer "residuals" from the auto accident for the rest of her life.

In 2009, Schoon received cervical injections that dramatically reduced her pain, and she was able to work 60 hours a week and play softball. An MRI showed impingement of the

What to Expect in 2023

While many are planning their new year's resolutions, getting ready to go back to school, and soaking up the last days of the holidays, Congress is gearing up for a shift in majority.

The top of many minds and news stories is the race for House Speaker. While there has been some uncertainty of a Speaker Kevin McCarthy (CA), I believe he will prevail. We have much more important things to focus on—like the border, inflation, China, and crime—so I am hopeful the Speaker vote will move quickly.

Here's a few things to expect from a Republican-led House of Representatives:

Fiscal Responsibility

America is more than $32 trillion in debt. This is not a problem to be ignored and left to our children to solve. A Republican-led House will be able to block any additional reckless spending by the Biden Administration and Congressional Democrats. Doing so will help slow inflation. Over the past two years, I have opposed more than $13 trillion in Democrat spending packages and will continue to do the same.

China

China is not our friend. The Chinese Communist Party (CCP) continues to expand its authoritarian regime in multiple spheres of our lives. Their negative influence of TikTok

Border Security

The situation at the southern border is a crisis—a humanitarian crisis, national security crisis, and public safety crisis. I'm grateful the end of Title 42 was delayed last week, preventing a greater influx of migrants at our border that is already under stress. I'm hopeful for bipartisan support in this area to secure our border and increase public safety.

Farm Bill

Every five years, the Farm Bill gets reauthorized. The last Farm Bill was authorized in 2018, which means it needs adjusted and passed again in 2023. Some titles that are included are conservation, crop insurance, and nutrition programs. I'm hopeful to be a chairman of a subcommittee within the House Agriculture Committee, giving me a lead role in drafting parts of this bill.

The next Congress will be pretty busy, and I am looking forward to bringing home more wins for South Dakota.

Sen. John Thune Supports Annual Defense Bill Ellsworth Air Force Base Priorities

WASHINGTON — U.S. Sen. John Thune (R-S.D.) today applauded the passage of the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) for fiscal year 2023. The bill contains numerous priorities that benefit South Dakota and the future B-21 bomber mission at Ellsworth Air Force Base, including nearly $336 million for new facility construction and the revival of a program to help school districts accommodate significant increases in students as a result of additional military families moving to the area to prepare for mission growth.

"Providing for our nation's defense is one of the most serious and consequential responsibilities for members of Congress," said Thune. "I am committed to ensuring that Ellsworth Air Force Base and its surrounding communities have everything they need for the B-21 bomber mission so Ellsworth can continue to serve as one of our nation's essential military assets for decades to come."

The NDAA includes a modified version of Thune's Dynamic Airspace Pilot Program Act of 2022, legislation that requires the Federal Aviation Administration and Department of Defense (DoD) to establish a pilot program to support the development of "dynamic airspace" to improve how airspace boundaries are managed to accommodate modern military training requirements like longer engagement distances.

NDAA priorities for South Dakota include:

- $3.25 billion for B-21 bomber development and $1.78 billion for low-rate initial production of the aircraft
 - $335.9 million for military construction, including:
 - LO Restoration Facility, $41 million
 - Radio Frequency Facility, $84.9 million
 - Weapons Generation Facility, $50 million
 - Increased authorization to address inflation
 - $15 million for school districts serving military families' students to accommodate enrollment changes due to base closures, force structure changes, or force relocations
 - Extends DoD authority to increase Basic Allowance for Housing in regions of high demand
 - Extends prohibition on reducing B-1 maintenance personnel or further reduction in aircraft unless replaced with B-21s
 - Establishes a dynamic airspace pilot program that would bolster training ranges like the Powder River Training Complex
 - $23 million for B-1 bomber squadrons, including $10 million for hypersonic integration validation testing
 - Extends $12 million authorization for Joe Foss Field aircraft maintenance shops
 - Multi-year procurement authority for Long Range Anti-Ship Missiles and Joint Air-to-Surface Standoff Missiles used by the B-1

These Issues Were News in 2022; They’ll Be News in 2023

Jonathan Ellis
jonathan@thedakotascout.com

Just because we’ve entered a new year doesn’t mean we get to leave behind the controversies of the old year.

Indeed, with the South Dakota Legislature beginning its session next week, old controversies are about to rage again. Some with even more gusto than before.

Let’s take a quick tour:

Abortion

The pro-life movement fought for 50 years to get Roe v. Wade overturned. When that happened June 24, abortion in South Dakota immediately became illegal because of a law passed in 2005. That law, signed by then governor and now Sen. Mike Rounds, said that if the High Court ever overturned Roe, abortion would become illegal.

And so it is.

The trigger law was an example of the Legislature doing all that it could over the past couple decades to add restrictions to the procedure, even going so far as to outlaw abortion in 2006 – an action rejected by voters.

Now, with abortion illegal, the pro-life side finds itself trying to preserve what they won through the 2005 legislation and the U.S. Supreme Court.

There will be no shortage of debate in the coming weeks. There will be attempts to overturn the 2005 trigger law, which would make abortion legal again, albeit under the strict regulatory system that previously existed. That included restrictions on when and where abortions could take place, parental consent for minors as well as mandatory waiting periods and counseling.

On a separate front, abortion rights backers are aiming to put the issue back on the ballot in 2024 after abortion was on the ballot in 2006 and 2008. In both of those instances, voters chose to keep the procedure legal.

Dakotans for Health has been collecting signatures for the ballot after the Secretary of State’s Office approved its petition on Sept. 19 for circulation.

Life Defense Fund, a pro-life group, has launched an effort to get voters to not sign the petition.

Marijuana

Voters rejected legalizing recreational cannabis in November, but the backers of that measure say they will be back on the ballot in 2024.

If it comes to pass, it would be the third time in as many elections that voters would get to weigh in on the issue.

They legalized cannabis in 2020, but the South Dakota Supreme Court ruled that the measure violated the state Constitution.

If it makes the ballot in 2024, the electorate would likely look more like 2020 than 2022. That’s because 2020 and 2024 are presidential years, and that means more voters than in off-presidential elections.

But the Legislature will also weigh in on marijuana. Some lawmakers want more restrictions in the state’s medical marijuana program. Look for legislation that would make it harder for people to qualify to get medical marijuana cards from doctors.

Tax Policy

The state’s 4.5 percent sales tax rate became a big issue at the end of the last legislative session, with lawmakers dueling on various proposals to reduce that tax. One idea was to throttle the tax back down to 4 percent, where it had been before 2016.

Another proposal that emerged late in the session was the idea of eliminating the entire 4.5 percent on food purchases.

And that’s where Gov. Kristi Noem comes in. Noem made that a central issue in her campaign for re-election. And in her budget speech last month, she made a food tax cut her central issue, framing the speech around the notion that the economy is strong and that the state can afford to give up the revenue generated by the sales tax on food, which would cost the state about $100 million a year.

So Noem has signaled that she will come hard to the hoop to get that cut, and she will have plenty of allies in the Legislature.

But uncertain economic times, as well as competing proposals, could prove to be a wall too high. The Legislative Research Council has data suggesting that if the state were to not include the effects of inflation and federal stimulus dollars, sales tax revenues are actually down, casting doubt on whether a cut is affordable.

Meanwhile, some suggest eliminating the tax on food isn’t much of a tax cut. They would prefer cutting half a percentage point on everything, not just food.

And then there are lawmakers who are more concerned about escalating property taxes than they are about sales tax. The Legislature wrapped up a summer study on property taxes in 2022, so proposals are coming to reduce them.

disk in her neck, but not to the degree the 2015 MRI showed following her workplace injury.

Schoon appealed the denial of benefits to the Department of Labor. Three of her treating physicians submitted testimony that supported her appeal.

Nipper submitted testimony on behalf of the insurance company in which he concluded that the injury could not have caused the disk herniation.

The department ruled on Schoon’s behalf, awarding her permanent partial disability benefits and medical expenses. The company appealed to circuit court, but Klinger also sided with Schoon.

The company’s appeal to the Supreme Court hinged on whether Klinger had erred by affirming the department, and whether she erred by finding the opinions of Schoon’s three doctors more persuasive than Nipper’s, and whether one of those doctors had adequate foundation for his opinion.

The Supreme Court rejected the company’s arguments in an opinion by Chief Justice Steven Jensen.

“Despite the fact that claimant sought medical care for other issues between 2009 and 2015, employer/insurer presented no evidence that claimant needed or sought additional treatment for her neck and shoulder during this timeframe,” Jensen wrote. “Moreover, there was also evidence that claimant remained employed full-time, working up to 60 hours per week, and was physically active until her 2015 injury.”

The ruling was a unanimous 5-0 decision.

Census Data: SD Has Fifth Highest Growth Rate

Jonathan Ellis
jonathan@thedakotascout.com

South Dakota was one of about a dozen states that saw its population grow by 1.10 percent or larger from July 1, 2021 to July 1, 2022, the U.S. Census Bureau reports.

Overall, the state had the fifth-largest population increase over that year, based on the percentage of growth. The 1.5 percent increase comes from the Census Bureau’s yearly population estimates. It’s the largest increase of any state in the Midwest, which, as a region, saw a decline in population.

The state’s rate of population increase was exceeded only by that of Florida, Idaho, South Carolina and Texas.

New York, Illinois, Louisiana, West Virginia and Hawaii saw the biggest decreases.

As of July 1, the Census Bureau estimated South Dakota’s population at 909,824.

Since 2020, South Dakota’s population grew by 2.5 percent, the ninth fastest, according to an analysis of Census Bureau data by The Dakota Scout.

A Gay Time

A large crowd of happy and merry people, both young and old, gathered at Woodburn hall last Friday evening to attend the New Year’s Ball, given by the Home Dramatic club. Simmons Bros orchestra, with N. A. Gibson as conductor furnished the music. The grand march was formed at 9 o’clock and the dancing continued until 11:30 when about twenty-two couples repaired to Mrs. Kilgore’s restaurant where they sat down to s supper that surpassed in sumptuousness everything that has occurred in the annual of festivals this season, after which they returned to the hall and danced to “the sweet strains of music, and the remaining couples filled the vacant places at the tables and partook of the bountiful supply of good things before them. Dancing was continued until nearly 5 a.m. Everything passed off smoothly and a more thoroughly satisfied crowd would have been hard to find. Everyone expressed themselves as having had an excellent time, and the Club should feel proud of their success as entertainers, and should they give another ball they are assured of its success.

Brooks Will be Deputy Sheriff in Pennington County

Sheriff-elect Lockhart of Pen-nington County has named Lee R. Brooks of Deadwood as his chief deputy, the latter resigning his position as chief of police of Deadwood to accept the new job. Mr. Brooks is one of the best known and most efficient officers in western South Dako-ta and is a real pioneer in that profession. For something like twenty years he was chief of police in Belle Fourche, in the days when this was “wild and woolly,” and also served as deputy sheriff under the late Billy Moses. Mr. Brooks was deputy U. S. marshal for eight years under the Wilson administration and was recently appointed chief of police of Deadwood. He has made a fine reputation during his long service as an officer and his many friends here will be pleased to learn of his new position.

Julian H. Peason, accom-panied by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A Montgomery, left last Thurs-day morning, via automobile, for California, where they expect to join Mrs. Pearson and the other members of the family who preceded them to that clime some time ago. Mr. Pearson, who is a veteran life insurance man in this section, will probably engage in that business in that country. His father, mother and brother are residents of Glendale, and he may locate in that city. Mr. Pearson’s removal from South Dakota will leave a gap hard to fill in Pythian circles, as he was one of the ablest interpreters of the ritualistic work of that order in the entire state and his genius in that respect did much to promote Pythianism is South Dakota. He was one of the guid-ing lights in the big out-door ceremonials staged last year and the year before in False Botton canyon. A past grand chancellor of the order in this state, he has always taken a prominent part in its annual sessions and had a wide acquaintance throughout the domain. His friends will all wish himself and family good luck and good health in their new home.

Treasurer Ellis will have as dep-uties Mrs. Lorraine Hoffman and Miss Vern McClanahan. Ross, is settled, when he will know where he “is at.” S.W.P. Hide Inspectors To Be Appointed Authorization for the ap-pointment of hide inspectors in Butte county was granted this week at a year-end session of the board of commissioners. The board adopted a resolution providing that the sheriff’s office may name hide inspec-tors in each town in the county. Each inspector will be paid 10 cents per hide inspected. Action was taken in accordance with the a South Dakota law which provides that hides are to be in-spected and stamped before be-ing offered for sale. To facilitate inspection and to eliminate the necessity of having someone from the sheriff’s office here drive to Newell or Vale to check on hides, it was decided that someone should be deputized in Newell, Nisland, Vale and Belle Fourche to carry out that duty. Sheriff Elmer Conner reported the inspectors may be named and the operation of the plan worked out by Jan. 5.

Washington, Dec. 31 – The justice department will investi-gate a recent magazine article which state a United States rocket plane has flown faster than the speed of sound. The air force announced in Washing-ton today that it has requested the justice department to make the investigation. At the same time, the air force cancelled a news conference that Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington had scheduled for Friday. The statement said the secretary had proposed to discuss security matters in connection with the rocket plane – the X-S-1, but it added that these matters now have been taken under study by the department of justice, which has requested postponement of the proposed discussion. An air force spokesman added later that publication of recent X-S-1 data in Aviation Week Maga-zine has been referred to the justice department.

Half of the appropriation will apportioned according to the number of full-time superinten-dents, principals, and teachers in each district. County super-intendents have reported a total of 7610 teachers in the state. The reminder of the fund will be distributed on the basis of school attendance. It averages 167,345 pupils during the first 60 days of this school year. Another $1,500,000 will be dis-tributed for the 1948-49 school year on the same basis.

1972 Weather Sets Record for Cold

Belle Fourche recorded its 11th consecutive year of above average precipitation as 1972 drew to a close with the total for December of .91 bringing the yearly precipitation figure to 19.75 inches. It was also the 11th wettest year of record, since moisture records were begun in 1909, according to local official weather station records. Several records were set or broken during the year. The coldest temperature was recorded on Jan. 28th, with a 31 below zero reading, the coldest since Jan. 4, 1950. The thermometer dipped below zero nine times in January and four times in February, then tied the mark of 12 consecutive days in December, matching the figure for 1919, and just one short of the record of 1 consecutive days set in 1916 for December. The reading did go below zero once more in December to make 13, and a total of 26 days below zero for the year. We failed to break the century mark, with a 98 recorded on July 30th, and Aug. 12th and 13th, the three hottest days of the year. A warm spell sent the ice out of the Belle Fourche river on March 9th, flooding the Roundup grounds. The next day, March 10th, saw a new record for the month of March, a 82 degree reading. It didn’t get above that reading again until May 15th. Shortly after the disastrous Rapid City flood, Belle Fourche had its own, when Hay creek flooded after a weekend of heavy rains to the west of town. On June 19th the water rose in Belle, causing the evacuation of three homes. Belle Fourche wound up the winter of 1971-72 with a total of 59.3 inches of snow, with the last falling on May 1st. The first fall snow fell on Oct. 5th, with a total of 7 inches that month, and thru the last day of December Belle recorded 29.2 inches of snow for the 1972-73 winter season.

One-hundred and 10 years of county service are represented in this photo. Left to right, back row: Ernest Gutache, second district county commissioner, who has completed 10 years of service in that post; George Hafner, who steps down from a long career of law career of law enforcement. Hafner was elected Butte county sheriff in 1954 and has served since that time. He held numerous law enforcement positions prior to that time. W. K. Bassett, fourth district county commissioner since 1946. He was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Max Schuft, was elected in 1968. He chose not to seek re-election. Front, left Ethal Rosander, who has completed a term as register of deeds. She has been at the court house for 26 years, as deputy auditor, deputy treasurer, deputy register of deeds and was elected register of deeds in 1958. Front, right, Ruth Hallinger, steps down after 48 years of service as deputy treasurer and deputy auditor. She began work at the court house in 1924.

Sioux Steel Wins $12M Jury Verdict in Patent Lawsuit

Illinois jury issues verdict after nearly seven years of litigation

Joe Sneve
joe@thedakotascout.com

Sioux Falls-based Sioux Steel Co. has won a $12 million verdict against an Illinois competitor after a jury found that the company willfully infringed on Sioux Steel's intellectual property.

Prairie Land Millwright Services used that intellectual property to develop a knock-off of a commercial grain bin sweep that had been patented by Sioux Steel. A jury found that Prairie Land and its owner, Duane Chaon, knew that they were infringing on Sioux Steel's intellectual property and depriving Sioux Steel of sales and profits.

The verdict, which remained sealed Friday, was reached by a jury on Dec. 21 in the Federal District Court for the Northern District of Illinois. The judge in the case is expected to enter judgement.

The jury took only a few hours after six days of testimony before reaching its verdict.

Robert Theuerkauf, a lawyer who represented Sioux Steel, said the jury reached the appropriate verdict. Theuerkauf is a partner with the Louisville, Kentucky law firm Gray Ice Higdon.

"This was an important victory for Sioux Steel, a fourth generation, family-owned business, because it invests substantially in obtaining and protecting its intellectual property and prides itself on delivering those innovations to the industry," Theuerkauf said in a statement to The Dakota Scout. "Although there were complex issues for the jury to digest, including the technology developed by Sioux Steel, the efforts of the entire team resulted in a presentation of the facts in a way the jury was able to understand to reach their verdict. We look forward to assisting Sioux Steel in concluding this litigation and protecting its intellectual property rights."

The verdict comes after nearly seven years of litigation.

Founded more than a century ago in downtown Sioux Falls, Sioux Steel manufactures grain bins and other agriculture products.

At issue in the case was Prairie Land's infringement on a patent that Sioux Steel received from the federal government for its revolutionary Daay Bin Paddle Sweep.

Sioux Steel developed a bin sweep using rubber paddles to sweep grain bin floors. Previous sweep technology relied upon augers. Auger sweeps have proven to be dangerous to workers who can become entangled in their blades, causing lost limbs and even fatalities.

The Daay Bin Paddle Sweep was marketed as a "safe solution for unloading bins." The new sweeps were safe for workers, and they were manufactured for both small bins and large commercial operations.

"The Daay Bin Sweep is designed to be fully submersed in grain and can unbury itself from a grain avalanche," according to marketing materials used for the sweep. "The sweep is engineered to the most current specifications in the industry. There are no dangerous augers to worry about and it simply moves the grain with flexible rubber paddles."

After Sioux Steel's sweep went on the market, Prairie Land unveiled a sweep called the Bin Gator. The Illinois jury found that the Bin Gator copied the technology used to develop Sioux Steel's Daay Bin Paddle Sweep.

Murders and Rapes Down in Latest South Dakota Crime Report, DUIs Jump

joe@thedakotascout.com

The number of murders committed in South Dakota in 2021 fell by nearly half from the year prior, according to the latest crime report released by the Attorney General's Office Wednesday.

Attorney General Mark Varago's 207-page Crime in South Dakota 2021 Report found that there were 19 homicides reported by law enforcement agencies throughout the state last year, compared to 35 reported in 2020. That's a 45 percent decrease.

Forcible rape reports also dropped from 2020 to 2021. There were 448 forcible rapes reported in 2021 compared to 499 in 2020.

Drug arrests also fell year-over-year by 15 percent, and by 25 percent in the past five years, according to the report.

But not all crime types fell in 2021.

Driving under the influence offenses, for instance, were up by 12 percent last year when 5,654 DUI arrests were made throughout the state. There were 5,036 DUI arrests in 2020.

Crimes considered less serious, like bad check writing, non-violent family offenses and disorderly conduct, which are categorized together in the report, were also up by a combined 21 percent in the report.

"Criminal statistics are an indispensable asset to aid in identifying trends in criminal activity," Interim Director of the Division of Criminal Investigation Chad Mosteller said in a news release publicizing the report. "And that helps law enforcement officers and agencies in their efforts to keep South Dakota communities safe."

In total, South Dakota law enforcement agencies reported a total of 38,160 arrests involving 69,277 offenses in 2021. More serious offenses accounted for 15,210 of those arrests.

Dakota 38 + 2 Final Ride

SMSU Article
smsu.edu

Dakota 38+2 Wokiksuye Ride is a 330-mile journey that began on Dec. 9, 2022 in Lower Brule, So. Dak., and ended on Dec. 26, 2022 in Mankato, Minn. Wokiksuye means to remember.

The Dakota 38+2 Wokiksuye Ride began in 2005 following a dream of Jim Miller of Porcupine, So. Dak., to ride to the site where 38 Dakota men were hanged on Dec. 26, 1862, the largest mass execution in U.S. history. The '+2' refers to the two Dakota chiefs who fled to Canada and were tracked down for execution. The purpose of the sacred horse ride is to carry the message of reconciliation and healing through love, forgiveness for the trauma caused by the mass execution, and exile of the Dakota people from their homeland.

The journey is long and the weather is brutal. Temperatures in the Marshall area on Dec. 20 were +3°F at midday with wind chills of -21°F. The horses and their riders traveled along the roadside moving across the vast prairie, as their ancestors did 160 years ago. People of the Oceti Sakowin, or People of the Seven Council Fires, make up the majority of the riders.

This is the final year as the riders and support staff will retire at the conclusion of this sacred journey. In a statement from the Dakota 38+2 Wokiksuye Ride, "The decision to end the ride under this staff came through long periods of prayer and understanding that the sacrifice of the riders and the horse nation has been accepted."

Polar Express 2022

The third annual Polar Express, through the Belle Fourche Chamber of Commerce pressed forward, with its postponement due to the storm Diaz, known as a “generational storm”.

With over two feet of snowfall, the scheduled Polar Express, for December 16-17 was forced to postpone. Even with no snowfall the week of Christmas the blizzard continued, with substantial wind, dangerous low temperatures, creating hazardous road conditions with statewide “no travel” advisories.

Unfortunately many Christmas activities, in Belle Fourche, were canceled and patrons will try again in the 2023 Christmas season. Fortunately, there was a break in the weather and with the enormous help from the Belle Fourche Public Works and Mother Nature’s lungs finally were tired, our streets were cleared for December 29th and 30th. Belle Fourche Chamber of Commerce, COWBOYS TOO, Santa Claus, and Slade Hansen (the Polar Express Conductor) from the Hitching Post Tap House, forged forward with four routes through Belle Fourche, on a Prairie Hills Transit bus, last Thursday and Friday.

Visitors of the Polar Express met at COWBOYS TOO! (506 State Street) They were greeted by the conductor and visited Santa Claus. While waiting for their bus to arrive, they shopped and ate cookies inside COWBOYS TOO!

It was a great time to visit and chat about Christmas and all the happenings and hopes for 2023. Even though it was ideal to have the Polar Express before Christmas, there were two groups of families happy for the postponement. Families didn’t have a chance to gather until after Christmas, which made grandparents excited to board the Polar Express bus with their grandchildren on December 29th and 30th.

After the Conductor punched their The Polar Express ticket, boarded the bus, and the Conductor shouted “Aaaaaall Abooooooard”, the driver drove off onto State Street with the passengers.

The tour is a 45 minute drive through Belle Fourche viewing Christmas lights of our community. Yes, many houses took advantage of the 40+ degree weather and took down their Christmas lights but there were several die-hard Christmas fans whose houses were lit up. It was a splendorous sight to behold. Twinkling lights, snow blanketed lawns, with still, lit Christmas trees to be seen in living room windows. This almost sold out event for the third year in a row has created wonderful memories and will be a “Come to Christmas in Belle Fourche” tradition for years to come.

Thank you to Belle Fourche Chamber of Commerce, COWBOYS TOO!, Black Hills Santa: West River’s Authentic Santa & Mrs Claus and St Nicholas, Hitching Post Tap House, Prairie Hills Transit, and to all the purchased tickets.

We believe everyone is looking forward to the summer events with warmer weather. If you would like to know more about the upcoming Belle Fourche Chamber of Commerce events call (605) 892-2676, visit them at 509 Grant Street, Belle Fourche, SD.

The Twelve Days of Christmas Revisited

Meg English
news@bellefourchebeacon.com

Christmas traditions are hard to explain.

Imagine this conversation between a grandparent and precocious four-year-old child 60 years from now:

Child: Did Santa Claus come down your chimney when you were a child in Belle Fourche? Did he bring lots of presents?

Grandparent: (Thinking fast) Ah, yes, sure of course he did. But he didn't come down the chimney in those days...Ah my first Santa sighting was on Black Friday...that's it...he was riding on a float and throwing out candy at, I mean to all the kids in the light up the night parade...

Child: What's Black Friday?

Grandparent: Why it was the day after Thanksgiving! (growing nostalgic) Black Friday was the biggest shopping day ever. People went crazy shopping for the best deals no matter what it cost...

Child: Why was it called Black Friday?

Grandparent: (speechless, changes subject) Well here in Belle Fourche we shopped locally, at least we tried too, and we had our own celebration, a parade, community chili feed, horse drawn carriage rides...

Child: That sounds fun, but what did you do between Thanksgiving and Christmas?

Grandparent: Well we kept shopping for gifts of course. After we spent hours waiting in line to pay for the gifts we would head home to spend more hours wrapping gifts in festive colored paper! Believe me, there was plenty for to be done in those days!

Child: Wasn't it Santa's job to make gifts and bring them to all the children?

Grandparent: Ah, yes, Santa brought gifts too. (Changing subject) Don't forget that we had lots of parties to go too, Christmas concerts, and oh the calories! Oh and we also went to church!

Child: Why?

Grandparent: To celebrate the baby Jesus, of course and to sing carols about holly and ivy, Good King Wenceslas, trees, Christmas pudding and marinated Boar's head.

Child: (Confused) What's marinated boar's head?

The dialogue goes on...

Contemporary Christmas traditions are often difficult to explain. Many are derived from traditions past that are no longer meaningful in a modern context. Others are the result of practical adaptations.

In the northern hemisphere, there is at least one common feature of Christmastime. It's dark. The days are short. The winter solstice occurs on December 21st and by the 25th, the days are growing longer and this too is good reason for celebration.

Many of our more obscure traditions can be traced back to Tudor times in England. Five hundred years ago, Advent was time of abstinence and fasting, similar to lent today.

The Christmas season began on Christmas day and lasted for 12 days ending on the epiphany on January 6 the day the Magi arrived in Bethlehem.

After a long month of fasting, people were ready to party.

Each of the twelve days is associated with a specific tradition although generally the twelve days of Christmas was a time for games, letting go, eating, and drinking.

During the long winter nights spirits were said to walk the earth so naturally ghost stories told around the fireplace on Christmas Eve was a popular way to begin the holiday.

Father Christmas, a precursor of Santa personified Christmas, left gifts of bread and spread goodwill. A character who presided over Christmas was the Lord of Misrule. His role was to perform pranks and upset the social order, mainly for fun. Because it was the Christmas season, jokes and pranks on one another were tolerated.

Regarding food, there was not a firm demarcation between sweet and savory. Mince pies, for example were really mince-meat pies with finely chopped suet and spices. Some currents or fruit might have been included.

A popular main dish was brawn (head cheese) made of a boar's head. Boned and stuffed with ground meat, boiled in wine, the full head including tusks was served on a platter with an apple in its mouth. The boar's head was a main dish served and it came with a ceremonious boar's head song as it was presented.

Peacock and swan were also stuffed and served.

The final day of Christmas was twelfth night. Supposedly this was the largest feast of all.

Most of these delicacies were prepared and paid for by the royal households. Anything that was not eaten was distributed outside the palace gates. These gifts of food to the poor were called "alms".

For whatever it's worth, in the modern world we celebrate Christmas before the December 25th. In Tudor times, Christmas was celebrated after the 25th. Many ancient traditions come and go, but the dark nights of winter have remained the same.

Alms for the Poor-Etching of the poor gathering outside the castle walls to collect "alms" free left-over food.

Boar's head image. "The boar's head in hand bring I/Bedeck'd with bays and rosemary./ I pray you, my masters, be merry." Lyrics from the Boar's Head Carol sung in a ceremony in royal courts as the Boar's head was delivered to the table.

NEWELL – Saturday, January 7, will showcase a who new variety of products and craftsmen and women at the NVN Senior Center, according to organizer Patty Kayras.

On Saturday, December 3, in cooperation with those attending the Newell Festival of Trees, there was an option to shop at the NVN Senior Center. Hand-made gifts from hand-crafted wooden items to paintings, and specialty mugs were on display. Other offerings included flea market style items that were too good a deal to pass up.

Adam Burgess of Belle Fourche displayed and sold some fine quality artwork including chalks and charcoals.

"I was lucky enough to have the owners of American West Restaurant (now Los Agave) display and allow me to sell some of my stuff there," said Burgess. His artwork takes literally hours to create the fine detail, so he supplements that endeavor with different wood crafts, including everything from crosses, to cutting boards, to gun racks. The young man takes custom orders on the woodwork and will create personalized pieces.

Burgess's mother, Debra Bankston, an artist in her own right, creates some unique pieces of macrame, a craft style from years ago that is making a comeback. They will both be present on the first Saturday in January.

Seth Knutson, grandson of Donna Knutson of Vale, displayed his custom-created wooden flags. Each one is unique as they are not mass-produced and can be personalized with names, initials and colored stripes representing military, police, fire department members or emergency services.

His grandma hosted his vendor table with him, showing her diamond art. "I'll do custom pieces for anyone who has a request," said Donna of her artwork. She showed some special holiday artwork, including a beautiful Christmas tree.

"I have a lot of new vendors with totally new crafts coming in from all over," said Kayra. Several of those new vendors include: Chelon Fichter of Hermosa, who will be making varieties of roasted nuts on site. Michelle Verbeck will be showcasing Frachteling, which is wood fracturing done with electricity. Chris Tripp of Belle Fourche will be bringing his die-cast car collection. This young man and his family have been involved in highlighting NEWELL – K Bar J Leather celebrated 20 years of doing business in Newell last year. And it was the final year with Rick and Kelly Gully as owners. But the new owner, Jay Olson, of Belle Fourche, and the Gullys are no strangers.

“We (Jay and his wife Abby) purchased K Bar J Leather from Buck and Kelly Gully in August of 2022,” said Jay. “The Gully’s have been long time friends; Jack and I have spent many years riding around together day-working for area ranches as well as for each other. They have been great mentors in many ways and we are truly blessed to still have them close by as a great asset for help and knowledge as we carry on the business that they put so much hard work into to make into the successful operation it is today.

Olson grew up on a family-owned ranch near Fruitdale, with his parents working as a contract act for PRCA rodeos, and Jay and Abby rodeoing in college. He later rode saddle broncs in the PRCA until the couple started their family, which consists of two boys, Jory and Jace. "My grandparents were also a great influence in our life and Abby was raised on a farm and horse outfit from Hazel where they raised Driftwood-bred horses."

The Olson's plan to continue the good service that K Bar J is known for and most former customers are still on board.

"We provide leather goods (which we ship) around the country; from day planners and breast collars to chaps," said the new owner. "We have many products that we sell but we are primarily a chap company."

Olson said he and his wife love the western way of life. People from all walks of life utilize their products, where in the show pen or a working cow boy, their customers are people they can relate to.

"We had been hashing around about a business to start or purchase that fit our personal likes and we could really enjoy doing the rest of our lives and K Bar is what we kept coming back to. We both love the products and could stand behind its quality and the atmosphere of the shop. I mentioned this to Jack one day and here we are," said Jay. Olson said it is definitely a family business, with his job handling the day-to-day operations at the shop and Abby doing all the accounting.

“Our crew at the shop, several of which have been there for the past 20 years, make it all work,” he said. “They are a very neat group of people that I spend a lot of time with and I trust immensely. They are my shop family.”

Olson said what makes K Bar J unique is that the employees take great pride in what they do, with every pair of chaps, every lasered award, every item that leaves the shop was built by someone who wants to see a quality item go out and be appreciated.

"We build quality leather goods for the equine industry," he said. "Every day is a special event." The company can build custom prizes or gifts, and the store also carries a line of Red Horse Design purses and other items built by Kelly Gully.

The Olson's sons even come in and work in the shop, helping lace chaps. During the last couple of storms, his mother, Judy, came into the shop to help them get caught up.

Contact can be made via the shop at 605-456-1332, email at kjleather@sdplains.com, or on Facebook at K Bar J Leather Company. They are open Mon-cars locally for years and years. The family runs the AMC Museum on State Street in Belle Fourche. Local Newell high school senior, Asiah Schaefer, will be bringing in iron products that she has welded. Pam Kinsella will have quilts and wood ornaments. Adrienne Greene of Belle Fourche will have mugs and cups of all varieties available for sale and Kayleigh Gatzke will have cotton candy for sale. Part of the fun of the monthly market is the train whistle blowing and those in attendance knowing a door prize is about to be won. Each door prize is provided by one of the vendors.

At the most recent market in December Kristin Black of Spearfish won a joke mug from Theresa Huck with her “Out of Space Crafting” booth personalized items. As promised when she began this last fall, Kayras has provided a series of new vendors and craft and specialty items and will continue to do so the first Saturday of each month at the NVN Senior Center.

The Olson family isn't all about work, however. In their free time they like to rope and help neighbors do cattle work.

The boys rodeo and they spend hours during the summer following the sport.

“Abby and I also serve on the committees for the Butte County 4-H Rodeo and the Belle Jackpot Association summer series,” said Olson.

Our son Guy and his three boys stayed here on the Monday after Christmas to help these guys cut up and wrap the beef from the two cows they butchered last week. With Casey, Taz, Trig and Reub also helping cut them up, it took eight hours of hard work, but the freezers are full now and Guy and the boys headed back to Wyoming that night.

Tricia and Cody Herman are the proud parents of another baby boy. Jack Gary Herman was born in Rapid City on December 23, weighing 7 lbs. 5 oz. and he is 19 ¾ inches long. He joins a big brother Jacob who is tickled to have a new playmate. Congratulations!

Tuesday was absolutely beautiful here with a high of almost 50 degrees and no wind. I turned my chickens outside and they had a great time playing in the melting snow and eating horse biscuits. Taz and Trig had a good day to be doing a carpenter job up at Polly Markgard’s place east of Reeder.

There were three more deaths to report this week. Edward “Ed” J. Miller, 84, of rural Scranton, passed away on Monday, December 19. Mass of Christian Burial for Ed was Thursday, December 29, at the St. Charles Catholic Church in Bowman with burial in the Vessey Cemetery in Harding County.

Pauline Doe, 98, formerly of Reeder, passed away on Wednesday, December 21, at St. Luke’s Home in Dickinson. Funeral services for Pauline were Wednesday, December 28, at Our Savior’s Lutheran Church in Reeder with burial in Rose Hill Cemetery at Reeder. We weren’t able to make it to the funeral because Reub couldn’t get the feeding done in time, but we did make it to Hettinger that afternoon to pick up a bunch of stuff we needed from Runnings and White Drug. It a really nice day and we stopped to have coffee with the Prairie Pioneers in Reeder on the way home.

Dennis Hathaway’s cousin, Ben Ruby, 82, of Newell and formerly from Zeona, died December 23, at Monument Health in Sturgis. Visitation and prayer service for Ben is on Friday, January 06 at Kinkade Funeral chapel in Sturgis at 2:00 PM - 4:00 PM with burial at a later date in the Ruby cemetery north of Zeona.

Casey went to Buffalo for the wrestling tournament Thursday morning and Taz and Amanda went to the Hills to get some stuff while Grandma Louise Jensen kept the little people at her house. Trig went skiing with his friends over the weekend in the Black Hills.

Taz and Amanda and the kids left after chores Friday morning to go to Bismarck for the Jensen family Christmas at Amanda’s sister Josi’s house and all the rest of their family were there too. They all stayed overnight up there and Taz and Knox came home Saturday evening to help with chores Sunday morning. Amanda and the girls got home later on Sunday.

Casey and Missy went to Buffalo to celebrate New Year’s Eve with Lynette and Troy Stugelmeyer. The deer hunters that were here over the weekend left for Wisconsin that evening and Reub and I stayed home and went to bed early. It’s amazing how your plans to celebrate change as you get older!

Pastor Henry and Linda Mohagen were still up in North Dakota visiting their family so Eric Schuchard’s father, Craig Mickelson, gave the sermon in church on New Year’s Day Sunday. Amanda Schuchard and Bev Heier brought lunch to the church afterwards so Craig and his wife Irene could head back to Aberdeen from the church.

They invited a bunch of us to stay and have lunch with them so Reub and I and a lot of other folks stayed to enjoy the good food.

My Norwegian Great Grandmother Caroline (Kjos) Hallan lived with us in Prairie City when I was just a little kid and Grandma Hallan followed her Norwegian tradition by her and my mother cleaning the whole house, which wasn’t that big, on New Year’s Eve so they didn’t take any dirt into the New Year. I wasn’t very old, but my younger sister and I even had to help them. My Scottish, German, Irish and English blood makes me think that I just like going to bed early instead of staying up half the night to finish cleaning the house.

Hope you all had a Happy New Year!

C.J. “Shorty” Schroeder, who has been engaged in the trucking business at Newell for the past 35 years, announced this week that he is discontinuing such business effective January 1 and will dispose of his truck and permit. Schroeder, who came from Minnesota and homesteaded at Castle Rock in 1926, was employed by the Bureau of Reclamation as a truck driver for 9 years before entering the trucking business. He purchased the large barn just south of the Newell City limits in 1938 and has resided in Newell since.

A highly recommended “must” for the holiday season is an early evening tour around Newell. A view of some of the most attractively decorated homes – trees outside as well as those reflected from the inside – will give your spirits a lift and afford a reflection on the significance of Christmas. Congratulations to those families who have added this touch of beauty to the city.

Plans for a skating party to be held December 30 at 7:30 PM at the Breidenbach Ranch were made at a meeting of the Horse Creek 4-H Sheep Club last Monday night at the Gary Ollila home. Invited were the Prairie Pals, Newelletes, Prairie Pinafores, Western Range Management and Westerners Home Economics Club members with each club to bring hot dogs and cups for their own members. The host club will furnish drinks. Gary Ollila gave a talk on breeds of sheep popular in South Dakota and why. The next meeting will be January 21 at 7:00 PM at the home of Bud and Billy Rank.

Members of the Pollyanna Extension Club held a Christmas party for their husbands at the home of Mr. & Mrs. Albert Fredlund Friday with 15 members and their husbands and 2 guests, Mr. & Mrs. Ragner Boe. A most enjoyable evening was spent playing games, singing carols, gift exchange and a short skit “Ma & Pa Kettle” presented by Marietta Kimball and Doris Smeenk. At the close of the entertainment, all enjoyed a pot-luck supper.

Most homes in Newell this year for the Christmas season, are brightly decorated with lighted windows, doorways, porches and outdoor evergreens trees, dominate most Newell homes this year. The most attractive of all Christmas set-ups, however, is the cave scene at St. Mary’s Catholic church, which local Pastor Father J.A. Major announced may be viewed by any persons or children interested . Such scene, patterned after what was believed the first of the Christ Child in a cave by St. Francis of Assisi in the year 1200, is one which Fr. Major has been erecting in his parishes for the past 28 years and while a Chaplain in the military. Your attention is drawn to the special lighting, animated crèche scene including “snow” in the crevasses of the cave. The church doors will remain unlocked for anyone who wishes to view the special manager scene.

A press dispatch of December 22, from “somewhere in Australia” brings news that First Lieut. John G. Glover was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action, along with 5 other heroes in the southwest Pacific War Zone. John G. Glover was born at Vale, a son of Mr. & Mrs. John Glover, early-day residents to there. Lieut. Glover was a pilot of a P-40 fighter in a formation which attacked the Japanese Base at Buna, New Guinea, on August 25, at which time he destroyed 8 to 10 enemy planes on the ground, silenced a gun position and set a gasoline dump on fire.

Newell witnessed 2 pretty wedding ceremonies: Miss Marian Janke, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. E. L. Janke, became the bride of Rodney Winkler son of Mr. & Mrs. George Winkler, performed at the Congregational church by Rev. Glenn VanVactor. They will make their home in the house recently built by the groom on the George Winkler farm, the other wedding; John Riggs son of Mr. & Mrs. Jasper Riggs, east of Horse Creek was united in marriage to Miss Ethel Heston, of Kennebec. The bride is a teacher at the Fairview School, east of Newell, graduate of Kennebec High School and Southern State Normal at Springfield. The young couple will live on a farm on Horse Creek, west of Newell where the groom is engaged in farming operations with his father. Both young couples received many useful gifts and profound well wishes from the community.

Provisions of South Dakota law will bar motorists from purchasing 1933 license plates in instances where they failed to buy licenses for their dogs in 1932, it was revealed at the County Treasurer’s office this week when the tax on dogs became delinquent, August 1, the delinquencies were turned over to the treasurer and added to the list of unpaid personal taxes in his office. A provision of the state law provides that all personal taxes must be paid before a license plate can be issued for automobiles. The new dog license law includes unpaid licenses as personal taxes.

Feature basketball game is announced for Friday evening, December 3 on the Newell High School gymnasium floor, when the home alumni will play a team composed of former high school stars that are in college and are home for the holiday vacation. This is an annual event and those who remember last year’s game will recall that it was necessary to play several overtime periods before the game was finally won by the college students. The college men will have in their lineup: Uno Strong, John Henry Schipke, Russell Ekstrom, Earl and Randall Smith, and Francis Quinn. The home alumni will include Walter and Clarence Milberg, Russell Body, Arne Ranta, Leonard Quinn and Palmer Varland. The game will began promptly at 8 o’clock, an admission charge of 10 cents for children and 25 cents for adults will be made to cover the cost of lights and heat.

Before the typists can pass the semester, they have to make 20 words a minute. Those who have made there 20 words are: Paul Esmay, Dorothy Getty, Ellen Falk, Roy Larson, Leo Doody, Phyllis Schell, Lavina Wilson, Daniel Wood, Elvera Ypparila, Edith Eichler, Eleanor Ito Alma Falk, Bertha Siebenchicher, Leonard Wilson and Lucille Price.

Gus Marks received a vicious blow in the face from an iron bar which he was using to open a freight-car door that was frozen shut at the depot yesterday. Dr. Mitchell found it necessary to take a few stitches in Gus’s cheeks.

The program and dance at the Mule Creek school house Friday night was well attended. All were delighted with the splendid entertainment the children afforded them. Too much cannot be said of the teamwork and interest taken by both teacher and pupils. Early that day, Fred Scott made a hurried trip to Newell for supplies, and ably returned in time for

The smuggler of drugs has many tricks and wiles whereby he evades the law and introduces his wares into our community. A favorite method is to use artificial flowers for concealing cocaine, opium and other drugs. One consignment of opium was smuggled through the stalks of artificial poppies, while cocaine has been found in violets. Vegetables are even more satisfactory from the smuggler's point of view; a vial of "snow" can be concealed in a hollowed potato, pepper, meat sausages, etc. We must keep a watchful eye to detect these things.

owners have found it necessary to form rat clubs to combat the rat problem. Rewards are offered for the killing of more than a certain number. Hunting, trapping and poisoning are the common modes of operation.

J.H. Christian has recently bought the merchandise from the Fair Store at Belle Fourche and you can get most anything you want for a song. China, crockery, overalls, lace curtains, and 20 thousand articles can be purchase within.

Mr. C.A. Maures, a horseshoer, recently of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is now employed at L.H. Dunn's shop. Business is increasing each month and consequently Mr. Dunn will build an addition to the rear of the present shop, 24' x40' with galvanized steel and cement floor, to be completed by March 1. A cold roll disc sharpener and a "scientific" cold tire setter will be installed with machinery already in the shop; will give Newell the most up-to-date shop in the Black Hills trade area.

NEWELL-A zoning variance was given to Kim Richards for the construction of a new garage. The building will be larger than the garage damaged by fire earlier. Richards explained that the new building will follow the same east/west lines but be larger to the north and south. Ordinance 08-2022 Supplemental Appropriations Ordinance, was given final approval. The General Fund was funded by using an insurance payment and undesignated cash balances. The Museum Memorial was funded from the Museum Memorial Fund Grant. The Liquor Fund was appropriated another $40,000 to balance and Undesignated Cash Fund was appropriated to the Sewer Fund. The council discussed having Financial Officer Sheila Smith begin paying some bills online. She will submit a vendor list at the next meeting for the commissioners to vote on and approve.

City Foreman Larry Parker told the council that he was available to clear alleys for propane delivery or other emergencies. The alleys are usually left until all other streets are cleared, but he is available for emergencies. City meetings will begin to be held on the second Monday of each month at 5 p.m. instead of 6 p.m. This allows citizens the opportunity to attend city meetings and school board meetings that are held on the same night.

VALE – The Vale community club sponsored and encouraged club members and community individuals to bring their vehicle decorated for their annual Trunk or Treat event on Saturday, October 29. The event officially ran from 4-5 but children started showing up by 3:45 and waited for the people to get set up. There was a total of 11 vendors set up around the perimeter of the parking area outside of the community center. The weather was beautiful, and each trunk or treater set up with trunks or hatches or pickup bed tailgates down. Many were beautifully decorated with fall and Halloween-oriented themes and most of the individuals were dressed in costume.

Cooper Hanson was dressed as a doctor and was the youngest person to have a trunk decorated as a medical facility. He was giving "physicals," and if he couldn't hear the person's heartbeat with his stethoscope he was prepared to give CPR. He demonstrated on his "Nana," Diana Bauer. Others with decorated trunks included the Leo Club, manned by Megan Jackson and her cousin Rachel Banks. Grandma and grandpa Ken and Donna

Wetz also had a trunk set up on the back of their pickup. Nancy Haigh and her mother Judy Oilila also had a booth set up and Nancy's dog, dressed as a fish, was also helping out. More than 17 children traveled from booth to booth around the parking lot. Three members of First National Bank handed out goodie bags, volunteering their time away from the bank. Various others in the community set up for this fun and free event, paying for their own candy and decorations so that neighborhood children could come and have a great time.

An 11-member choir, along with pianist/vocalist Marty Jump, pianist Travis Smeenk, narrator Laurie Parker and director Tom Martin, performed "Carols and Classics," for the public on Friday, December 30. - Brunner photo
