Lifesaving Award Goes to Two BFPD Officers

In the early morning hours of Feb. 22, the 9-1-1 call came in regarding a resident experiencing severe chest pains. It was 5am and the conditions could best be described as a mid-winter blizzard. The dispatcher immediately sent out a call to the police department and local ambulance.

Police Officers Asher Pikula and Heath Harter arrived on the scene just a few minutes later and found the resident laying down, unresponsive. There was no heart rate, and no breathing.

Immediately they set up their Automated External Defibrillator (AED) which they carry in their police cruiser and began resuscitation efforts. The officers, with their paramedic and EMT training were in the right place as the right time, according to Police Chief Ryan Cherveny. Their quick actions saved the 66-year old man's life.

"They used the AED's right away to shock him back, and continued to use CPR with chest compressions and were able to revive him and bring him back," Cherveny told the Beacon. Cherveny says all the BFPD police cruisers carry an AED device.

AEDs are portable, life-saving devices designed to treat people experiencing sudden cardiac arrest, a medical condition in which the heart stops beating suddenly and unexpectedly. The combination of CPR and early defibrillation is effective in saving lives when used in the first few minutes following a collapse from sudden cardiac

An ambulance had by then arrived and the resident was transported to the emergency room for further care and recovery.

Both officers were presented with Community Lifesaving Award certificates from the city of Belle Fourche at the City Council meeting on Mar. 6. The awards were given by Mayor Randy Schmidt and Chief Cherveny.

"This certificate is given in recognition of your efforts on Feb. 22, 2023, in which your observations and immediate actions resulted in the lifesaving of an individual who was in a life-threatening situation," Cherveny said while making the presentation. "That individual is here today because of what you two did."

The council along with citizens and family in attendance gave the officers a standing ovation.

Mayor Schmidt then read a letter of appreciation from the resident whose life was saved by the officer's actions:

"In the state of the nation that we currently live in police are not always shown in a positive light. These officers here tonight and the Belle Fourche Police Department as a while, led by Police Chief Ryan Cherveny, are a great example of what is right in the world today. They are a department that the city of Belle Fourche and every citizen that lives here should hold up and be proud of. Heath Harter and Asher Pikula's actions in the early morning hours of Wednesday, Feb. 22, under severe winter weather conditions, saved my life. They will tell you that they were 'simply doing their job,' which is true. However not everybody's job can hold the life of somebody else in their hands. And it is fitting that Heath and Asher receive recognition from the city of Belle Fourche as heroes and lifesavers."

For officers Pikula and Harter it was their second such award in the past two months. In January, they, along with Detective Jason Huber, were given the Community Lifesaving Award for saving the life of another area resident experiencing cardiac arrest during an incident on Dec. 2, 2022.

Hot Shots Brings New Eats and Treats

news@belle four chebeacon.com

There is a new place to satisfy your sweet tooth in Belle Fourche!

Previously operating as a drive thru only, Greg Mondilllo held a grand opening for Hot Shots Ice Cream shop this January.

Hot Shots ice cream is homemade in the store, where a variety of unique and delicious flavors can be found. "I like coming up with unique flavors of ice cream," says Mondillo, "therefore our homemade ice cream flavors rotate. Our current flavors can be found on our website and Facebook page." Another of Mondillo's prospective projects is wine sorbets for adults, which he hopes to have available in time for the ice cream season.

In addition to ice cream, Hot Shots serves Italian ice and fudge, both also made in store, as well as homemade waffle cones and bowls.

But there is more to Hot Shots than just treats. "In addition to the sweet things, we also serve coffee and specialty drinks," explains Mondillo, "Our latest specialty drink is Boba Tea. We have tapioca boba as well as popping lychee, blueberry, and mango boba."

Mondillo says that the idea for Hot Shots Ice Cream has been on his mind since he came to Belle Fourche over a decade ago. "Back East where my family and I came from, I owned a seafood and ice cream restaurant and attended culinary school. I also ran a large kitchen at a hospital in Boston," he explains. "When I came to Belle Fourche, about 11 years ago, I was thinking of opening an ice cream, fudge, and coffee shop." The closure of the Belle Inn prompted Mondillo to begin looking for a location for his potential business, which he eventually found at the building on the corner of 5th and Grant.

For those looking for something a little more substantial, Hot Shots also offers pastries and lunch specials. "Being a chef, I enjoy making and serving lunch foods like sandwiches, soups, chili, burritos, and more at Hot Shots. Our caramel rolls and scones will soon be joined by muffins and bagels."

Hot Shots is open from 7 a.m. - 5 p.m. Sunday through Wednesday, and 7 a.m. - 8 p.m. Thursday through Sunday at 603 5th Ave.

Gwen Anderson Healy 67

Gwen Anderson Healey, 67, of Hot Springs, South Dakota, passed away peacefully on March 6, 2023 at Edgewood Memory Care in Pierre, South Dakota after a long battle with vascular dementia.

Gwen was born on September 26, 1955 and was raised in Newell, South Dakota as the only daughter of Dale Bernard Anderson and Clarice Katheryn Wiest (Anderson). From a young age, Gwen developed a passionate love for music and a deep devotion to her faith. After graduating from Newell High School in 1973, she attended Black Hills State University and pursued a degree in Music Education.

While spending a summer in Grand Junction, CO, Gwen met Daniel Michael Healey and the two were married on September 3, 1977 in a small, backyard ceremony in Spearfish, SD. Dan and Gwen spent the early years of their marriage in Spearfish, SD; Pittsfield, MA; and Newell, SD. Gwen found work as an office manager for Northern Hills Insurance in Spearfish, and later as an Assistant Music Teacher for the Newell school system. After starting their family in the northern Black Hills, Dan and Gwen eventually settled in Hot Springs where Gwen began a new career with VA Black Hills Health Care System before eventually retiring in 2014. Throughout her life, Gwen remained deeply devoted to her family, her faith, and her music. She was an active member of the Catholic Church, offering her time and talents as a leader of the Youth Choir and Youth Group, a vocalist and accompanist for Sunday services both at St. Anthony's and the VA Catholic chapel, and enthusiastically playing the trumpet for the closing hymn "Jesus Christ Has Risen Today" at Easter mass every year. Gwen also participated in the Hot Springs Community Band, and together with Carol Foster, was a founding member of the Sandstone Singers, who continue to offer their musical talents to the Southern Black Hills today. When not serving her church, the veterans, or the community, Gwen stayed busy taking care of her family and being super mom to her children while making it all look easy.

After retirement, Gwen and Dan could frequently be seen out and about cruising the Black Hills in their little red Mazda Miata, spending countless hours meeting new friends and sharing their love of music at festivals, open mics, jam sessions, or anywhere else an opportunity could be found.

Gwen is survived by her son, Dale (Kristina) Healey of Pierre, SD; her daughter, Kara (Connor) Kelly of Phoenix, AZ; two brothers, Jeff (Marti) Anderson of Colorado Springs, CO and Joel Anderson of Edmonds, WA; her granddaughter Lydia; and countless family and friends both near Gwen's children would like to extend their heartfelt thanks and appreciation to the outstanding staff at Edgewood Memory Care, including Kenya Briggs, Casey and Cassidy Ryland, Violet Bollock, Kathleen Van Fossen, Jennifer Terry, Jessica McFarling, Mauna Wipf, Jhetta Nelson, Rylie Miller, Joel Johnson, Andrew DeGreef, Alex Remark, and Jennifer Weyrich who offered their unending love and support to Mom in her final years of life. We can never thank you all enough.

Christian Funeral Mass will be held at St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Hot Springs, South Dakota on Monday, April 24, 2023 at 10:00 a.m.

Pastor's Perspective

This week's Pastor's Perspective is provided by: Pastor Dan Carlson Belle Fourche Christian Life Center has been telling humanity about for thousands of years. Signs of war, signs of an economic collapse

"Predicting the Future" From 1992 through 2004 I was a meteorologist at KEVN-TV in Rapid City. It was a job I enjoyed. Much of that enjoyment came from figuring out what the weather was going to do around the Black Hills over the next week, no easy task in what one of my meteorology professors called "one of the most challenging forecasting environments in North America."

Over time, though, I became good at it. When people would ask me what my secret was, I told them, "I spend time each day outside the station up on Skyline Drive looking at what the sky and nature are telling me." There was abundant wildlife around the station back in those days, and I had a view of the sky that extended from the Badlands to Terry Peak and beyond.

God's creation is packed with useful information that too many people don't take time to take notice of or listen to. That information would often confirm or question what the weather computer models were predicting, and became an asset in my forecasting. I had learned what signs to look for that foretold impending storms or sunshine.

Today there are other signs I fear too many people are ignoring, signs of a coming event the Bible followed by restructuring into a global economy, signs of nature turning its power against humanity, and signs of great divisiveness and evil. The Bible says families will be torn apart, hearts will grow cold and that hatred, violence and unrest will become commonplace. It also says that many will fall away from Christian faith while others will embrace false religions, led astray by a great deception. One doesn't need to be a prophet to look at a few days of news headlines to see a lot of this is already underway. Jesus told us to be watchful for such signs in Luke 12:54-56 where he said, "When you see a cloud rising in the west, you say at once, 'A shower is coming.' And so it happens. And when you see the south wind blowing, you say, 'There will be scorching heat,' and it happens. You hypocrites! You know how to interpret the appearance of earth and sky, but why do you not know how to interpret the present time?" He was speaking about the end of this world as we know it and His coming again to vanquish evil once and for all. The Bible is clear that no one knows the day or hour of Christ's return to take His followers to be with Him for all eternity, but it is also clear that we can know what signs to look for that signal the event is getting closer. Pastor's Perspective Contd. A3 Local

Badlands Head Start Participates in 'Race to Read'

The annual "Race to Read" challenge offered by United Way/Black Hills Reads was enjoyed by TREC: Badlands Head Start (a comprehensive Early Learning and Support Program for prenatal to age five children and families). Badlands Head Start children and families read 7672 books, which equals 307 miles! Wow!! That is a lot of books! Tons of knowledge gained in a super fun way!! Congratulations to the families for reading to their kiddos!

According to Black Hills Reads, this program is offered every January through March to challenge readers, young and old, to record how many books they read. For every 25 books completed, a fictional car drove one miles on a road trip across South Dakota. Their challenge is a campaign for grade level reading. Their overall goal is to help children reach reaching proficiency and support partners in this process.. Half the battle of helping a child reach reading proficiency is getting the child excited about reading.

They also offer prizes for families and businesses to win. This year's local winner were the "Rockin' Bronc Readers at the Belle Fourche Elementary Schools.

In addition to the challenge Badlands HS celebrated Dr. Seuss birthday week, reading the books he wrote and all BHS classrooms and socials had a visit from the "Cat in the Hat". The "Cat" was also sighted at other venues in Belle Fourche community on Thursday, March 2, 2023.

This is just one way Badlands Head Start reaches out to promote the school readiness of infants, toddlers, and preschool-aged children, and preparing them to succeed in school and in life beyond

It would be very easy to despair, get depressed and angry over the direction things seem to be going in the world. But Jesus has overcome the world.

He reminded us that we would have troubles in life, but also gave us hope by declaring he will walk through each and every one of those challenges by our side – if we let Him.

It's time for us all to choose. We can go through what is coming with the God of the universe helping us, or without Him. The good news is that He will never turn away anyone who comes to Him with a sincere and repentant heart seeking salvation and forgiveness.

I ask you today to evaluate where you stand with God. If all is well in that regard, rejoice. If not, please don't delay in seeking help from a Belle Fourche church or pastor.

Look at the signs. Hard times are coming.

The Rockin' Bronc Reading Rally

Alyssa Frisbie

news@bellefourchebeacon.com

On March 2, South Park Elementary School held the Rockin' Bronc Reading Rally.

This rally celebrated reading with the help of the Belle Fourche High School Drumline, Buster the Bronc, and the Belle Fourche High School Cheerleaders.

The Cat in the Hat also made a special guest appearance. Because of a partnership with Black Hills Reads, this year Belle Fourche elementary schools joined a community driven reading challenge, as it emphasized the importance of early literacy in a fun way. Known as the Race to Read Challenge, this reading competition was orchestrated by Belle Fourche School District Librarian Karen Schlekeway and started on January 9th and ended on March 2nd.

The idea of the challenge was that readers around the region would "drive" a mile for every 25 books they read. Altogether, the miles determined how far their figurative book mobile traveled as they "raced" around the state. The Rockin' Bronc car traveled a little over 1,300 miles this year.

Every student was able to receive a bookmark and pencil, while every winning class received a custom Dr. Seuss ice cream cake from our local Dairy Queen, thanks to Black Hills Reads.

The overall winner, second grader Ariana Pugh, won a special reading gift for her efforts of reading a total of 467 books. The winning classes included Jordon Hanson's kindergarten class, Genine Mace's first grade class, Shelly Mikkelson's second grade class, Nicole Hayworth's third grade class, and Paula Janovy's fourth grade class.

The Rockin' Bronc Readers also won an award from Black Hills Reads for the overall number of books read. In total, they read 32,579 books and received a prize of $300.

Thank you to everyone who helped put this rally on and to Black Hills Reads for partnering with Belle Fourche elementary schools.

Congratulations to all of these amazing readers!

Show Up by Belle LaVenue

My, oh my, the Belle Fourche Rec Center Theater is starting to heat up - and faster than the current outdoor temperatures!

Our very own Belle Fourche Area Community Theater (BFACT) was featured on KEVN News this past week as they get ready to open the season with auditions for PRIDE & PREJUDICE. Derek Olson & Nathan Schreier encouraged both onstage and backstage participation in the interview segment which aired on Friday. It's exciting to think about a May start to a season that will include at least four shows, including a musical this summer which is yet to be announced. I am waiting to let all of our readers know what that July production will be!

SHOW UP

Here are three shows we are watching that are coming up for March, April, and May:

MARCH 17 & 18 @ 7 PM - Belle Fourche Middle School Theater presents PYRITE. This three act show moves through multiple generations - from the 1880s into the mysterious future. With an enthusiastic cast and crew of 48 students, the fool's gold promises to be rich entertainment.

APRIL 21 & 22 @ 7 PM, & 23 @ 2 PM at the Rec Center Theater - the Belle Fourche High School Theater program presents the classic and eternally popular musical, THE MUSIC MAN. The high school thespians and their directors, ToiLyn Flick, Nathan Schreier, and Micah Pennel have just started practices for this show that is full of familiar and famous music and characters. You will definitely want to send these show dates to your spring calendar!

Between the school shows, we expect to see community actors at the PRIDE AND PREJUDICE AUDITIONS on March 23rd at 7:30pm & March 25th at 2:30pm at the Rec Center Theater. According to the show director, Nathan Schreier, You do not need to bring anything for auditions, just yourself. If you have any questions, or are unable to make the audition date but still want to audition, message director@bellefourcheact.com or call 605.645.325. You will also want to put the show dates and times on your May calendar: MAY 12 & 13 at 7 PM and MAY 14th at 3 PM.

BF MIDDLE & HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS TEAMING UP with the BF FINE ARTS BOOSTERS for the TALENT & VARIETY SHOW on April 30th at the Belle Fourche Community Hall. Anything Left in the Barrel?

received encouragement and interest in our plan to incentivise subscriptions to the Beacon.

The desire to have a home town and area newspaper is strong and the support is appreciated.

This is the Beacon's first vocal effort to request and encourage readers to subscribe.

When you do so, would you be so kind as to tell us the 'why' you like and wish the Beacon to continue publishing local and area news and business happenings?

To some it has been the local sports, to others the sale barn reports. Whatever your reason, let us know what it is. *

The other question we would like reader feedback on is the effort to become a legal newspaper and provide the legal notices to the local populations.

Should the Belle Fourche Beacon continue its effort to try to obtain status as a legal newspaper for the City, School and County?

First step is to become eligible and then if available those local government entities annual designate a "legal" newspaper.

Our voluntary subscription price in our free delivery area will remain $30.

Then, for every one who pays the $30 subscription to the Beacon we will provide a $5 contribution to a community or area fundraising effort of the subscribers choice.

Together we can make this happen, and benefit local organizations for their continued good.

If your community, or organization would like to participate please email or contact the Beacon and we will add you to the list of choices.

This can include any group or community in our seven county delivery area in the Tri-State area that may wish to participate.

Thank you for your support of the Beacon and keeping local news a local benefit.

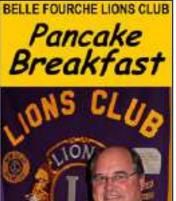

The Beacon has going since June of 2018 and when asked, "how's it going?" I usually respond, "the Beacon is a work in progress."

With a weekly newspaper, you only get to exist for 7 days, and each of those seven days there are tasks, obligations, and requirements that must be met.

So you only get to exist for seven days, but you get to repeat it 52 days, out j times a year.

Thank you for your support of the Beacon and we appreciate your becoming a subscriber. Thank you!

"The Tales of Marney Anderson"

Belle Fourche Writers

Marney Anderson is a 45-year-old white female of Scandinavian descent. Her 5' 10" tall, 160-pound frame shows her athletic body and love of outdoor activities including cross-country skiing and biking.

With long, straight blonde hair and blue eyes she is attractive in business suits or active

Marney was born and raised on a farm outside LaCrosse, WI. The oldest of seven children, three brothers and three sisters, Marney was expected to lead by example. She earned her Masters degree in Business Administration from the University of Minnesota, bringing her immense success as a sought-after City Administrator. She has lived in Illinois, Michigan, and Iowa before taking her new position in Sunnyside, at $250,000.00 per year. Marney loves the challenge that each new community brings to her goal of being the best in her chosen profession. Marney has never failed to succeed in achieving the goals each community set out for her.

In working her way up, the ladder of success, never spending more than three years in one community, she left behind her husband Arthur, who chose to stay in Iowa, working as a High School Principal. Marney has no doubts when it comes to her career, but hides the one thing she wishes she had been able to achieve.

Marney Anderson is indeed an accomplished woman. Confident and independent, she is glamorous, and successful in a man's world. The creation of Belle Fourche Writer, Joan Gerkin, Marney successfully inspired several of the group's writers to include her in a recent writing project.

In February of 2021, The BF Writers created a story writing challenge. The challenge was for writers to choose from a list of seven prescribed characters provided by members of the Belle Fourche Writers.

The challenge was open to the public and the object was to choose characters and create a story. Thus, the end result is a compilation of several stories about the same characters by different authors.

Marney Anderson was a popular choice for several of the writers, so it seemed fitting to present Marney's stories to the public. On March 7 at the Author Talks Series sponsored by the Matthews Opera House,-Joan Gerkin, Eric Beeman and Lynda Edwards shared their versions of Marney's story.

Belle Fourche Writers meets twice monthly at the Belle Fourche Public Library. They welcome new members. To be added to the mailing list for updates contact Meg English meg@bhsw.org or check out our facebook page https://www. facebook.com

Their next presentation is on March 28 at the Matthews Opera House when Jean Helmer reads from her work "Plains, Podiums, and Pulpits".

The Good Stuff

by Jim Thompson

Jim Thompson takes motivational stories that listeners and readers send him and incorporates them into the program. It has been on the air for more than 10 years.

From my friend Chris IsaacS..nothing much needs saying other than the introduction:

Cowboy Poet Chris Isaacs

I never saw the Old West It was gone before my time, Just the stories told by some old gray-haired

And the memories of those tellers Fed dreams for guys like Me Helped imagine how it must have been back then.

"Cuz I never saw the great cattle drives
Before fences cut the land.
Never saw the mighty herds of Buffalo.
Didn't see the Conestoga Wagons
Nor viewed the rivers running free
Before the dams that all but stopped their flow.

The Sioux and bold Apache
Who fought to halt the tide,
Were gone to reservation 'fore my time.
The outlaws and the bad men,
The lawmen bold and brave,
Were distant memories long before my prime.

The stagecoach and freight wagons
That transported folks and goods
Were replaced by trains and airplanes in my

I was still a young man when Armstrong Took that "giant leap for mankind" And proved that ol' Jules Vern had told the truth.

The Old West was just a memory When I was still a kid. Stories told by old men who'd lived it when still young.

They made it come alive for me, And those pictures in my mind That they painted rolled like honey off their tongue. But I was here to see some of the workings Before the old ways were all gone, Like a buckboard parked in front of a corner

With horses standing on three legs; Their tails swishing at the flies While the driver visited friends there by the door.

I remember when cattle still had the right of way

And grazed all up and down the road; When Arizona still had lots of open range. When team roping was still tie down And we'd never heard of Goose Necks And Cowboys in town didn't seem so strange.

And I saw the glow of a Brandin' Fire Made by Mesquite or Pinion coals Before the days of the noisy Butane blast. Calf tables and Burdizos Were still some years away And I thought the Tried and True would surely

But while I was lookin' backwards
And tryin' so hard to hang on
To a way of life that was changing every day,
The future overtook me;
Just ran roughshod up my back
In spite of anything that I could do or say.
And, I never saw the Old West,
It was gone before my time.
Just the stories told by those old gray-haired

Memories for the tellers, Dreams for guys like me, And I wish to God those times could come again.

Sippin' my early mornin' coffee and feelin' proud to have friends like Chris Isaacs, I'm Jim Thompson

Tilden Hooper, Nine-time NFR Qualifier, Sidelined with Neck Issues

Bareback rider Tilden Hooper, a nine-time qualifier for the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo, confirmed to ProRodeo. com he has been sidelined since the 2022 Wrangler National Finals Rodeo with neck issues that he's been dealing with for most of his career.

"I had (neck surgery) in 2012 and I have been managing it and doing the best I can," said Hooper, 35. "Obviously I have had years where it didn't bother me at all. I'm just going to take time off. It is just rest and rehab. That's pretty much where we are at right now."

Hooper has qualified for the NFR in 2008-09, 2011, 2014, 2018-22. He finished ninth in the 2022 PRCA | RAM World Standings with $188,477. He finished a career-best fourth in the 2021 world standings with $205,916. Hooper joined the PRCA in 2006.

"After the Finals (in December), once I started getting ready for this season, I realized everything wasn't firing the way it was supposed to," Hooper said. "The plan is to take time off and comeback stronger and better just like I have in the past. This is nothing I have not dealt with in the past."

Following neck surgery in October of 2012, Hooper returned to competition in late June or July of 2013. After making the NFR in 2014, Hooper missed the entire 2015 season with neck issues. He returned full-time to the PRCA in 2017 and in 2018 he started his run of five consecutive trips to the NFR.

"This isn't a new problem, just a different variation of an old problem," Hooper said. "We will get around it same as we have (before)."

United Way of the Black Hill's Race to Read Program a Huge Success

Rapid City, S.D. — The United Way of the Black Hills is pleased to announce the final numbers of a seven week long program put on by its Black Hills Reads initiative. Starting on Jan. 9 and ending on March 2, Race to Read challenged readers, young and old, to record how many books they read. For every 25 books completed, a fictional car drove one mile on a road trip across South Dakota. With a whopping 1,982 readers participating during the challenge's last week, the imaginary road-tripping car was able to put some serious miles behind it.

Hanna Glissendorf, the Director of Black Hills Reads, broke down the final numbers: "Our grand total is 58,750 books read statewide! Everyone read so many books that we 'drove' 2,350 miles around South Dakota and made it back to Rapid City."

To get readers excited about participating in the "road trip,"

Black Hills Reads offered mini-grants to organizations for hosting kick-off and celebration events. "Black Hills Reads gave out a total of seven mini-grants for community organizations to host their own Race to Read events totaling $1,950, Glissendorf reported. These organizations included Belle Fourche Elementary Schools, TREC: Badlands Head Start, Custer YMCA, Sturgis Public Library, Phoebe Apperson Hearst Library in Lead, Girls Inc. and a teacher at Meadowbrook Elementary.

Karen Schlekeway, the Belle Fourche School District Librarian, organized the reading efforts at her schools including a "Rockin' Bronc Reading Rally," on the last day. She said, "I understand the importance of encouraging proficient readers. Students become better readers when they read. When I became aware of this reading challenge, I thought we'd better give it a try. All the classroom teachers in South Park and North Park Elementary school in Belle Fourche took up the challenge and have been logging books that students read during their school day."

The United Way of the Black Hills started Black Hills Reads to address one of the most pressing needs in the Black Hills: access to quality early childhood education. "The goal is to help children reach grade level reading by third grade. Research has shown that an early foundation in literacy is a pretty accurate indicator of life success in people. When children are able to reach their appropriate reading level by third grade, they typically stay proficient in literacy throughout school," Glissendorf explained. She went on to say that she's excited for the future of Black Hills Reads.

This initiative of the United Way of the Black Hills has big plans to get the kids of the Black Hills reading.

Team Roping Heeler Jake Long Continues to Rope and Succeed with Broken Foot

Team roping heeler Jake Long, a 12-time Wrangler National Finals Rodeo qualifier, is dealing with some adversity and still succeeding.

Long broke his right foot at the 11th Annual Cervi Pro-Am in Casa Grande, Ariz., on Feb. 22, but was still able to come back and rope at RodeoHouston and advance to the semifinals, highlighted by winning round 1 with his partner Clay Smith in their bracket with a 4.7-second time on Feb. 28.

"I was at the Mike Cervi deal team roping and a steer went down in front of me, and my horse tripped over him," Long said. "My horse went down and broke my foot. They put a cast on my foot on Feb. 26, two days before I roped (with Clay) at RodeoHouston. I was told I would be in the cast for a month and then a couple of weeks in a walking boot."

Although Long broke his foot, he has remained upbeat

"It is not too bad honestly," Long said. "I put an inner tube on for a stirrup, just a piece of an inner tube and it basically works as a shock absorber for me. It takes a lot of the hard stuff away, where it doesn't really hurt my foot. It kind of hurts when I first put it in there because of the angle I have to put it in at. It is kind of weird because you don't have the stability of a real stirrup obviously, but it doesn't hurt me.

"It is not as comforting as a real stirrup, but you have to do what you got to do. I have to zone in and focus a little bit more."

The inner tube concept was based on Long's past experience.

"Well actually I broke my foot in high school right before the high school finals and that was an idea we came up with back then and that was my first go-to thought when this happened," Long said.

The irony to Long's broken foot is last summer Smith, his partner and two-time PRCA World Champion Header, broke his right leg on June 28 and he continued to rope with the injury and the duo qualified for the NFR.

"I sure hope we are done with this stuff after this," Long said. "I wasn't planning on being on the other end of that ever. We have had to take care of each other a lot more than you normally would. I think we both stepped up when we needed to and been helpful and we definitely have a routine down."

WISDOM FROM OUT WEST! The Opinions of Robert Dennis.

A self-employed, rancher, saddle maker, poet, picker and chopped liver. rdennis@gwtc.net

Daring Do!

Here is an old memory. We had been calving and were kicking some pairs out of the calving lot. There was about a foot of crusted snow on the ground. Dad had been feeding with the tractor and I was along to open and watch gates. My older brother was on a horse. I was about 10 I suppose.

As we kicked the cows out into a lane leading over the hill, we kicked up a skunk. Dad decided we would just herd him along and get him away from the buildings and dispatch him, so sent my brother after a gun. Dad and I walked a long, driving the skunk after the pairs. He wanted to be away from us, but must have gotten tired of us, as pretty soon, he dove into a cow track in the snow with about half his tail sticking out.

Dad grumbled about him still being upwind from the barns and house and was wishing he had kept going. He turned to me and said, "Just reach down and grab him by the tail and pick him up." I was incredulous! "NO!" Was my reply. "Oh, go ahead," he said, "If you don't let him touch his front feet against you or anything else, he can't brace himself to spray."

Then he played dirty warfare and started daring me. Now, this was a man who always said, "Anyone who would take a dare would suck an egg." But he was also my Dad whom I admired when I was mad or afraid of him.

He kept it up, teasing and daring me. I got pretty closet that tail and all the time, the skunk just stayed in the hole and the tail never moved.

To, I think his and my amazement both, I reached down and grabbed the tail and lifted my arm! Out came Mr Skunk. And then what was I supposed to do?

He got pretty excited, he wasn't standing that fr away from me, matter of fact, looking back, I think he tried to back away from me. Big coward!

Now what?

He said" Just keep him out away from you and start walking up the hill. I will get the tractor and pick you up."

I started trudging up the hill with my skunk, all the while he was turning his head up toward where I was holding him, acting like he'd like to bite me, but never made a sound. Who knew skunks were mutes!

Pretty soon, here he came with the tractor. It had an old style cable Farmhand stacker with a grapple fork on it. He had made a step/seat on the back out of boards. It was easy enough for me to get set down on it and up the hill we went. By now, the skunk seemed to have gotten a lot heavier! I was having to use my left hand to help hold my right arm up and out away from me and every thing else.

We got to the top of the hill and here came my brother on his horse with a 22 rifle. Dad stopped the tractor and told me to swing the skunk out and to throw him as far as I could. I did. I must have been scared or he was lighter than I thought, as I got him quite aways away from us. I figured he would turn and try to attack us, but he just turned and started to waddle off, as if being picked up and carried by his tail was kind of an ordinary thing to have happen.

My brother let him get a little ways away and then dispatched him. He wasn't that great a shot, but then his target really wasn't really that far away. I don't remember much after that. Except I have thought about and told quite a few people about it in the past 55 years and I am sure most thought I was just telling a big whopper. But I swear on all things holy, it is all true to the best of my recollection.

Now, I am not saying I am a hero. And I have done many crazy things since that event. But thinking back on it, I wonder if Dad wasn't trying to teach me something.... Naw, he was just killing two bird with one stone. He got a problem fixed that was vexing me, and he pulled a pretty good trick on his son! It makes me wonder how this event might have molded me for the other things that went on in my life. I know I have thought back on quite a few occasion when I was contemplating on doing something that seemed kind of crazy at the time and remember thinking to myself, "Hey, I picked up a live skunk one time and that turned out okay. This probably will too!"

ProRodeo Hall of Famer Olin Young Passes Away

ProRodeo Hall of Famer Olin Young passed away on Feb. 23. He was 86.

Although he achieved great fame as a tie-down roper, Young won two world titles in steer roping in 1971 and '74 and qualified for the National Finals Rodeo a total of 27 times – 13 times for tie-down roping and 14 times for steer roping – from 1959 through 1980.

Most of Young's competitors believe he would have won several more championships had he traveled more on ProRodeo's steer roping circuit. Young called Peralta, N.M., home for years.

Also, in 1971, Young became the first man to win four average titles in tie-down roping at the National Finals Rodeo. Young also won the NFR average in 1959, and 1962-63. Young's four average wins was equaled by Roy Cooper (1976, 1979, 1983, 1995); Joe Beaver

(1987-88, 1992, 1996); Fred Whitfield (1991, 1997, 1999, 2002); and Caleb Smidt (2015, 2018, 2021, 2022).

He also won at the average three times at the National Finals Steer Roping in 1967, 1974 and 1977. Not bad for a cowboy who didn't even seriously start entering steer ropings until 1966.

Born in Lovington, N.M., on Sept. 11, 1936, Young was a superb all-around athlete and New Mexico's Athlete of the Year in 1970.

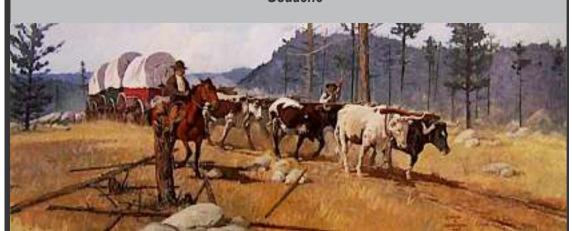

Young entered his first rodeo in 1948, and first joined what was the RCA back then in 1954. He got his start in rodeo from his father Paul Young and Pro-Rodeo Hall of Fame tie-down roper Troy Fort.

"What I like best about rodeoing is it is a way to make a living and enjoy it," Young said in a rodeo questionnaire by the RCA.

This is a companion painting to another piece showing a Black Hills stage line. Bull trains were common carriers of goods to the Black Hills, eventually replaced by the railroad.

Central Meade County News

By Sandy Rhoden

While now is the time we expect occasional warm days that help rid of us the white stuff, this past week only provided more snow, cold temperatures and wind. While the first couple of days of the week look to do that, we may need to brace ourselves for a later spring than we'd like. The snow and wind make it much harder on newborn calves as we are in the midst of the heaviest calving season. We have had enough moisture to realistically hope for at least one good hay too painful this year, however, it seems to be the preference of most to gain that hour, rather than lose it.

Daylight savings time wasn't

It was exciting to see the Faith boys basketball team play at Timberlake to win their way to the State Tournament. I was not able to travel all the way up there so watched it online. The team is well coached and fun to watch. We wish them the best at State B Tournament play in Aberdeen this weekend. Jess Harper, Mathew Gray, and Waycee Nelson were of most interest to me as they were in the class of 5th graders I taught seven years ago. I knew at that time that they would turn out to be on a winning team because they were smart, athletic and full of energy. That goes for the whole class.

On Sunday, Larry and Sandy Rhoden attended church in Newell along with Gary and Lorie Hausmann and had lunch afterward at the local café. They enjoyed lunch with Dan and Kathy Rhoden and were able to see some other family members at church as well. Afterward they dropped off their taxes to be done for the year and headed home.

Condolences go out to Leo Schnell on the loss of his brother Raymond. He resided in Chicago where he succumbed to cancer. He died early on Sunday morning and was single all his life. Condolences to the whole family.

The legislature wrapped up the session for 2023 this past week. There is one day left and that is Veto Day which is on Monday, March 27. There will be several vetoes to take up that day. Bills that passed through the legislature, but the Governor didn't sign may be voted on to either sustain the veto or override the veto. It takes 2/3 vote of each of the chambers to over ride a Governor's Veto.

KAREN ODELL

Last week, Karen Odell had the flu; or a cold; or the flu with a cough, or just a couple of days of rest, anyway, Charlie got to do the news, but it was a quiet week, with a couple of blizzards to keep people home, and calving to keep them busy, so the news was mostly common events. Even during a slow week, time seems to fly faster and faster, as you get older, but here is a way to extend time a little, and compare the difference. When you sit with friends enjoying warm sunshine and old stories, two hours can seem like a minute, but when you sit on a hot stove, a minute can seam like two hours.

This week, Dick and Erma Albert were home bodies until Friday. They went out to the Senior Citizen dinner, that day, and Bobbie had a tuna casserole for those observing Lent. On Sunday, they went to the Catholic Church. There was a pot luck lunch afterward, and then they stayed for Bible study. Erma had talked to Jack Ovitz, to see how he was doing. Jack has a broken jaw, and is now on a thirty-day liquid diet. Maybe he should have chosen just one food to give up for Lent, but it's the thought that counts. Bruce and Lynn Gustafson spent a windy week staying home. Home is a good place when a blizzard can come up easily, between bouts of sun-

Doug and Julia Davis made a trip to the Hills on Monday, for Julia's doctor's appointment. Julia worked in Buffalo, the next three days. Doug went to the Kay Jean Babb interment at the Camp Crook Cemetery on Saturday. The weather was not good for being up on the hill, but it was good to see the family, and visit at the Community Center.

Shirley Melum has been busy gathering papers and began getting ready for taxes. Ernie, Rachel and Tommy Melum had a busy week, working cows and bringing them home for calving. They knew they had to get that done, so they worked out in the windy blizzardy, cold weather, but were glad when they had the work done. It was a good thing, because they got their first calf the very next day. The heifers are at Juniors, and the cows are near Ernie's. Rachel's niece, Bessie Kalbach, and nephew, Daniel Kalbach, were able to come and help them, so the work went faster. Rachel's sister is a Waterland, not a Livingston. I accidentally typed the wrong name of one of Charlie's Bryce and Dorothy Padden went to Camp Crook, on Saturday, for the Kay Jean Babb interment at the cemetery, and then went on in to Camp Crook for the family gathering. Dawn, and the kids, stayed at home to watch the heifers.

Karen Odell wrote and arranged some music, this week. She got to practice piano and violin, some days, and she did some writing and research for the Sugar Creek Township books that she had compiled in past years. She had gotten three books of local news published as paperbacks and ebooks last week. Now when this big book, with lots of pictures, is revised, she will reformat and divide it into ebooks, too. Karen attempted to talk to her brother, Jim Evans, in Missouri, but found that he had left the hospital, and was missing. Finally, the hospital told her he had gone to Ohio, so she found out that her niece had gotten him, and taken him home with her, for a visit. Karen has been quilting, and working on a glass painting. Charlie Odell has done just a little brand inspecting, for Levi Hafner, this week, and spent his time feeding hay and cake, and

We will miss Kay Jean and our prayers to their families. Here's a little history. In March of 1775, a town meeting was called by Boston leaders, to commemorate the dastardly place the year before, caused by the despised British soldiers who occupied and ruled their town. The British prepared a plot to assassinate the rebel, John Hancock, and other colonial leaders. One officer was to throw an egg at the Boston leaders, and that would signal all of the King's men to draw swords, and attack the group of colonists. Things did not work out, quite right, though. First, and broke the egg in his hand. When John began his anti-British speech, that officer tried to cover his mistake by yelling a negative "Fie, Fie". The crowd thought he was yelling "Fire Fire", and when the soldiers tried to draw their swords, they and trampled by the panicking crowd, while the colonist leaders slipped away. Suicide Prevention: Healthy Habits for Older Adults

PIERRE – As you grow older, vou may find yourself spending more time at home alone. Being lonely or socially isolated is not good for your mental health as it can lead to feelings of depression and anxiety including thoughts of suicide.

Suicide is one of the leading causes of death in the United States affecting people of all ages. According to the Centers for Disease Control, in 2020, suicide rates in the United States were highest among people 85 years of age and older (20.9 per 100,000). Males over the age of 85 showed the highest rate of suicide (52.0 per 100,000). Suicide is NOT the solution and many resources are available to help you resolve the challenges you face.

If you find yourself feeling depressed or having little to look forward to, you are urged to do one or more of the following: Be physically active. No matter your health and physical abilities, you can gain a lot by staying active. Physical activity is not only good for your physical health, but your mental health as well. Next time you are feeling down or stressed, get up and start moving!

Participate in activities you enjoy. An active lifestyle is more than just exercise. It includes doing things that are meaningful to you and benefit your mind, spirit, and body. Even if you live in a rural area or have other restrictions, you can still find ways to do the activities you like.

Stay connected. People who participate in meaningful activities with others feel purpose and tend to live longer. For example, helping others through volunteering, video chatting with family and friends, adopting a pet, or joining a walking club are just a few ways to stay connected.

Get 7-9 hours of sleep each night. There are a variety of reasons why older people may not get enough sleep at night. Try following a regular sleep schedule, develop a bedtime routine or avoid napping during the day. If you continue to struggle, it may be time to see your doctor.

Eat a healthy, balanced diet. Older adults should try to eat foods that are packed with nutrients while limiting high calorie foods. Swapping out snacks and beverages with nutrient-rich alternatives can help you stay within a healthy calorie range.

Mental health challenges can be debilitating to your life. One of the best things you can do for yourself when going through a mental health issue is to talk to someone about it. Opening up is the first step to the healing process.

The commissioners voted to accept all bids.

Once again there were several people from the audience who spoke to the commissioners about their concerns. Although the commissioners do not give a response to the comments, it is an opportunity for the public to be recognized.

Sue Broadhurst had been researching past minutes searching for information on past meetings as far back as 2015. She pointed out that there had been sealed bids that had not been recorded and questioned the Warranty Deed signed for county property that was not in the minutes. She also mentioned several votes that had not been recorded in previous minutes.

The seriousness of the cattle guard policy and the condition of the four cattle guards on Riley Road and how they affect emergency responders was brought forward by Calvin Fickbohm. He asked the commissioners how they could help First Responders to handle cattle guards that are broken. He pointed out that the roads can be dangerous for First Responders as they navigate the county roads. Highway Administrative Assistant Lori Johnston mentioned that the cattle guards on Riley road are being inspected. One will be replaced and one will be pulled.

The present cattle guard policy can be found on the Butte County website, under the Directory Tab-Highway Department, then under Road Policies. It was approved February 26, 2019. Although, there was discussion about changing the policy, it was decided to keep the old policy in affect.

Katie Hoffman and Dale Simanton both pointed out inconsistencies with commissioner voting, comments, and actions.

A Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) was signed by the State's Attorney with Northern Hills Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) according to State's Attorney LeEllen McCartney. SART helps survivors through the maze of community services available to them, and uses the experiences of survivors to improve those services., according to the national Sexual Violence Resource Center website. The local SART has been meeting regularly since 2010 and is attempting to reinvigorate the requested rooms for a three-day event to be held in Spearfish. The commissioners voted to deny that request since the conference distance does not meet the requirements.

There was discussion around the repair of a Sheriff's Department pickup that is to be transferred to the Highway Department. Neither department had budgeted for the repairs which came in over $7,000 for the 2016 RAM. Following the discussion, the commissioners voted to split the cost of the pickup repair.

Two Right of Ways were approved by commissioners. Black Hills Energy received a ROW for converting overhead powerline to underground line on Garness and Palo Roads. Dale Sprague received a ROW on Wilson Cemetery Road and Gammon Road to trench for an irrigation water line. Commissioner James Ager informed the commissioners that the Weed and Pest Board had decided to issue Escort for Hoary Crest on March 31 in Newell and Belle Fourche.

The Planning Board meeting on March 1 reviewed the Subdivision Ordinance and has plans to have it ready for the April 4 Commissioner meeting.

A MOU was signed by the commissioners to share GIS Data between the city of Belle Fourche and Butte County.

The next regular commission meeting will be March 21, 2023 at 1 p.m. in the County Commission Room at the Butte County Courthouse.

"Building Main Street, not Wall Street"—

by John Newby

When Doing the Right Thing is Actually the Wrong Thing

Whether in business or community building, doing the right thing today is often going to be the wrong thing for your future business or community. According to Clayton Christensen, the Harvard business pro the Harvard business professor and author of the Innovators Dilemma, "Two models of how to make money or transform cannot coexist within a single organization". In other words, if your current business is successful and making money, your future business may miss out on much greater success from a new, potentially much bigger pathway to success. The same holds true in community building, if you are relying upon the old traditional methods to succeed, you will miss out on many of the new opportunities that will be critical in the future.

In Christensen's book, he uses the theory that traditional companies ignore new technologies or disruption that may not meet the needs of their current customers. The cost of doing this means missing out on the much larger market of new customers down the road.

He uses a case study of Seagate. Seagate missed out entirely on the growing market of hard drives that were used in laptops because it was busy serving their largest customer and the biggest maker of desktops, IBM.

When it comes to community building, the same principle applies. If we focus solely on what has worked in the past, we risk missing out on new opportunities and neglecting the needs of a changing community. We need to shift our focus from the past to the present serving all the stakeholders throughout the entire community. This means embracing new technologies, methods, and ideas that may not be immediately familiar or even comfortable. Remember, change is always going to be difficult and uncomfortable.

One quick example of this is the rise of coworking spaces versus traditional work environments. Traditional businesses may see these spaces as competition, but they can be a vital tool for community building. Coworking spaces create opportunities for collaboration, innovation, and networking among many businesses that can benefit all members of a community. They also offer a more flexible and cost-effective solution for businesses that may not need or are able to afford a full-time office space.

By embracing this new model, and building facilities as such, communities can attract and retain a diverse range of entrepreneurs and businesses, driving economic growth and vitality.

Of course, embracing new ideas and technologies can be risky. There is always the chance that a new approach or digital tool will fail or must be tweaked, or that it will not be as profitable or effective as expected. But the greater risk lies in sticking with the traditional status quo, in assuming that what has worked in the past will continue to work in the future. This is the innovator's dilemma that Christensen describes, and it applies equally to businesses and communities.

Clark Sowers, Owner

To build our Main Street and our communities, we must be willing to take risks, to experiment with new approaches, and to prioritize the needs of the community over the desires of individual stakeholders. This will require a shift in mindset, from a focus on short-term solutions to a focus on longterm sustainability and growth solutions. But ultimately, it is the only way to ensure that our communities are strong, resilient, and able to adapt to the changing winds of the future.

In conclusion, doing the right thing today may not always be the right thing for tomorrow. To build strong, sustainable communities, we must be willing to embrace new ideas and technologies, to take risks, and to prioritize the needs of the community over the desires of individual stakeholders. This means shifting our focus from a short-term strategy to a more long-term strategy. It is a challenge, but it is also an opportunity to create thriving communities that are able to adapt and grow in the face of an ever-changing world.

surveillance cameras in response to suspicious activity and complaints the department has received related to activity that has taken place in the park. These cameras will create permanent monitoring designed to increase public safety.

There is no timeline yet for the installation and activation of the cameras.

Meanwhile evaluation of the existing police department headquarters building continues. Upper Deck Architects is conducting an evaluation of the structure and the city council approved a second payment of $7,000 for the process. The evaluation project will cost a total of $28,000.

"Right now, it's in the planning and evaluation stage," said Bob Nelson, City Administrator. "The deliverable that comes out of that will tell them whether or not that building is too far gone to remodel."

Nelson says the options are to remodel or build a new department headquarters. He says he hopes that Upper Deck will have its report sent to the council's Police committee by the end of March and full consideration and approval of next steps by the council in May.

On a related note, Upper Deck is also working on the plans to expand the Tri-State Museum. Currently they are in the design development phase and council approved a payment of $28,989.40 toward that project. Total cost of the design development will come to $42,060.

Upper Deck will oversee the addition which includes survey work ($7,500), schematic design ($23,210), construction documents ($31,430), the bidding process ($5,170) and construction administration ($28,680).

In other city council news a bid from Black Hills Roofing was accepted to replace the roof on the city's maintenance shop and Tri-State Museum's storage building roof. They were the low bid in the amount of $146,942. The only other bid received was from All American Roofing for $147,429. The funds will come from the June 2022 hailstorm insurance claim. The bids will include gutter, downspout and fascia replacement.

During community input time Aaron Fowler, the city's Streets, Water and Sewer Superintendent, spoke regarding the positively progressing work environment of the City of Belle Fourche.

He applauded the teamwork and interdepartmental support that he is seeing throughout the city workforce. He praised the staff work ethic and all employees, especially his crew, for doing their best to support the public every day. Fowler encouraged all to show appreciation for what he sees as a vital and well-organized team.

124 years ago THE TIMES March 20, 1897 A New Mining Camp Reports received in the city from the Bear Lake district show that that section of the country is the new Mecca of prospector and the investor in mining property, and even with four feet of snow on the ground a great amount of prospecting is being done. The district is located fifteen miles east of Sundance and five miles from Welcome. Great activity in securing claims is witnessed, and within the past three weeks over 300 claims have been located. Fifty prospectors are now tramping over the country, wading rhrough snow four feet deep, in order to stake out some property. Log houses are being erected as rapidly as possible, and business houses and two saloons have already been opened, as has also a livery stable. The Journal had the pleasure of a talk with a gentleman who had just returned from there and he says it is sure to become one of the most promising camps in the entire Hills. He had numerous samples of ore from the different parts of the camp and intends to assay them at once. This gentleman says that the section is a flat formation and very near the surface. Some of the rock very much resembles that found at Ragged Top, while some of it is pronounced to be tellurides, the same as has made Cripple Creek famous. This gentleman, who is something of an expert on rock. Pronounced it such, as did also a minerologist at Spearfish, who was asked to state his opinion of it. Then same character of ore. Signs Of A Big Boom In a letter received yesterday by Mike King, the well known mining expert, from Dave Cole, a mining and mill man who stands to the head of his intricate profession, the writer states that the demand for mining machinery is very brisk at Chicago and in cities further east, and that "it looks now as though business in our line would quickly and permanently recover its old time prosperity.' Mr. Cole writes from Chicago, where he is now selecting the needful machinery for the rebuilding of a Tremain mill in the vicinity of Custer Peak, and will start for the Hills on that business in a few days. He says they are all talking Black Hills in Chicago, and that the biggest boom the west ever enjoyed has already set in in this direction. Mr. Cole recently built a mill at Tucson, Arizona, which is giving the most satisfactory results. From the tenor of his letter we judge that he expects to do considerable mill building in the Black Hills this season, and that there will be no lack of capital for this work. There would be employment for 100,000 laborers in this mineral territory if there were mills in operation that could handle all the low grade ore that is in sight on every hand. And the mills

March 8, 1923 PICNIC BY BELLE FOURCHE FOLKS IN LONG BEACH J. H. Pearson, who is now located with his family in Long Beach, Calif., writes The Northwest Post the following interesting little letter concerning a recent gathering in that city of former Belle Fourche residents: "Long Beach, Calif, March 6 – Dear Burt: My long silence since my departure from God's country must be accounted for by the fact that I have had nothing to report that would have been particularly interesting to readers of the "Great Family Weekly." At last, however, I feel justified in invading your valuable columns with an account of a little gathering of "The Belle Fourche Folks" at Bixby Park, in Long Beach on Sunday, March, last. There must be a little "Scotch" in most human animals; at least, the clannishness, sometimes dormant under normal surroundings, seems to assert itself in distant lands, particularly in California. Bert Townsend and myself conceived the plan of "rounding up" the Belle Fourche folks, and in response to our notices it was a jovial bunch that met together in Bixby Park. The morning being unusually cold and cloudy, kept some of our friends away, and unfortunately we did not have the addresses of others who would have attended. My old friend and business associate, Edwin M Jackson, brought his wife and mother all the way from Ventura to meet some old friends whom h had met on his frequent trips to Belle Fourche. ny on their large coal deposits near Gillette. The company has started open cut operations the same as was pursued in the gold mine at Lead City. The inference is that a large amount of coal is to be mined within a short time. As to the destination of the coal, there is also room for speculation. The Homestake has not gone into the coal peddling business or anything of that nature during its forty years' history. It is more likely to utilitze the greater portion of its coal in its own operations, possibly supplying the Milwaukee and Northwestern roads in the Hills. And it would seem that this output of coal must be carried to the Hills. And to do that, the wise ones are of the opinion that the Homestake will follow precedent and haul its own coal as it did cordwood in the early days. To this end, an electric line from Gillette to Sundance and hence to Lead would be the most feasible means, and that line would open a virgin territory which would insure the successful operation of the road.

a feasibility study for a wool processing and lamb kill and chill industry in Western South Dakota is great news." said John Loucks, director of development for the rural electrics in the Black Hills area. The idea for the request originated over two years ago with a local committee of businessmen and members of the Western South Dakota Sheepgrowers Association. The proposal was developed by the area development department of the local rural electric cooperatives and was encouraged by the International Wool Bureau. The Sixth Planning and Development District was enlisted to be the legal group thru which funding could be made. "With nearly 25% of the nation's production of fine grade wool being shipped from the Belle Fourche area," said Loucks, "it only seems logical that the raw material, a local agricultural resource, be processed and manufactured into a finished product ready for the market right here, rather than sending it out to be done somewhere else. We are quite sure there is a good possibility. Now if we can secure a consulting team of national reputation to prove our point," sayd Loucks, "the it should be reasonable safe to assume that a reputable manufacturing concern can be encouraged to locate here. In fact, we are already in close contact with a firm that is interested if

Beverly Hillbillies Roar onto Bullock Community Stage

Paula Richter

Special to the Beacon The Beverly Hillbillies roared onto the Bullock Community stage, March 3-5, grabbing the hearts of the audience members.

This, the 20th year consecutive production of that group kept the audience laughing the entire evening.

The Trash Can Kids started the show. Ian Njos, Master of Ceremonies announced their program which began with a "silent movie" complete with heroine (Hailey Richter), hero (Weston Dingfelder), bad guy (Walker Dingfelder) and the preacher (Owen Njos).

These youngsters joined Maelina Ruona, Mason Voeller, Mylee Voeller and Molly Njos for a stunning black light dance.

The Beverly Hillbillies play started in the Clampett's backwoods cabin. Granny (Angela McCaan) and Jed (Darwin Latham) set the stage for the entrance of Elly Mae (Kadence Christman) dragging an unconcious George Turner (Toby Njos) in and flopping him onto the table. Mr. Brewster (Doug Hausman) soon joins him.

It is revealed that oil has been found on the Clampett land and the these two men are from the oil company.

Cousin Pearl (Kristi Hansen) and Jethro (Clancy Adolph) arrive with a flair (hitting the chicken house) and help the Clampetts decide to move to Beverly Hills with their new found wealth. Mr. Drysdale (Chad Njos), Mrs. Drysdale (Becky Holsti) and Jane Hatheway (Kami Barrow) meet the Clampetts just outside the new mansion Drysdale has found for them. Mrs. Pennyweather (Cheyenne Kalisiak), Percy, her son (Peydon Adolph) and Goria Mundy (Emma Richter) soon come to visit the Clampetts as Mrs. Pennyweather is looking for funding for books for the new library at her exclusive school.

Frederika Collins (Sloan Thompson) comes on the scene as a student at this school and is soon dating Jethro who is also dating Gloria. Emaline Fetty (Alexis McCann) and Colonel Foxhall (Chuck Whitney) are the professional swindlers that appear to fleece the Clampetts with some incriminating pictures of Jed taken by Emaline.

The action culminates at a party given at the Clampett mansion where the best of Beverly Hills attend.

Mrs. Stokely-Smythe (Tailynn Adolph), Mr. Olgethorpe (Toby Njos) and Mrs. Olgethorpe (Kirsti Hansen) are among the guests. Groovy Monahan (Odessa Clarkson) also appears as the third girl Jethro is dating. Frank Richards (John Latham), the detective Miss Hathaway has called, tries to arrest the swindlers but is deterred by Jed who in the end saves the day by scaring Emaline and Colonel Foxhall off by his and Granny's marriage proposals. The firemen (Weston and Walker Dingfelder) and the extra society lady (Hailey Richter) heightened the hilarity of the show.

Lighting technician Jo Piekkola and sound technician, Laura Tenold enriched the performance with subtle lighting changes and wonderful sound effects. Charlene Olsen and Paula Richter directed the play.

Karlin Teigen prompted until the very last act of the very last day when Robert Hansen took over. Stage managers Charlene Olsen, Amanda Njos and Tonja Hansen organized the characters, props and scene changes.

The set was constructed by Jo Piekkola, Kami Barrow, Windon Hewson, Casey Holmes, Robin Wood Thies and John Ovitz. Stage crew workers Windon Hewson, John Latham, Doug Hausman, Toby Njos and Robert Hansen had to hustle to completely change the first set into the second one.

Nicole Njos, Sarah Sabo, Amanda Njos, Tailynn Adolph and Kim Bail applied the stage makeup and worked on the 60's style hairdos. Mary Cramer was the wardrobe mistress.

Susan Nelson headed up the concession stand duties. She and her capable crew were wildly busy during the interCafe CLOSED until June 1st Monthly motel rooms available $650 Email:

Banner Fund Elects Not to Award Grants in 2023

Beacon Staff news@bellefourchebeacon.com

BELLE FOURCHE - The Banner Health Settlement fund committee has decided not to make any disbursements for 2023, according to Kellen Willert, City Attorney, and committee member. The decision was made following a year where the fund did not perform as well as it has in past years.

"Those who have paid attention know it was not a great year for investments," Willert said. "Right now the fund is sitting right at about $95,000. Our goal is to keep that principle at the $100,000 mark. That will ensure its perpetuity and that we can keep giving away money."

Willert said they could have elected to give away around $4,500 but the decision was made to reinvest that amount back into the fund.

The fund was created in 2004 as a result of a lawsuit brought by the state against Banner Health. Banner owned healthcare facilities in five S.Dakota communities, including Belle Fourche. In 2002 they decided to sell those facilities and the state sued to give a portion of the sale proceeds back to the communities. When Banner purchased the facilities in late 1999, each of those communities had raised money to give to Banner to help them buy equipment. Banner did not want to give that money back after the sale so then SD State Att. General Larry Long initiated the lawsuit.

"So the idea was that it wasn't fair for Banner to sell all the equipment and just keep all the money without returning some of that back to the communities," Willert said. "The really hard part at that point was determining exactly how much each community had raised. In the end the settlement resulted in Belle Fourche receiving $100,000."

The money is invested with the S. Dakota Community Foundation which manages the investment. Willert says the fund is allowed to give away a set percentage of the fund's principle balance but that Belle Fourche tries to keep the fund as close to $100,000 as possible and only grant the proceeds in a given year if it will not unduly harm the principle. Currently the fund has around $95,000.

The fund began making distributions to area non-profits in 2006 and has given away more the $78,500 of the fund's earnings since. In 2019 the committee also elected not to disperse funds.

Grants from the fund must be used for elderly and healthcare related services. Last year the fund awarded just under $4,500 to four organizations; the Good Shepherd Clinic in Spearfish, the Belle Fourche Ministerial Association, St. James Episcopal Church to be used toward the Delta Dental Mobile Clinic and Meals on Wheels of Western South Dakota.

From the Desert to a Dream - Shiloh Horse Rescue

Krystal Tesche news@bellefourchebeacon.com

NEWELL -- Las Vegas natives Todd and Jill Weber have brought their love of forgotten animals to rural South Dakota. Shiloh Horse Rescue on the Prairie recently moved from the bright lights of Nevada to a simpler life in rural Newell. They have a heartwarming tale of their journey of opening an end of life equine sanctuary on an acreage along Old US Highway 212.

Jill's love of horses stemmed from childhood, where her first words were "schorsies," and she drove everyone crazy with her constant chatter of anything horse related. She wore them down though, and now her sister and mom have joined the ranks of large animal lovers.

Them Webers started the rescue in 2003 with what most would consider a "slaughter rescue". The number of horses they have saved is now more than 700, with more than 500 finding new homes all across the county. After 16 years in the desert, they decided to slow down and become what they were meant to be, caretakers of the last loving place for all animals to feel safe in their twilight years.

Following some research, they found a place to relax and enjoy what they have built in the Black Hills. In 2019 they embarked on their journey and ended up in historic Deadwood, leasing 40 acres. Two years later they packed up and moved everyone to Boulder Canyon and leased another 40 acres, where residents started to take notice of the love and sincerity that Jill and Todd showed their four-legged friends. They put blankets and coats on the equines to protect them from the wind and cold of the midwest. Not all people understood that even though this seemed awfully peculiar to those not familiar with animal safety, it was actually a testament that the comfort and health of these creatures is a top priority to Jill and company. The Weber's still own their

State Auxiliary Moves to Help Fire Departments

Colleen Brunner news@bellefourchebeacon.com

SOUTH DAKOTA – "Do you want to help out your local fire department?" That's the question the South Dakota Fire Fighters Auxiliary is asking just prior to the beginning of summer and the potential fire season. Most people in the local NVN area know that the departments located in Butte County are all-volunteer, and that the firefighters drop their own work or job and respond to the tones of the pager. That can mean a structure or grass fire, search and rescue situation, or a traffic accident. It takes a great deal of man-power, supplies and support to make that response happen.

The SDFFA is currently working via different forms of close to Jill's mother and sister, who moved from their childhood home in Wisconsin. Her family assists in running the store that they opened to take help with the expenses they have incurred from their non-profit animal hospice. The Lucky Horse is located next to the Celebrity Hotel in Deadwood, and specializes in decorative horseshoes and other horse related products. There is also a jar on the cashier counter specifically to donate to their cause.

During their time in Deadwood, the Webers also show-cased their love of horses by conducting tours and driving folks in their horse drawn carriages. After a total of four years, they decided that leasing wasn't enough anymore.

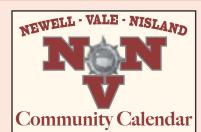

The move to rural Newell was based on the decision that this is where they, along with their horses, cows, chickens and sheep wanted to settle down for the rest of their lives. They found their diamond in the rough for a great price and even better vision. The amount of work to get their newly purchased property outside of Newell may have seemed overwhelming to most, but it did not deter this dynamic duo. Trash was hauled out and updates are being made, and it's become apparent that this little slice of heaven is what they were looking for to fulfill their life's purpose. There are 38 horses, a few cows and sheep and some chickens residing at the sanctuary, and these critters are the stars of a traveling petting zoo.

Jill and Todd Weber said they have had a warm welcome to the community. Here they enjoy the special Valentines night dinner at the High Plains Restaurant. - Tesch photo

The Decline to Sign promotion is in direct opposition to the proposed South Dakota Constitutional Amendment to be placed on the ballot in 2024.

"This amendment would be one of the most extreme abortion laws in the nation," said Bartcher, who shared at NICC in Sunday school and during the worship time. "That's not who we are," he said, referring to the 57 life sustaining laws or resolutions that SDRTL had helped pass in the state.

He said that the amendment is confusing and vague and would force future decisions on abortions to be decided by unelected judges rather than by the people. He cited four reasons for voters to sign a petition allowing this on the ballot. They included: The potential abortion of babies up to and including at birth, the denial or the right of parents to know if their child is being coaxed to have an abortion, the fact that doctors and nurses could be forced to perform abortions or face crippling lawsuits and penalties, and that it would open the door to taxpayer funded abortions.

"They have to get 35,017 signatures to get this placed on the ballot. And they are using subtle and misinformation to get people to sign."

Bartcher urged those listening to take some of the literature he had available, including flyers to hand to people who might be thinking of signing the petition.

"This would bring all sorts of money from out of state to promote and try to get this passed if it gets on the ballot," said Bartcher. "The bottom line is that this Constitutional Amendment is truly extreme and a grave threat to life in our state."

Bartcher encouraged people to log on to the website at https://lifedefensefund.com/#theextremeamendment or the lifedefensefund.com website for more information.

debris, there is also a plan for campsites to provide additional income and reprieve for locals, as well as a tranquil place for people to use during the infamous Sturgis rally.

Their Facebook page at www. facebook.com/sdfirefightersaux would be the best source for animal and event updates, Shiloh Horse Rescue on the Prairie. By this summer, Jill is optimistic that they will be able to get to Heritage Center in Spearfish for a few events, but for right now they are content making sure their new home is comfortable for everyone. Nothing relaxes her more during the brutal winter months than being able to look out of her window and see her animals warm and dry. The couple said their introduction in the NVN community has been a warm welcome. This rescue is going into its 20th year and still going strong. The Webers do it all with a heart full of warmth.

After the beautiful spring weather we had last week, winter came screaming back last Monday and lasted all week so there isn't much news for this week because it was just too nasty most days to go anywhere or do anything. School started two hours late several days in Harding County because of the weather and I kept my chickens locked up to keep them from freezing to death.

It was only 2 degrees when we woke up Tuesday morning and it stayed cold and windy all day. Both of these families have our sympathy. Reub and I went to Hettinger on Wednesday to get stuff we needed from Runnings and White Drug. Reub always gets a hug from his cousin Roxie (Larson) Finck at the drug store, but she was so busy that they didn't have time for much of a visit.

It snowed all morning on Thursday, but it quit by noon and the afternoon was pretty nice with no wind and the temperature at 28 degrees.

We planned to go down to the Bar H on Friday to have Jamie Thybo do our taxes, but the weather was so nasty we decided a couple old folks like us had better stay home, so hopefully we can get down there next week when the weather is nicer.

The birthday party for Tony and Dorothy Holt at the nursing home in Lemmon this Saturday had to be canceled because of the weather. The plan is to hold the party on Saturday, March 18th from 2:00 to 3:30 if the weather cooperates. It was cold and the wind was blowing so hard on Saturday that it almost blew me over while I was outside trying to take care of my chickens and the snow was blowing around so much that it made big drifts I had to struggle over to get home. It blew a huge, hard drift in front of our garage door and Casey had to come over with the tractor to plow it out Sunday morning so we could get out to go to church.

There will be a baby shower for little Ziva Rose, daughter of Rosie and Ty Hotchkiss, next Sunday, March 19 at 1:00 at the church after the morning service. We will be serving sandwiches and salads for the folks that stay after church for the shower.

Daylight Saving Time kicked in on Sunday, so to get ahead of having to set all twelve of our clocks ahead an hour at the same time, I set all five of our electric clocks ahead Saturday morning so I wouldn't have to set all twelve of the clocks that afternoon. Wouldn't you know it? The electricity went off just after I got all five of the electric clocks set and didn't come on again until just before noon so I had to set all twelve of the clocks that afternoon anyway! I get so sick of these time changes and what good do we get out of them anyway?

Only two states, Arizona and Hawaii, leave the time the same year around and they seem to get by really well without all the frustration the rest of us have to put up with. When I was in the legislature, I tried to get the Daylight Saving Time stopped in South Dakota, but my bill got voted down even though a lot of the legislators didn't like the time changes. The reason they voted the bill down was because we would be on different time than the states around us and that would confuse everyone. I didn't think that would bother many people, because every time we cross over into eastern South Dakota now we wind up in a different time zone anyway.

I'll leave you with these time change jokes:

Q: What is the best pet for Daylight Savings Time? A: A watch dog.

Q: What did the clock say when I went to move it ahead an hour?

A: Hour you doing today?

Q: When is a lion like a clock? A: When they both Spring Forward.

Q: What happens when you try to make a clock Spring Forward?A: It gets ticked off. (Just like me!)

media to bring awareness to the needs of departments all around the state and especially here at home, when a quick response can mean the difference between great loss of property or even a life.

"This is the season to help stock up," said organizers.
"And we are offering a list of items that anyone can donate to the departments which will help keep them moving forward with a purpose."

Some of those items include: Snacks and drinks, Beef Jerky, Bottled Water, Power or Gatorade single pouch powder, Peanut butter or cheese crackers, Granola bars or energy bars, Paper goods (paper plates, napkins, utensils, cups), Canned goods (some departments have kitchens), Coffee or tea, disposable hygiene wipes, eye drops, Lip balm or chap stick, Paper towels, Kleenex, Toilet paper, Trash bags, Baggies, Towels, Ice, Ice chest, Sunscreen, Socks, Foot powder, Gloves, AA/AAA batteries, and energy bars.

Most volunteer fire department budgets are not huge, so any money helps the up-keep of the equipment, buying of items for the trucks, or even going towards a new truck or apparatus. Eastern Butte County fire departments include: Nisland/Arpan, Vale, Newell and Castle Rock. You can support any of these departments by contacting a local firefighter or auxiliary member.

2023 Newell High School Senior Profiles

Editor's Note: The Irrigator continues our series profiling the Class of 2023. This profile by Krystal Tesche.

NEWELL -- Stacy Mahaffy is the eldest daughter of Mary Mahaffy (Ben Wetz) and Lonnie Mahaffy. She is especially close with her younger sisters, Mary and Bethany, with whom she shares a passion for sports. Family is a staple in the reigning homecoming queen's life, and she spends a lot of her time with them including her grandfather whom she helps on the farm. Hanging out with her niece and friends are another favorite way she passes the time.

Stacy has spent the last six years participating in cross county, basketball and track while dedicating four years to volleyball. Her high school years have been spent supporting the Leo Club painting and cleaning the town, and helping at the fairgrounds during the well-known 4-H fair on the Nisland fair-

Attending Lake Area Tech to become an orthodontic assistant, which will lead to graduating and hopefully working at Evans Orthodontics in Rapid City is what lies in the future for Stacy.

To help her prepare for this exciting adventure, Stacy notes, "Mr. Wince as the biggest influence in my life as a role model, coach and teacher."

She credits Mr. Wyatt

2023 Nest Predator Bounty Program Begins for Youth

PIERRE, S.D. – The South Dakota Game, Fish and Parks (GFP) kicks off the fifth year of the Nest Predator Bounty Program as part of Gov.

Noem's Second Century Initiative.
The 2023 program
opens for South Dakota youth under the age of 18 on March
1. The program will open to all South
Dakota residents
April 1. Tails from raccoon, striped skunk, badger, red fox, and opossum will be eligible for $10 per-tail payments with a maximum total payout of $500,000.

"Getting the next generation involved in conservation is critical to keeping our South Dakota outdoor heritage strong," said Kevin Robling, GFP Department Secretary. "The Nest Predator Bounty Program is an excellent way to get youth and families engaged with the outdoors."

In 2022, 143 youth participated in the youth-only month of March and submitted

2,100 nest predators during this time.
Overall, 2,367 individuals participated in the 2022 program removing 55,220 nest predators.
Youth made up 32% of total participants, which was higher than in 2021 at 29%.

New for 2023, every participating youth will receive one free live trap. When youth submit their tails for the first time, they will receive their live trap to use throughout the program.

Tails eligible for submission can be harvested via trapping or hunting. Participants need a hunting, furbearer, or fishing license to be eligible to participate in the bounty program. Landowners harvesting nest predators for the program on their own land and youth under 18 are exempt from this license requirement.

Complete program details as well as dates, times, and locations for tail submissions can be found on the GFP website. For bounty submissions outside of the listed office locations and times, please contact your local wildlife conservation officer or wildlife damage specialist.

"We are also very excited to rename the Youth Trap Give-away in honor of Benton Howe, a young man who had a passion for the outdoors and shared that passion with his family and friends," concluded Robling.
"One participating youth under the age of 18 will be drawn weekly to receive a raccoon trapping starter kit, Trapping Handbook, a knife, and a write-up explaining Benton Howe's love for the outdoors."
