Belle Fourche Takes Governor's Award as 2022 SD Community of the Year

BEACON STAFF

(BELLE FOURCHE) – There are 363 towns and cities in South Dakota and for the second time in less than 10 years Belle Fourche has been named Community of the Year by the Governor's Office of Economic Development (GOED). The announcement was made at the GOED's annual conference in Sioux Falls on April 14.

Former South Dakota Governor Bill Janklow created the Community of the Year award in 1989 to show appreciation and recognition to communities that have made strides in economic development, community enhancements, added jobs and invested in quality of life for its residents. Watertown was named South Dakota's first Community of the Year that year.

Belle Fourche won the honor in 2014 and the following year Belle Fourche's Jim Doolittle received the Excellence in Economic Development Award. The 2022 award puts the community in rare company as a repeat winner.

"Due to the leadership we've had in Belle Fourche over the past few years the successes we've had have really built on each other," Hollie Stalder,

Executive Director of the Belle Fourche Development Corporation (BFDC), told the Beacon.

"From the city council to the county commission, our board, our schools, there's many things that contribute to Belle Fourche having the successes that we are seeing today. And it's a great honor to receive the recognition from the Governor's Office of Economic Development. We appreciate everything the governor has done to promote South Dakota and what a great place in which we all have the blessing to live."

The appreciation for those partnerships is a major reason the community will continue to grow and improve, according to Mayor Randy Schmidt. And it starts with economic development. "Economic Development for the city of Belle Fourche is important," said Mayor Schmidt. "We work closely together on housing issues, small business issues. The important thing is to continue that relationship and continue to grow with it."

Indeed it has been a remarkable time for the community of Belle Fourche. The city navigated through the pandemic with few, if any, long-term effects. Sales tax revenues are up indicating economic activity and unemployment is down.

The schools are thriving as the BFSD was honored this week with having the state superintendent of the year. The city's signature event, the Black Hills Rodeo, has won PRCA Rodeo of the Year nationally for four straight years. Albany Farms selected Belle Fourche to relocate a major manufacturing operation to the city. New housing developments are in the works and now the city has been named Community of the Year for 2022.

"Belle Fourche has a lot to be proud of and thankful for," Stalder said. "It is my pleasure to be working for Belle Fourche and I'm proud to call it home."

Belle Fourche has recently expanded its rail park from 27 cars to 90 cars, making it the largest transloading facility on the DM&E railroad. With the addition of Albany Farms, a ramen noodle manufacturing company, relocating from Los Angeles, California, the company is filling in a large space in the industrial park and plans to

Changing Places at The Belle Fourche City Council

The Belle Fourche City Council welcomes two new members who will assume their duties on May 2. Larry Schmaltz and Clark Sowers will represent wards 3 and 2 respectively.

Both men are Belle Fourche natives and both are passionate about preserving qualities that make Belle Fourche a good place to live. Neither is blind to the challenges of pending economic and population growth, infrastructure needs, and preservation of Belle Fourche's unique cultural history and geography.

Both Larry and Clark have ideas that will help Belle Fourche thrive and continue to be an even better place to raise a family, live and work without jeopardizing what makes Belle Fourche special. One of the aspects of life in Belle Fourche that Larry appreciates is the ease of living in a small town like Belle Fourche. "You don't have to worry about traffic or horrific crime," He explained.

Larry Schmaltz is a career civil engineer and a successful businessman. An impressive collection of achievement honors, service awards and other accolades are displayed on his home office wall. Larry is recently retired, but as with many people these days, retirement just means switching gears.

Larry is eager to begin his new career in city government. As a Belle Fourche city councilman, Larry will strive to bring the city council forward to appreciate the need for maintaining and augmenting the town's infrastructure. With the potential influx of new businesses and people, systems to manage traffic, sewage, and drinking water cannot be ignored.

As a businessman, Larry supports the importance of accountability in city finances. He knows that teamwork and shared visions among leadership entities in Belle Fourche are necessary for the community to move forward in a positive direction.

Larry Schmaltz and Clark Sowers have many things in common. Clark is a lifelong native of Belle Fourche whose ancestral roots go way back. He is serious minded, hard working and not surprising, also a successful businessman "I have been in business 46 years. The past 22 as owner of Black Hills Laundry and Dry Cleaning". He explained.

Clark brings leadership experience to his new role on the city council. From 1994 to 1996 Clark served as mayor of Belle Fourche. During his tenure as mayor, he gained knowledge on how city government works.

Clark's appreciation of the larger picture of city government is impressive. He is conversant in matters of city finance, public works, human resources, parks and recreation and law enforcement and public safety. Clark keeps a watchful eye on the city and makes observations about aspects of the community that need attention.

Larry and Clark both think fondly of Belle Fourche. To both the town is home. They have similar goals and visions and agree getting things done requires teamwork and participation from the citizens. Both strongly support fiscal responsibility, public safety, maintaining infrastructure and creating a friendly business community.

Public service is in Clark's genes. His family has lived in Belle Fourche where they have historic roots. Clark's history of community service represents a significant part of his personal value system.

For Larry, serving as a council member is a also a continuation of a family tradition that giving back. His father owned a concrete business in Belle Fourche for 40 years. "I like to think that I am picking up where my dad left off. He said in reflection.

Willard has served as a teacher, principal, and superintendent across South Dakota since 1979 and has been an administrator in the Belle Fourche Public School District for the past 22 years serving as Superintendent of Schools since 2008.

This year's award comes on the heels of Willard being recognized last year as the state's Innovator of the Year.

"I was just flabbergasted,"

Willard told the Beacon. "To get that (Innovators of the Year) was great but this is, well, I was just shocked. I'm so appreciative to be recognized again."

Pastor's Perspective

"Trust Can Be Hard!"

Trust can be hard! Especially when you realize every person is flawed and imperfect in a variety of ways. Many times, throughout your life, or sometimes just throughout the day, you will find yourself in situations where someone has let you down or broken your trust, or you have done the same to someone else. When trust is broken it can be hard to regain depending on how severe the failure affected your life. Some hurts are quickly remedied, and trust is restored immediately; while other hurts take time to heal and effort to work through for trust to be fully restored. Sometimes when the hurt has healed, however, trust cannot be restored in a relationship, and building trust can become even harder.

Trust can be hard for a very simple reason; that is, it always costs you greatly. Much of your time and energy, and even your resources go into building trust in a relationship. To know someone well enough to trust them costs you emotionally, mentally, and physically until you know them well enough to trust them, and they can trust you. Trust is an important part of life because it allows you to have healthy relationships with others. Trust brings security and assurance to life and provides confidence from knowing you have mutual care for someone else. The benefits of true trust are often worth the risk and sacrifice it requires to cultivate in a relationship.

The Bible, however, tells of a trust that is always worth the risk and sacrifice it requires; it is simply trusting Jesus! The cost of trusting Jesus can seem like a lot when you consider what Jesus said in Luke 9:23-24, "If anyone desires to come after me, he must deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me. For whoever would save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for my sake will save it." The cost of trusting Jesus is to let Him have every aspect of your life, to trust He knows what is best, and to trust He has a plan that is much greater than you could have. It means letting go of what you think is best and letting Him lead you in doing what is right.

Although the cost seems great, the best part is Jesus took all the risk in the relationship. As the Easter Celebration comes and goes, we are reminded that Jesus paid the price for sin on the cross so everyone could have the opportunity to trust Him. By giving His life Jesus claims as His own everyone who turns from their sins and trusts in Him. He has given full assurance that if you will trust in Him there is no risk of Him failing you or breaking your trust because He is perfect in every way! Rather, He has promised that when you trust Him fully, He will always be there, and always has a plan even when life gets hard, and others fail you! Proverbs 3:5-6 declares, "Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and do not lean on your own understanding. In all your ways acknowledge Him and He will direct your steps."

Will you trust Jesus to forgive you and lead you today?

Museum Marks the 80th Anniversary of the Doolittle Raid with Exhibit

Don Smith

Eighty years ago on April 18th, a celebrated event of World War II took place. And a Belle Fourche resident played a prominent role.

The Doolittle Raid was a daring mission to bomb Tokyo and several places on the Honshu Island, only 4 months after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. Sixteen bombers took off from the decks of the U.S.S. Hornet in the Pacific Ocean, without benefit of a fighter escort and under dangerous conditions that would require pilots to fulfill their mission and then land in China.

The successful raid was carried out primarily as a means of showing American resolve and lifting the morale of the American people, who were still reeling from the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor.

The raid is a particular source of pride to citizens of Belle Fourche as one of their own – Don Smith – was a Doolittle Raid pilot.

Smith has long been a significant part of the Tri-State's larger military exhibit; this smaller temporary exhibit, to be showcased in the Visitor Center, will focus on him and the Doolittle Raid.

The exhibit will include photos and storyboards about the raid and Smith, as well as some artifacts, a model of the U.S.S. Hornet and a new photo screen that will show a 35-minute video of the 1994 expedition to locate Smith's plane in the East China Sea.

A book, "The First Strike: Doolittle Raider Don Smith," written by Paul Higbee, details the historic event and the search for the airplane. It is available for sale in the museum gift shop.

The exhibit goes up on April 19th and will be in place through May 7th, when a First Saturday Brunch occurs.

The Tri-State Museum and Visitor Center is located at 415 Fifth Avenue in Belle Fourche.

For Belle Fourche teacher Micah Pennel the vision he realized from day one made itself known at the April school board meeting in a big way.

"Before they start playing, I would highly recommend you plug your ears," he told the board, gathered in the Administration Building board room.

Pennel in his second year as band director said the formation of a drum line was an idea he had from the beginning, and it came to fruition last year.

"I already had an established percussion crew and decided to take them and put them into this new role," Pennel said. "I don't know if drum line has ever been a thing at this school or not, but it seemed pretty new to a lot of people and a lot of people seem to enjoy it."

The drum line is a separate entity from Pennel's regular music curriculum. They meet for practice twice a week before school. "We kind of have become the travelling music program," Pennel says. "If we want to have music represented at some sort of event this is the group that I usually turn to since they travel easily and are a smaller version of the band."

The drum line has performed at basketball games, at the elementary school for homecoming, and at the 2021 BH Roundup Parade. Most recently they performed at Brandon Valley High School as they hosted the Minnesota Percussion Association's percussion ensemble invitational. They did not compete for placing but did compete for judge's feedback and won a trophy certificate.

"When they first started this they were pretty nervous performing in front of others," said Adam Nowowiejski, Activities Director. "But the growth they have had performing in front of others is pretty astounding."

One of the parents at the Brandon Valley event provided the district with a spontaneous compliment. In an email to Adam Nowowiejski, Activities Director and high school principal Matthew Raba the parent praised the efforts of the drum line at the competition. "It's nerve-racking and stressful to travel across the state to perform in front of your peers. Your band director truly enjoys teaching you all and you should be very proud of your percussion group. You guys did an amazing job," the letter read in part.

When he arrived at Belle Fourche, Pennel says the school's existing percussion instruments were not quite up to par. At the time Black Hills State University (BHSU) was looking to replace their percussion instruments and needed about $2,000 to do so. Pennel says the high school purchased the drums from BHSU which were still in excellent condition and at the same time helped BHSU meet their goal.

Spearfish Nurse Wins Hospice of the Northern Hills Award

SPEARFISH, S.D. (April 14, 2022) – Mavis Jewitt, the Registered Nurse who has been involved in Hospice of the Northern Hills since it began 25 years ago, was named the first-ever recipient of the Monument Health Foundation's Dignity Award.

She was presented the surprise honor during the 25th annual Northern Hills Hospice Ball in Spearfish. The event raised more than $62,000 for Hospice of the Northern Hills, well above the $55,000 fundraising goal.

The Dignity Award was created to honor those who have dedicated their lives to hospice programs through the Northern Hills as well as the greater Black Hills Region, according to Hans Nelson, Director of the Monument Health Foundation.

Mavis Jewitt served as director of Hospice of the Northern Hills for its first 18 years. She remains an active supporter of the program, its mission to provide family support, special equipment, programs and comfort items for 200 patients a year who are nearing the end of their life.

"Caring and compassion runs deep in her veins. When a patient, family member or coworker had a question, Mavis would always take the time to think, process and help them figure out what was needed," Nelson added. "It didn't matter if the patient was a 2-day-old baby or 102-year-old patient. The care was there. The love was there. And the compassion was there."

A nurse for 48 years, she has worked for the Peace Corps in Yemen and as a medical missionary in Haiti. She's also an adoptive mother of five children.

Taya Kristine FFA Freshman Vice-Pres.

Elijah Pomrenke
 FFA Reporter

Meet the 2021-2022 Belle Fourche FFA Freshman Vice President Taya Kirstine. This is Taya's second year in FFA and her first year as an FFA officer. Taya became an officer this year because she wanted to be more involved in FFA, and she wanted more responsibilities within the organization. One of Taya's favorite parts of FFA is the leadership opportunities it offers so becoming an officer was an existing way to be involved in a larger leadership role than being a regular member. She also wanted to get all members involved so that everyone had the same opportunities that she had. Taya loves the teamwork and the sense of community that she found in FFA as well as the friends she has made in the chapter. She also really enjoys competing with her friends against other schools in LDEs and CDEs. Some events Taya competed in includes Poultry Judging and CCM (or Jr. Parliamentary Procedure). While Taya isn't involved in any sports, she is proud to say that FFA is her sport.

Taya's family includes her parents Bill and Chelsy Kirstine, as well as her siblings Ambree, Lux, and Nash Kirstine. Her favorite memory in FFA was last summer at camp in Rapid City. Team builders, group games, and problem solving were some of the things at camp that made the experience so memorable. When she's not preoccupied with FFA Taya likes to read, paint, and spend time with friends and family. In the future Taya plans to pursue a career in education either as a history teacher in middle school or a high school English teacher.

Once Upon A Mattress: Cathartic Therapy

Meg English
Beacon Theatrical Review

Attending a dramatic performance is psychologically and emotionally beneficial. At least that's what Aristotle was trying to say when he wrote The Poetics. Aristotle was a Greek philosopher who couldn't rest until he tried to justify the existence of just about everything.

The Poetics attempts to answer the question, what is the value of going to see a play? Aristotle identified an experience he called "catharsis" which refers to a release of emotional tension such as pity or fear that ultimately "refreshes the spirit". According to Aristotle, the spectator of a dramatic performance will put him, or herself, in the place of the characters, feel the same emotions and thus, emotions such as pity and fear will be purged from his or her consciousness, etc. etc. In any case, a spectator should leave the auditorium feeling uplifted, free from negative emotions.

A lengthy standing ovation followed the matinee performance of Once Upon a Mattress at the Belle Fourche Rec Center Auditorium Sunday afternoon. The audience was clearly satisfied and happy. Perhaps Aristotle has a valid point about the value of dramatic theater.

Once Upon a Mattress was a highly successful Broadway production when it first appeared on Broadway in 1959. The story is a comedy adaption of a classic fairy tale, "The Princess and the Pea" By Hans Christian Anderson. Although the play is over 60 years old, it is still relevant and an excellent choice for talented high school thespians.

Serious subjects in the play are addressed in the play such as marriage, romantic relationships, and coming of age. In the end, conflicts are resolved and the show ends happily.

The Belle Fourche High School production of the play was fabulous. The musical numbers are catchy or maybe catching. I've been humming them for several days. The sound quality was excellent. The characterizations were convincing and memorable. The magnificent costumes, were colorful, medieval and beautiful. Scene changes were managed easily, the setting carefully prepared, and comfortable seating made the play even more enjoyable.

In a small community where the audience knows the kids, spectators also experience a sense of pride in community, school and the participants, all of them. So thank you performers, directors, musicians, sponsors, stage managers, and technical support.

Once Upon a Mattress was a wonderful way to spend a Sunday afternoon. Ticket lines were short, seating was comfortable and offered the best possible sight lines. Good high school performances tend to help dispel disparaging thoughts about the what's wrong with youth today. The world at large needs more theater. Fortunately, Belle Fourche offers more theater than other towns its size. And it's cheaper than professional therapy.

Knights from Once Upon a Mattress bow to the audience as Prince Dauntless (Dustin Kolb) and Princess Winnifred (Rose Sprigler) look down from the elevated mattress.

FFA Parliamentary Kord Colburn

FFA Reporter

Meet the 2021-2022 Belle Fourche FFA Parliamentary Kord Colburn. This is Kord's second year in FFA and his first year as an officer. His family is mainly him and his mom, Marla Colburn. Kord really likes the general vibe of FFA and the people in it, as well as the fulfillment that he gets from the community that he is involved with through FFA. He says that it's a different kind of happiness being part of a team in FFA than in other organizations simply due to the people he competes with.

The specific competitions Kord has competed in includes CCM (or Jr. Parliamentary procedure), and Vet Science. In Fact, Kord's favorite FFA memory is competing at State with his CCM team. He also enjoys Vet Science as a general fun competition with its hands on learning. Kord became an officer this year because he felt that it was the next step in FFA to become a more active and involved leader. Besides FFA Kord is also a member of the Belle Fourche Broncos track team as a runner. Kord also always wants to remind himself and others that "If you feel like your life is stable then it's not moving fast enough". In the future Kord intends to become a lawyer after attending Vanderbilt University in Tennessee.

The Good Stuff

by Jim Thompson

Radio host Jim Thompson takes motivational stories that listeners and readers send him and incorporates them into the a daily program he calls "The Good Stuff." It has been on the air for more than 10 years. The Beacon is honored to host the written version of some of Jim's classic episodes and we proudly present them here.

Now that I'm golfing regularly while wintering in Arizona, I tend to listen to stories "about" golf. This is the best one so far, and one you can share over coffee.

Caddying for Two

The Mothers-to-be class was in full swing, with the room full of pregnant woman and their husbands. The instructor was teaching the women how to breathe properly, along with informing the men how to give the necessary assurances at this stage of the plan.

The teacher then changed the subject a little, announcing "Ladies, exercise if good for you. Walking especially beneficial. And gentlemen, it wouldn't hurt you to take the time to go walking with your partner" The room got really quiet. Finally a man in the middle of the group raised his hand.

Yes?, prompted the teacher.

Is it alright if she carries a golf bag while we walk?

2022 ProRodeo Hall of Fame Class Unveiled

Trevor Brazile heads up star-studded class of 11 inductees.

CO SPRINGS, Colo. — Trevor Brazile, the King of PRCA cowboys with 26 world championships, heads up a star-studded 2022 induction class for the ProRodeo Hall of Fame.

Brazile is joined by four-time PRCA World Champion Bareback Rider Bobby Mote (2002, 2007, 2009-2010), World Champion Team Roper Bobby Harris (1991), stock contractor, the late Jake Beutler, rodeo clown Rick Young, four-time PRCA Saddle Bronc Horse of the Year Frontier Rodeo's Medicine Woman, rodeo notable Mel Potter, world champion steer wrestler Roy Duvall's horse Whiskey and barrel racer Ardith Bruce and WPRA notable Cindy Rosser.

They will be enshrined July 16 during ceremonies in the sculpture garden adjacent to the Hall, along with the rodeo committee from Nebraska's Big Rodeo in Burwell.

The 2022 Ken Stemler Pioneer Award, which recognizes those who have provided groundbreaking, innovative ideas and forward thinking that help the development, advancement, and success of the PRCA and/or the Hall of Fame and their missions is being awarded posthumously to John Van Cronkhite, the first general manager of the National Finals Rodeo in 1959.

Brazile, ProRodeo's only $7-million cowboy, has 26 gold buckles that include a PRCA-record 14 in all-around (2002-04, 2006-15, 2018), three in tie-down roping (2007, 2009-10) and one in team roping (2010) to go with the National Finals Steer Roping gold buckles in 2006-07, 2011, 2013-15 and 2019-20.

Mote, who retired in 2017 at the age of 41, qualified for 15 consecutive NFRs for 2001-2015 and was reserve world champion in 2001 and 2006.

Harris qualified 18 times in team roping in 1981-82, 1984-95 and 1997, 1999, 2002, and 2010. He also qualified for the NFR in 1986-91 and 1993 and 2006.

Lynn Beutler of Elk City, Okla., was an integral part of professional rodeo for 40 years, becoming one of the sport's most widely known stock contractors in the family rodeo company known as Beutler Brothers. The company, started in 1929 with Lynn, Jake, and Elra Beutler, was recognized as one of the top stock contracting firms producing rodeos across the Southwest and Northwest.

In 1974, Young was selected to work the NFR in Oklahoma City and in 1980 he was named PRCA's Clown of the Year. He was named Coors Man in the Can at the NFR in 1991, 1994 and 1996-97.

Medicine Woman was the four-time PRCA Saddle Bronc Horse of the Year (2011, 2014-16) and the two-time saddle bronc horse of the National Finals Rodeo (2010 and 2015). She retired after competing at the 2020 Wrangler NFR at Globe Life Field in Arlington, Texas. She passed away this past December at the age of 19.

Duvall, who won world titles in 1967, 1969 and 1972, spent nine years riding Whiskey.

At his peak, back in 1959, Potter competed in the inaugural National Finals Rodeo in Dallas as a tie-down roper, finishing 14th in the final standings.

1964 WPRA World Champion Bruce will be inducted into the WPRA Barrel Racing category, while Rosser will be inducted as a WPRA notable.

Bruce, who was born July 22, 1931, and currently resides in Fountain, Colo., has been a member of the WPRA since 1960, landing among the top 15 seven consecutive years from 1963-1969. In 1967, she and Red won the Houston Livestock

Show and Rodeo the first year it was held in the Astrodome.

Cindy Rosser, like Bruce, has been a staunch supporter of the WPRA and has worked every facet of the rodeo business.

“Arizona Trip 1977 - Self Portrait”
Oil

My first trip to Arizona. For lack of funds I slept in my pickup at a KOA near Prescott and ate hot dogs and various canned goods. I had a 35mm camera (pre-digital) that sported a self timer so I set it on the tailgate and snapped a photo to commemorate the occasion.
Fast forward to 2021, I ran across said photo and thought why not? Artists have painted their own likeness throughout history so, voila! Done deal and no one was hurt in the process!

Capitol News

KAREN ODELL

Well, we prayed for moisture, and we got it. The storm began as rain, but soon turned to snow. The front came down from Canada to south of Capitol, and it sat there for three days. The winds gusted to 60 or 70 miles an hour, but if the cattle could get out of the wind, it was not too cold to have a calf. The new babies did well, if they were out of the wind.

Dick and Erma Albert stayed home most of the week. On Friday, they went to the Senior Citizen dinner. They did not go to mass on Good Friday, but got to see St Anthony's service on the internet. Easter services were early on Sunday, so after mass, they went to Crow Buttes for breakfast. Everything was closed in Buffalo, but they really enjoyed the good breakfast at Crow Buttes. Father Brian went to Ralph for the next service; and then on to Bison after that.

Pete Anderson gave his own version of the blizzard. He went to church at Camp Crook on Sunday, and stayed for Easter pot luck dinner.

Alvin and Marlee Cordell had spent a couple of days getting ready for the coming storm. They got the yearlings moved to the house and brought the cows home from the river to the corral. Ryan Cordell was working at the Horton place to keep things sheltered, and Denin Cheguis was busy at the Loken place during the storm. Alvin had heard that Minot had gotten three feet of snow on the level, so we were lucky to have only three-foot drifts.

Bruce and Lynn Gustafson, had also been waiting for the storm to blow itself out. They were glad to see the sun again on Friday. On Sunday, they went to Little Missouri Church for the Easter service, and found the church packed for the special day.

Doug and Julia Davis had to sit out the storm. Early on Friday, Jake, Callie, Keaton and Kellan came from Belle Fourche to help out. With Doug on the tractor, and Jake and Callie on other machinery, they were soon getting the corrals plowed out. The boys couldn't find their sleds, because they were under the porch and covered by a big drift, so they had some incentive to dig them out, and make a path to the door. On Saturday, Callie and the boys went in to Camp Crook for the Easter egg hunt. They stopped to visit their Aunt Lori Buck, and she was glad for the visit. All but Julia, went to church at Little Missouri on Sunday, and they were surprised at the great number of kids that were there for the service.

Ian and Jenna Flatgard were nearly worn out by the storm. Their youth must have kept them going. Marla just goes along wherever they go and is happy about it.

Junior and Shirley Melum had Easter dinner at their house on Sunday. Ernie, Rachel and Tommy came over. They were still busy pushing snow out of the corrals and making room for new mothers and calves.

Calving has been going full blast at Ronda Cordell's. Last week, Dague Trucking hauled two loads of cows for Ronda, to the Thursday sale at Belle Fourche Livestock Exchange. Diane Wear came on Tuesday to help with calving. Gene Secrest, Denise and the girls had gone to appointments in Rapid City, last Wednesday and Thursday. Ronda received her last load of hay on Friday morning. Then she went to Justin Kerr's to help with a heifer.

Diane went to Hettinger last week, for her grandson, Ryker Douglas's fourth birthday party. She spent the night with her son, Josh Douglas, and returned on Sunday. Ronda is especially appreciative of all the chores, cooking, and calf checking that Diane does to help out. Clint Zolnoski, Gene Secrest, Diane Wear, and Ronda have been busy with very full days and nights, especially during and after the winter storm that hit on Tuesday. Denise, Darby and Abby take care of some barn chores and cooking, when Denise is not at her regular job. Darby and Abby love to help with chores, and watch the baby calves. They gather eggs and have fun playing in the snow.

Gene, Clint, Diane and Ronda spent hours and hours outside each day facing that miserable wind and snow that felt like particles of glass hitting the skin, during the storm.

The 'calving cabin' has been the permanent home for the Zolnoski family, and Gene Secrest, this week. It's close to the calving barn and saves driving from their house to check cows during the night. The girls have a picture window view of the corrals from there, too. Darby can even 'man' the two-way (or should I say five-way) radios they carry around the ranch.

On Saturday, Ronda rode to Camp Crook with Denise, Darby and Abby for the Easter Egg Hunt. In spite of the recent weather and bad road conditions, there were many youngsters there. Toney and Linda Hannah stopped for coffee, and a visit, that day. Denise made a delicious Easter Sunday dinner at the camp.

Dorothy Padden had not been able to get out after the storm started. She had gone to Ekalaka on Monday, and was glad she had accomplished that before the storm. After it started, she could not see as far as the front of the car. Bryce and Dawn had gotten a new wind station, and throughout the storm there had been wind gusts up to 70 miles per hour. They were soon snowbound at their house. The snow blew away in open places, but piled deeper and deeper around buildings and trees. Brenton got in to them, and the men finally got them plowed out, so that Dawn could go to Camp Crook on Saturday. She stopped to visit her sister, Nita Loken, before she came home. Their cows had drifted with the changing winds, and had scattered all over the countryside. The cows spent some time at Gene Odell's where they found some shelter for a day or more, and then they headed down the Little Missouri Road.

Friday was the day of the great round-up. Charlie and Karen Odell were still snowbound, but Charlie got the tractor out and made it to the road. Their house was drifted in on all sides, but the roads had blown bare. Ashley Padden was headed down Little Missouri Road with the pick-up, gathering cows and calves. Charlie found one of his calves at the cattle guard by Alvin's, but it was so worn down, he couldn't drive it. They will have to load it, and haul it home. Some of Padden's cows had been in the draws of the Long Pines, but were smart enough to wander with the wind. That was a good thing, because those draws soon filled up with snow. The three day blizzard gave them time to travel quite a distance. On the second day they found Gene Odell's house and used his buildings for shelter from the wind. They found his apple tree, too. The next day, they headed south on Little Missouri Road, and that gave Brandon and Ashley something to do when the snow stopped. The Odell cattle were in the lee of hire at least 500 new workers.

“Albany decided to come here and set up and I don’t think, if we hadn’t had the rail and the expansion to the rail, that they would have considered Belle Fourche,” said Stan Harms, Butte County Railroad Authority Chairman.

“The central location of Belle Fourche is a no-brainer,” said Lyle Rogalla, Lead Engineer and Plant Supervisor of Albany Farm’s Belle Fourche operations. “It’s the location, it’s the transportation, it’s a common-sense community. It’s agriculturally driven where there’s true value add made. And all the good things that brought Belle Fourche together when it was founded are here again today.”

A challenge currently facing the city is a housing shortage. After a 2020 study the need for rental and economical single and multi-family units was identified. Since that time the city has received numerous inquiries from contractors looking to invest in the community, despite the current high cost of building materials.

“We’re seeing a lot more development in Belle Fourche at the moment,” said Martin. “There is a lot of interest in the community from developers. It’s been going fairly well. We have a really good working relationship with the city and county as we try to find places to put these houses.”

One of those developers, DA Peterson Company LLC, has interest in bringing in a new hotel and convention center. The $10 million investment would provide space for meetings and conventions along with a hotel, restaurant, and fitness center. The project is currently seeking land along the Hwy. 85 corridor on which to locate the center.

The community has received statewide recognition for work on the Career and Technical Education Center at Belle Fourche High School. The $2.8 million building has served as a pattern for regional communities to follow in providing graduates with marketable skills right out of high school for today’s workforce.

“This is our fourth year in our CTE Center,” said Matthew Raba, BHFS Principal. “I feel it is important with our CTE that we are meeting the local and regional needs of the workforce. We’re always evolving and looking for classes and programs that we can offer that will meet the skillsets for our students to be employable locally.”

IDIC Specialty Drilling Chemicals LLC was also recognized at the GOED annual conference for its part in building the community’s economy. It opened its second global operation in Belle Fourche and plans to hire approximately 40 employees.

A delegation of representatives from Belle Fourche made the trip to Sioux Falls for the event. Along with Stalder and Doolittle, others making the trip included Wendy Bowers, BFDC President, and Travis Martin, BFDC Vice President, and Karen Wagner, BFDC Secretary. They accepted the award from Gov. Kristi Noem who credited Belle Fourche with exemplifying the traits which allowed the state to thrive despite the national challenges the past two years.

“South Dakota has shown

From A1 Willard

Schools at Custer. “Steve helps us when we get into a bind. I have to say, he’s been our go-to.”

Willard’s leadership was singled out in the areas of innovation, curriculum development, superior special education programs, development of the Career and Technical Education (CTE) Center, and fiscal responsibility.

“It’s an ongoing challenge being able to manage our funds without raising taxes,” Willard said. “And we are able to do those things because of our business manager and administrators being careful of how they spend money.”

Under his leadership, the district was recognized for being on the cutting edge of providing relevant opportunities for student learning in today’s economic environment.

“He’s very encouraging of us as administrators to be innovative and to look for ways to improve our teachers and the opportunities that students have,” said Matthew Raba, BFHS Principal. “He doesn’t like to stand in our way and he empowers us to do innovative things in our building.”

“I hope we’re known as not being scared to get out in front and be innovative,” Willard said.

The district has applied for a grant to fund heavy equipment simulators at the CTE. Students would sit in the simulators surrounded by video screens with controls much like the real machinery. The operators chair even responds to the movements of the shovel.

“It’s pretty cool,” Willard said. “When the bucket hits the ground the chair shakes.” Lake Area Technical College recently had a unit on the CTE campus for a demonstration. The plan is to eventually create a certification program for student operators using the simulators for forklifts, skid steers, backhoes and other heavy equipment. Willard says they will know if they receive the grant later the month and if all proceeds as planned, they’d have a class developed as early as this fall.

“He was really a leader with the heavy equipment simulators and the course,” Tammy Clem, School Board President told the Beacon. “The CTE was one of the first in this area and now other districts are following that lead. But this really gives our students a little more direction to go in their career path.”

The administration has been supportive of an innovative classroom program for third and fourth grade students at South Park Elementary. Principal Dr. Julie Hatling has overseen the Combined Classroom program which puts third and fourth grade students together, with permission of parents, to work at their own pace. Recently a delegation of nine teachers from Hot Springs visited South Park to observe the program with an interest in implementing the curriculum in their district.

“There is no question, Dr. Willard has been an advocate for students and the community of Belle Fourche,” Naugle said.

“I’ve worked for Dr. Willard for 20 years and he’s been a mentor to me as a teacher and as a principal,” Raba said. “And he’s given me a lot of opportunities. I think it’s a well deserved award for all the things he’s done for me and the students in the district.”

Willard says he’s not quite through yet although he’s beginning to think about retirement. “My wife doesn’t plan on me retiring but I’ll probably go another couple years,” Willard said. “There’s still some things I want to get started and keep pushing the school district forward.”

One of those is to establish a satellite nursing program for students, such as a CNA or LPN course through cooperation with Western Dakota Tech.

“They have that program in Whitewood, why not Belle Fourche?” Willard said.

According to Clem an official award and recognition presentation will take place at the SDSSA annual summer conference this July 18th in Oacoma, SD.

America these past two years that the right decisions can have a big impact on a small state. In that time, we have led the nation in home construction growth per capita as well as personal income growth for individuals and families. We also rose to the top five in the nation in GDP growth,” said Noem. “It was an honor today to celebrate the individuals and communities who have been helping us raise the bar to build the strongest economy in America.”

A delegation from the GOED plans to be in Belle Fourche in June to dedicate the rail park and tour the new Albany Farms operation.

Scoping Things Out for Spring

I seem to be going back to my youth in my older age.

When I was young, when I got home from school, I would usually grab my 22 single shot rifle and head out, afoot. Usually up northwest where we have a wooded creek. I very seldom shot anything, but you never know. Might be a bear or a wolf you had to protect yourself from!!

Now, I am told, I need more exercise and I am assured that walking is a good way to get it. So this late afternoon when the wind died down I grabbed a rifle and headed out. We have a small area with prairie dogs and we work hard at keeping them controlled or run off. So far they have been winning!

As I walked up northwest of the house, I got on a hill where I could use my rifle scope and scout out things. I wasn't sure if I saw any furry little grass ruining prairie rats but headed that way, kind of sneaking up on them. Never did see one.

Sure were a lot of noisy geese flying around. Filthy birds! My Dad claimed every time a goose put his left foot down he pooped. From the looks of where they hang out, I think he was right!

The creeks got a trickle of water running in it and green grass has started. That is always encouraging. As I made my way back I walked thru a tree patch I had planted some years back. Lots of cedar trees and some olive and elms. They all looked pretty good. I had watered them the first couple years I planted them.

So I guess spring has sprung. From what I see on the internet and from talking to neighbors, people are getting calving going well. We are selling all ours, because of the drought and high feed prices, but the ones still here should be starting one of these days. Hopefully they will get sold before they get started. Chance has a done a good job of advertising and marketing them, so far.

Here's hoping you had a Wonderful Easter celebration!

the house and a few were beside the hay stacks, so they could keep protected from the fierce winds even when they changed directions. The dog's pen gates were nearly covered with big drifts, and the yard gate was, too. Karen was pleasantly surprised that their electricity stayed on through the whole storm, and Charlie could work on taxes while Karen worked on enhancing pictures for the Vaughnsville history book. Karen thought of the UPS man, and hoped he knew about the storm over here. When things cleared up, they were glad to find the roads blown off in many places, but the house was nearly drifted, and the vehicles nearly covered because of the changing winds. Bryce and Dawn

Padden were finding the same problem, and gave up trying to get out until later. Hywel, the collie, was probably the most happy when the wind stopped, and Karen could dig out his gates. He tore around like a nut and chased cats in all directions. Karen climbed through the drifts and walked out to meet Ashley, but Charlie was coming back on the tractor, so Karen didn't have to walk all the way to the road. He and Ashley sorted cattle at the road, and Ashley headed them for home.

A pipe had broken on Charlie's other tractor, so he went in to Wolffy's in Camp Crook on Friday, and to Buffalo for parts on Saturday. He heard about the bull round-up in Buffalo. Bulls had drifted over seven miles to town, where they found some shelter. A few town cowboys rounded them up, and put them in the county corrals.

Easter Sunday still had some wind, but the blizzard was over. Charlie and Karen went to church in Camp Crook where Karen played the Easter hymns. All were so proud that the two Smith boys who had been studying hard, and had their confirmation at the Easter service. Then it was good to visit with neighbors at the pot luck Easter dinner afterward.

Happy Easter to all.

Wyoming Bear Story

Pine Creek, Wyo, is situated in Crook county, comprising a beautiful spring brook traverses a narrow and fertile valley, emptying its waters into the Belle Fourche. This portion of the country is but sparsely settled, the first settler coming into the valley in the spring of 1885 and became the principal proprietor of the soil. While busily engaged in building a house for his family and making other improvements, Mr. J. F. McDowell, a son-in-law of W. R. Knowles, chanced to take a hunt for the purpose of getting some venison. When not more than a quarter of a mile from his house he came upon a flock of bear. After emptying all the cartridges he had with him from a Sharp's rifle without effect, these ferocious beasts turned upon their timorous enemy to pay him for his unceremonious greeting. Having made good his escape and once in the house resolved to undertake this feat again only with him the dangers of the undertaking. In course of a short time they came upon the herd moving leisurely up the canyon, unmindful of the approaching enemy. Taking advantage of the situation, the two advanced near the animals and secreting themselves, Mr. Knowles gave the unsuspecting brain a volley from his 50-caliber Sharp's rifle, mortally wounding two out of the four of the number. They became very much surprised at this sudden attack from an unseen enemy and began to roll and tumble, at the same time setting up a tremendous uproar which made the canyon echo as if it were the headquarters of some large menagerie. After watching the evolution of their worsted enemy, they became a little more courageous and gave the bear a view of themselves. No sooner had they caught a glimpse of them before the one large bear made an earnest effort to reach them upon three legs, but her noble progress was effectively stopped by a missive from Mr. Knowles' rifle. Mr. Knowles was happy at the successful capture of two fine, fat bear, and resolved to try more of this kind of meat, finding it very delicious.

Work On Pipeline

Superintendent of Construction Ben Norton informs us that a good start has been made on installing the gravity water pipe line from Spearfish Valley to Belle Fourche. The big ditching machine was started the latter part of last week and up to date approximately eighteen hundred feet of pipe has been placed. The roads from Belle Fourche to the work have been kept in good condition by the gang, and this has assisted materially in getting pipe and other supplies delivered.

FIFTH ANNUAL TRI-STATE ROUND-UP Plans for This Year's Event Well Under Way-Many New and Novel Attractions Being Arranged

The committees having in charge the preparation for the Fifth Annual Tri-State Round-Up to be held in Belle Fourche this year on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 3, 4, 5 are rounding the work into shape, and present indications are that from the speciator's standpoint, the entertainment will be more amusing and entertaining than any previous year. Contracts have been closed with Chas. H. Wilson and Sam Brownell for the Wilson string of bucking horses, this string being one of the best in the entire west. Since last season these men have been scouring the country for "sure-fire" buckers, and have added to their collection most of the real honest-to-goodness outlaw horses in a radius of one hundred miles of Belle Fourche. In addition to the saddle buckers, Mesars. Wilson and Brownell will also furnish the wild horses, bare back horses, saddle horses, and the long-horn steers for bull-dogging, as well as the wiry active steers for riding. That the Tri-State Round-Up is favorably known over a wide expanse of territory is shown by depending on the community or business, nonetheless, they must figure what those steps are and boldly move forward. Now isn't the time for communities to embark on more time-consuming focus groups and studies or withholding community and personal resources waiting for better days. Better days won't come with inaction.

Communities must create the uniqueness that brings high interest and awareness. They can do this by investing in their downtown, assuring that they are the heart and soul of their community. They must spend what it takes to attract those competitive tourism dollars. They must take on projects enhancing economic vitality such as gathering spaces, retail options, bike paths, walking trails, roads, and attractions. Waiting shouldn't be an option.

If local businesses want residents to spend more for items than they might otherwise spend with a national chain, they need to assure their places of business are attractive, inviting, and customer friendly. They need to instill a better sense of pride through over-the-top customer service. Groups of businesses need to adjust their hours of operation to match the shopping habits of their consumers. In conjunction with that, they need to work together creating events that drive traffic into their communities.

While there are many options and pathways forward for communities, there is one path sure to fail. If you keep courting outside businesses that bring more of the sea of sameness you can find anywhere, those communities will ultimately fail. To succeed, create the uniqueness locals and tourists yearn for. Create the heart, soul, and vibrancy visitors seek. This is the only viable and successful path forward. The sooner communities come to understand this, the sooner they can get on with the mission of changing their economic landscape and future. Let me close with a quote by Nikos Kazantzakis, he said, "In order to succeed, we must first believe that we can".

the ordinance. They have a lot more knowledge in that field," Wetz commented.

Ballou conveyed his ideas about the increase in irrigation fees. He understands there must be money available for repairs to the system, however, he said that he hopes the city will be responsible with the money that comes in.

Ballou also addressed some employee issues, but Mayor Wetz informed him that personnel issues are handled in Executive Session and not public.

There were several other minor issues and Mayor Wetz apprised Ballou that those issues would be taken under advisement.

Finance Officer Sheila Smith explained to the commissioners that there had been questions about the increase in garbage rates. The computer that issues the water bills had not been updated since 2019 when rates were changed for water and sewer. The price increase was only for garbage rates, she pointed out.

The next regular meeting of the Town of Newell Commission will be May 9 at 6 p.m.

Newell Community Club Egg Hunt

BETTY BRUNER
news@bellefourchebeacon.com

NEWELL-The NHS Football Field was scattered with brightly colored eggs filled by members of the Newell Community Club awaiting a profusion of youngsters ready to find a bucket full of goodies. The organization prepared an innumerable number of eggs-members said there were too many to count-and set them out for the youngsters from ages zero to 12.

After the race to find as many as they could, the kids returned to the Community Club members and received a special prize. No one was left out since there were tubs full of wonderful toys.

The Newell Community Club members were also assisted by two members of Newell Labor Day royalty, Jr. Miss Newell Labor Day Rodeo Sami Owens and Little Miss Newell Labor Day Rodeo Addison Brownell.

From C1 HOLY WEEK

Betty Bruner, who played a flute solo, "Via Delorosa," with the lyrics displayed. It told of the walk to Golgotha, that Jesus took, carrying the cross.

Lay preacher Fred Wilson spoke of the last supper that Jesus had with his disciples, serving them the bread and wine which represented His broken body and the blood that flowed from his side after it was pierced by the sword of a centurion.

Wilson also explained the components of the "Seder meal," which is what orthodox Jews still share today.

"In the Old Testament, things that happened represent New Testament events," said Wilson. He spoke about how believers in the kingdom of God, move from one part of the kingdom to another, heaven, when they die.

"Through Maundy Thursday, Jesus demonstrated servanthood by washing His disciples feet," said Wilson. "He told them after He was gone (into heaven after his resurrection and ascension) that they would do the same things and even great things."

"All who believe in Me, may be one," shared the speaker.

The group then shared communion, as Jesus instructed His disciples to do, to bring the importance of Jesus' instructions to us to do the same.

"Jesus paid the price of our sins for all mankind for all time," said Wilson. "He had to do that before he could deliver us. The old covenant was between man and God. The new covenant is between God and Jesus and cannot be broken. (It is) all inclusive-anybody who enters into that covenant-believing in Jesus Christ-will be delivered."

Pastor Derek Anderson of Newell Christian church served communion and that was followed by a duet with Anderson and Becky Smith, singing a special Hallelujah song.

Following that, Smith led the children in singing "Jesus Loves Me."

(Clockwise from top left) Components of the "seder meal" were displayed so that those who attended the community gathering on Thursday of Holy Week. Lay preacher Fred Wilson shared an Easter message with those gathered for the community Maundy Thursday meal and service. Betty Bruner shared a flute solo, "Via Delorosa" with those at the Maundy Thursday dinner and service. Pastor Derek Anderson served communion, with the assistance of Jerry Seaman and Chuck Bruner. - Brunner photos

After hearing the blizzard forecast, Reub and I went to Hettinger on Monday to get a bunch of things we needed from Runnings and the drug store. It was a beautiful day without much wind and we stopped in Reeder on the way home to have coffee at the senior center.

The weather really changed Tuesday morning when we woke up to a raging blizzard and it snowed and the wind blew hard all day. It was almost impossible to see when Reub went to feed the cows and got lost out there. He finally found the fence and was able to follow it home safely, but Casey had to feed the cows when the snow let up for a little while so he could see where he was going. Rep. Sam Marty spent his last day in Pierre that day when the House voted to impeach the Attorney General. Sam drove home after the vote and didn't run into much trouble on the road until he hit ice down by Maurine that spun his car around, but thankfully the car didn't slide off the highway and he made it home safely.

The blizzard was still going so strong Wednesday morning that I had a hard time getting through the snow drifts to take care of my chickens. Reub didn't go out to feed the cows with the visibility so bad, but Casey got them fed along with all the other chores. Thankfully they are just about done calving, but we've started lambing and Missy had to come borrow some milk to feed a couple of twin lambs that had a dead mother because she didn't have any milk replacer yet.

The blizzard let up Thursday afternoon, although it was still snowing and blowing while the sun came out. It was light enough that Reub could see to feed the cows and Amanda and the kids went over to the lambing shed to help with the lambing and feed the bum lambs.

There wasn't any snow on Good Friday, but it was chilly out and the wind was still blowing, although not as strong. We found several dead robins that died during the storm, or maybe they caught the bird flu! Trig came home from his student teaching in Sundance on Good Friday to help with the lambing and calving over Easter weekend and he brought home some lamb milk replacer.

Taz missed the blizzard because he was at rodeos in Nevada and sunny California. He was up in the rodeo in Red Bluff, California on Friday, Saturday and he flew home Sunday evening. Red Bluff is only a few miles from Gerber, California which is when Bob Parks' nephew, Charlie Ridgway used to live.

Amanda and the kids helped feed the ewes up in the lambing shed Saturday morning and then they went up to celebrate Easter with her parents, Starla and Rone Jensen and family at noon. The weather was so bad up in North Dakota that Amanda's sister Josi Senger wasn't able to come but all the rest of the family were there. The wind went down and the weather warmed up enough to start melting some of the snowbanks and I went over to work at the lambing shed that afternoon with Casey, Missy and Trig. Reub went over to the mailbox that afternoon and got the mail for the first time we'd gotten any since last Monday.

A large crowd attended the Sunrise Service at Slim Buttes Lutheran early Easter Sunday morning. Halleluiah-Christ is risen! The men cooked a pancake and sausage breakfast for all of us after church. This was the first time they did the cooking upstairs in the new addition and everything went really well. Missy and Casey had Reub and I, Trig, and Amanda and the kids at their house for Easter and fed us delicious enchiladas. Amanda went to Rapid City that evening to pick up Taz at the airport when he flew home from California and the little people stayed with Nana Starla and RonE Jensen. I helped up at the lambing shed Sunday afternoon and saw that both of the black ewes had lambed. The first black ewe had triplets, two blackish gray and one coal black, and the other black ewe had two white lambs. A lot of ewes have had twins with one being all white and the other a black face lamb, and they are all cute little buggers. I love lambing!

After the nasty storm we had, my Canadian brother-in-law will get a kick out of this:

The Michaels family owned a small farm in Canada just yards away from the North Dakota border. Their land had been the subject of a minor dispute between the United States and Canada for generations. Mrs. Michaels, who had just celebrated her ninetieth birthday, lived on the farm with her son and three grandchildren.

One day, her son came into her room holding a letter. "I just got some news, Mom," he said. "The government has come to an agreement with the people in Washington. They've decided that our land is really part of the United States. We have the right to approve or disapprove of the agreement. What do you think?"

"What do I think?" his mother said. "Jump at it! Call them right now and tell them we accept! I don't think I could stand another one of those Canadian winters!"

Mail time in any Army Camp is a big time to the soldiers in Uncle Sam's Army because it brings word from the loved ones back home and it lifts one out of the Army life for a brief few minutes. Soldiers who are settling down to camp life in their new environment, welcome a word from home; be respectful and write a soldier.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson was notified by War Production Board officials to carry the news to all points to pack into your coal bins and sheds, all you can of your next winter's coal supply. You'll be helping the war effort considerably by getting it in now instead of waiting for next autumn's snow flurries. The advice to buy coal now may develop into a now or never for many coal users. Transportation now is available to haul from the mine to the consumer's coal bin, but by fall our railroad and trucks lines will be loaded to capacity hauling war shipments. Many coal dealers are offering summer prices to consumers who buy now.

Filling an Easter Egg Bas-

COLLEEN BRUNNER
news@bellefourchebeacon.com

VALE-Over 900 eggs, more than 210 prizes and delicious baked goods filled the Vale Community Country Church Fellowship Room and outside lawn. Big kids, little kids, and in-between kids lined up and ran at the sound of the church bell to find as many eggs as they could on Saturday afternoon.

Each egg was filled with candy and some with slips for prizes. Orange slips were in four of the eggs that allowed the winners to receive the Grand Prizes waiting for them inside. The Vale Community Country Church donated all the prizes and eggs. Seven members helped to fill the eggs and two of them made goodies for the bake sale.

The event has become an annual affair at the church, signaling the beginning of Spring and the Easter season.

Another event coming soon will be a Craft Fair scheduled for April 30 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the church. There will be lots to choose from.

(Left) Torin Baker was the winner of the 0-2 yr. old group. Although he doesn't seem impressed with the prizes, he will enjoy the fun haul donated by the Vale Community Country Church pastored by Darla Dunn. (Right) Luxton Baker will enjoy his prizes that he received by finding the egg with an orange piece of paper in it. Pastor Darla Dunn and the Easter Bunny are posing with him. - Betty Bruner photos

(Top) The winner of the 6 to 8 year-old class was Parker Townsend. He was super excited to win! (Above) Lucas Chapa will enjoy the skateboard he won at the Easter egg hunt held in Vale.
