From the Center of the Nation, a Ride to Honor a Hero

Robbi Longbrake
news@bellefourchebeacon.com

BELLE FOURCHE—For the second year in a row, the Heroes Honor Ride brought the Sturgis Motorcycle Rally directly to the Center of the Nation. On the morning of Sunday, August 9, motorcycles began lining up in the Tri-State Museum and Center of the Nation Visitors Center parking lot.

Spots were limited to the first 200 riders to register for the 40-mile ride that left from Belle Fourche and traveled via a police escort to the Buffalo Chip.

Before the Heroes Honor Ride (HHR) could begin, the hero who was to be honored had to be introduced to everyone and presented with a custom Indian motorcycle. “I want to thank everybody for coming out to Belle Fourche and being a part of this day. I hope what you guys are about to experience is something really special—and everybody has a safe ride,” said HHR board president, Jesse Cunningham.

Starting at the Center of the Nation is an important part of the HHR, with the Center of the Nation Monument serving as the staging area for the annual event. “We are here at the Center of the Nation Monument, right now centrally located in the United States, we could not be more surrounded by our American hero men and women,” explained Cunningham. “We have people every day that go above and beyond, and those are the type of people that we’re trying to recognize... Today, everybody who showed up on the ride, you guys get a vote for what we’re going to do next year. We’re tallying up those votes right now and we’re going to make an announcement this evening and we’re going to start taking nominations for next year’s category.”

This year’s motorcycle celebrates several significant milestones. “This year with our bike, we have a lot to celebrate. It’s the 86th Sturgis Motorcycle Rally, but it’s also the 250th celebration of our country—we have that here on our bike, represented with the 250 with the race numbers—but it’s also the 125th [Anniversary] of Indian motorcycles. That’s why we went with the Indian Challenger this year, and we have the 125th anniversary on the bike here as well,” said Cunningham.

Custom bike builder Derek Spitsnogle spent three weeks rebuilding the bike. “That one we didn’t pull the engine out and stuff like that, but we broke the whole bike down and did some fabrication stuff, and changed some parts—changed the style of a bunch of the stuff, and then obviously the paint job and the seat—it was about three weeks. We did it fast, but it

Hometown Thursdays Ends Summer on a High Note

BELLE FOURCHE—Thursday, August 6, brought the final summer evening of live music and visiting with friendly neighbors by the river. All summer long the community gathered together every Thursday evening to enjoy the familiar combination at Hometown Thursdays.

The last Hometown Thursdays evening of the summer brought beautiful weather to enjoy one last Thursday outside to soak in the summer breeze before the days start to get shorter and the weather turns colder.

JJ Kent with Aces & 8s took the stage to entertain the crowd with country music favorites. The dance floor was busy as couples took to the open space to move to the music. The band was sponsored by Joe Dirt Septic & Drain, LLC, Kevin Fuhrer Construction, Highmark Credit Union, and Wells Plumbing & Farm Supply.

Habeck Hooligans Ride for Purple Pride

news@bellefourchebeacon.com

BELLE FOURCHE—For 18 years, Habeck Trucking has been bringing the community together during the Sturgis Motorcycle Rally for a fun day filled with a Poker Run along with good times with family and friends, all for a good cause.

This year the annual Habeck Hooligans Poker Run took place on Sunday, August 9, with all proceeds raised from the event going to Purple Pride. “So we just decided to get a hold of the Purple Pride gals—this is our fourth year with them—they do a lot of youth activities and stuff like that so everything stays local,” explained Mike Habeck, owner of Habeck Trucking.

For a registration fee of $35, participants get a lot for their money. “To make it more simple, when you register, you pay and you get a meal and a T-shirt and your poker hand for $35,” shared Habeck. “Then you draw three cards when you register, and then of course they write that down. And then instead of drawing cards on our stops, we just wait and draw the other two when we get back.”

The Poker Run takes the riders on a 175-mile journey with stops at Captain Ron’s in Hulett, WY, Dewey’s Place in Moorcroft, WY, Cowboy Bar in Upton, WY and Dime Horseshoe Bar in Sundance, WY before returning to Habeck Trucking for a final gathering.

The ride is set up to be an independent ride, heading out on the trek whenever the riders are ready. “We don’t have kickstands up like some do, because it’s kind of hard with other traffic going on—we’ve got people that were here right at five to nine this morning—we just let them go,” said Habeck. “Because if you get 100 people trying to go at one time, at the

Most of us intend on “getting around to it someday,” but that someday never comes and we leave our family wondering whether or not they did the right thing. It doesn’t have to be like that. It’s not pleasant to be reminded of our own mortality; we can laugh, cry, or do a little of both. Regardless of how we prefer to deal with the big questions of life, it always works out for the best when we face things head on, especially in regard to such a sensitive issue.

Taking the time to make advanced funeral or cremation planning is a caring and responsible thing to do. Planning now, while we have the time to consider every option, can remove significant amount of the emotional and financial stress that every family must eventually face.

Kline Funeral Chapel offers an array of Burial and Cremation Packages to suit any budget.

Marlene Griffith, 94

Marlene Griffith, age 94 of Spearfish and formerly of Faith, went to be with the Lord on Saturday, August 8, 2026 at her home, with her loving family by her side.

The funeral service will be held 11am Friday, August 14, 2026 at the Faith Community Center in Faith SD with Pastor Calvin Chapman officiating. Visitation will be held 4pm to 7pm on Thursday, at Leverington Funeral Home of the Northern Hills in Belle Fourche, and one hour prior to the funeral service in Faith. Interment will take place at Faith Cemetery. Friends may leave written condolences and view the funeral service on Marlene’s obituary page, located at: www.LeveringtonFH.com.

Marlene Joyce Dore was born May 27, 1932 in Sidney, Montana. She was the daughter of George and Myrel (Lowry) Dore. Marlene spent her childhood playing outdoors as much as she could, with cousins, friends, and her brothers, Bill and Jerry (Dean). Being the youngest of 3 kids, and the only girl, she learned to play pretty “rough and tumble” even though her momma loved to dress her in frilly dresses and pretty hair bows. Marlene’s childhood was where her love for the great outdoors began.

The family moved to Ennis Montana in the early 1940’s, where Marlene attended school. Her mother ran a dress shop and her dad owned and operated a grocery store on main street. Later they moved to Ennis Lake where they owned and operated a tourism business. Many of Marlene’s favorite memories were from Ennis Lake. She loved horses and one day while she was riding her favorite horse and carrying glass bottles in saddle bags for recycling, she encountered a bear on the trail. She remembered turning and running as fast as her horse would go all the way home. Needless to say, the bottles didn’t survive the trip too well.

Due to economic burdens during wartime, the family was forced to sell the business and make a move to Faith SD, where Marlene’s step-dad Doc MacLean operated his business. Marlene attended high school in Faith, where she made many life-long friends, and also met the love of her life, Darrel Griffith.

In 1950 she graduated from Faith High School and following, on July 10th, Darrel and Marlene were united in marriage. To this union, five children were born: Debbie, Jim, Terri, Doug, and Rick. Following their marriage, Darrel and Marlene moved onto the Griffith Family Ranch, located east of Faith, and raised their family there. Along with the ranching, they began training horses and eventually built an indoor training facility. Their home was always buzzing with clients as they delivered and picked up their horses. Marlene never failed to make an extra place at the dinner table for whoever might show up at mealtime. Darrel and Marlene trained and showed horses in the SD Cutting Horse Association, where Marlene and her favorite horse, Frosty, achieved awards. She showed off her training skills by having Frosty perform his many tricks.

Marlene’s joy was her family and serving others. She loved to paint and do artwork and crafts. In later years she was known for making lamps out of iron scrap and old water pumps. For many years she taught Sunday School and left a lasting impression with those children, and shared her love for the Lord. She loved the Lord with all her heart and was baptized at the Church of Christ in April of 1989. She wrote in her Bible: “The most precious and exciting event in my life – I have come to know Christ as I’ve never known Him before.” Marlene was a special mother and grandmother, and she will be missed greatly by them all.

Marlene is survived by her two daughters, Debbie Stewart and Terri (Phil) Kissack, both of Spearfish; 3 sons, Jim Griffith of Texas; Doug Griffith of California, Rick (Jina) Griffith of Rapid City; 10 grandchildren; 20 great grandchildren; and numerous nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by her parents; husband Darrel in 2014; grandson, Jeremy; granddaughter, Jennifer; brothers, Bill and Jerry Dore; and son-in-law, Russ Stewart.

Pastor’s Perspective

“Symbols of the Holy Spirit”

This Perspective is from Pastor Jack Hayford.

The Holy Spirit doesn’t seek to be mysterious, but He is the most mysterious of the Godhead. We can read in the Word about the Father, and we can read about the Son who came and walked among us. But Jesus tells us that when the Spirit comes, He will not speak of Himself; that “whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak; and he will shew you things to come” (John 16:13 KJV).

The workings of the Holy Spirit are invisible, glorious, and gentle, and within them, He never tells us about Himself. He comes to glorify Jesus—helping us to see Jesus more, to understand Jesus better, to respond to Jesus more obediently, and to love Jesus with a deeper heart of commitment.

So the symbols of the Holy Spirit become essential to our gaining an understanding of what He’s like, not only in an objective way of analyzing truth, but also in the subjective way that He comes to penetrate our lives—ways in which the reality of the invisible penetrate the visible.

In each of the following seven ways, the Lord desires to move into our realm. Just as the Holy Spirit manifested for a moment in a dove and lighted upon Jesus, He wants to penetrate you and me with the glory of the invisible God that becomes visible in us—to flood His life into ours that we might then overflow it to others.

The Holy Spirit Comes as Rain

Rain has a dual implication. First as refreshing where there has been dryness and barrenness (Joel 2:23-29). Second, as restoration where there has been loss (Isa. 28:11-12).

The “pouring out” Peter refers to at Pentecost (Acts 2:17) is not an abstract use of the word; it has to do with “latter rain” that brought about the hastening of the harvest and fruitful crops. The Lord is saying that He will send rain to fields [people] that are totally barren as a promise of hope.

Needing to be refreshed doesn’t mean that I’ve backslid or sinned. The Holy Spirit, coming as rain, comes to bring refreshing and restoration.

The Holy Spirit Comes as Rivers

Rivers are channels or conduits to places where the refreshing of water is needed. John pinpoints that the work of the Spirit as “rivers of living water” was to become available after Jesus’ ascension (John 7:37-39).

The Lord wants people to get in touch with who He is, and that takes people who will let the rivers of living water be awakened in them and then gush out of their lives. So the Holy Spirit is manifest in rivers.

The Holy Spirit Comes as Wind

The Holy Spirit, coming as wind, depicts His power and His guidance. When Jesus tells Nicodemus about the new birth experience (John 3:8), He tells him that it is not like a tangible birth where you can see the baby is born and check the clock for its time of arrival. The work of the Spirit breathes into a life, and something transpires that people cannot recognize. There’s a dynamism but also a gentleness, like the wisp of a breeze.

At Pentecost (Acts 2:3), it wasn’t a wind that blew in; it was the sound of a rushing wind—like a hurricane. That sound, not the sound of the people speaking in tongues, is what drew the crowd in. The Holy Spirit as sovereign God is dynamic, irresistible, and unstoppable.

The Holy Spirit Comes as Oil

The anointing—the oil of Scripture—is directly related to the Holy Spirit’s work in our life (2 Cor. 1:21-22). The Holy Spirit’s anointing makes us sensitive (1 John 2:20). How many times have you sensed something was wrong, or something was right, but you didn’t know why or how you knew? The Holy Spirit, by His anointing and presence, confirms what He is—the Spirit of Truth, of Holiness, of Wisdom.

As prophets, we are called to speak the Word of the Lord. There are times when the Holy Spirit will give you words of comfort, exhortation, or sensitive counsel to say to other people. As priests, the Lord wants to anoint us for worship to renew us, so that our worship doesn’t become stale, habitual, or formal. And as kings, we don’t just get anointed once for all. It takes fresh anointing from the Holy Spirit for the dominion of His Kingdom and the authority of His life to happen through us.

Isaiah 40:31

But they that wait upon the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.

Prayer for the Week

Dear Lord, as we begin this week, renew our strength when we feel weary and remind us that we do not have to carry every burden alone. Teach us to trust You when we cannot see what lies ahead. Give us courage in challenges, wisdom in our decisions, and peace when our hearts are troubled. May Your Spirit refresh and strengthen us as we walk through this week with hope and purpose. Amen.

After a fun day of exploring the open spaces to the west, everyone meets back at Habeck Trucking at 5 p.m. Winners must be present to claim their winnings. The best poker hand receives $500, with second getting $250 and third winning $125. There is also a $125 prize

After a long day of travel, food and drinks are ready for the bikers when they get back. “We got about 60 pounds of pork cooking—last year we had 45 pounds but it was gone when we got done! So we made a little more this year,” said Habeck.
Habeck credits the sponsors for making the Poker Run fundraiser successful and benefiting the youth. “So it kind of fluctuates, I mean, if we get a good year and we get over 100 people this year it should be somewhere between three and four grand that we will raise—net, that can go [to Purple Pride],” explained Habeck.

Church Group Brings Food and Fellowship to Judy's Assisted Living Center

Margaret Bolte
news@bellefourchebeacon.com
BELLE FOURCHE—Residents at Judy's Assisted Living Center enjoyed a morning of food, fellowship, and heartfelt conversation on Thursday as volunteers from St. James Lutheran Church, Belle Fourche, South Dakota, continued their monthly outreach tradition. The gathering, known as “Cookies and Chatter,” has been a cherished ministry for the past three years.
Each first Thursday of the month, the ladies of St. James Lutheran Church arrive with homemade treats and warm smiles, spending time visiting with residents who often have limited social interaction. Their visits include shared snacks, friendly conversation, and scripture readings that offer comfort and companionship. Residents of Judy's Assisted Living Center, located in Belle Fourche, say the time together is a welcome break from their daily routine.

This week's visit featured cherry cheesecake, watermelon, cantaloupe, and homemade fudge served in the dining area. Conversations centered on gratitude and the importance of kindness, encouraging residents to reflect on small joys and the value of connection.
“We come here to remind them they're not forgotten,” said ministry coordinator Genevieve Skogberg, who has helped organize the monthly visits since the program began. “A simple conversation or sharing a meal can brighten someone's entire week. Our ladies are dedicated to these special visits, and we are honored to spend time with each other.”

Center manager Judy Riedel, RN, said residents eagerly anticipate each visit, often asking, “Are they coming?” She described the gatherings as a time of togetherness—sharing stories, enjoying food, and building a sense of family within the center. Staff members assist residents throughout the event, helping create a warm and welcoming atmosphere.
“I can't thank St. James Lutheran Church enough for the energy and effort they bring when visiting our residents. It is always a special day,” one center aide said.
St. James Lutheran ladies will continue the tradition of “Cookies and Chatter,” as residents of Judy Assisted Living Center look forward to the first Thursday of each month.

er. The ticket sales raised $560 with $280 going to the lucky winner and $280 to the fund-raising efforts. “I just want to holler out because you guys are amazing! You guys stepped up and you bought so many tickets,” said Sonia Ribordy, Belle Fourche Out of the Darkness Walk director. “I just wanted to promote the walk—the walk happens September 19 and it’s a free walk to attend. The walk is for mental health awareness and suicide prevention, bringing hope to those whose lives have been affected by suicide—have those conversations and check on your people, that’s what it takes.”

The only food truck on site was PooterQ BBQ, and they ran out of buns for their BBQ sandwiches halfway through the evening. Visitors could still choose from Brain Freeze, Crazee Cow Ice Cream, Pearson Block Candy Shop and Kernels & Kandies for a sweet treat.

The Tri-State Museum offered a variety of activities for the youth. The bouncy house was a popular option. This was only the second time during the summer series that the blow-up house was outside. Rain and heat kept the house inside the museum for the comfort and safety of the kids.

An activity center was set up for the kids to create a story wheel, color and play with Play-Doh if they wanted. Chalk was out along the sidewalk for anyone feeling creative, and lawn games were also available for play. The weather was perfect for a train ride around the park along the river and many kids took advantage of the fun ride.

Hometown Thursdays have been bringing a series of musicians to the public since 2013. The event brings friends, neighbors and families together to enjoy an evening of visiting, live music and delicious food. There is also a variety of vendors and a beer garden for adults.

It takes a community effort to pull off Hometown Thursdays each summer. Chip Conner, President of Hometown Thursdays, addressed the crowd and said, “Thank you JJ Kent and his whole crew. Thank you Hometown Thursdays crew, thank you everyone that shows up all season to make this a community event. Also, thank you sponsors—thank you everybody!”

Butterfly Wishes & Chocolate Kisses Event Raises Over $5,000 for Domestic Violence Survivors

Shirley Speaks Foundation
Special to the Beacon

BELLE FOURCHE—The Shirley Speaks team is overwhelmed with gratitude after the incredible success of this year's Butterfly Wishes & Chocolate Kisses event. Thanks to the generosity of our community, we welcomed a fantastic turnout and raised more than $7,000 to support domestic violence survivors in our region.

One of the most meaningful moments of the day was our live butterfly release. Each butterfly represented hope, healing, and transformation, and we were thrilled to watch the butterflies take flight - a beautiful reminder that, with support and encouragement, new beginnings are possible.

Guests also enjoyed sampling a variety of delicious chocolates, spending time together, and learning more about the mission of Shirley Speaks. The event was filled with laughter, connection, and a shared commitment to making a difference in the lives of survivors.

We extend our heartfelt thanks to everyone who attended, volunteered, donated, sponsored, and helped make this event possible. Your kindness and generosity ensure that Shirley Speaks can continue providing hope, healing, resources, and support to individuals and families affected by domestic violence.

Together, we are proving that when a community comes together with compassion, lives can be transformed - one act of kindness at a time.

From all of us at Shirley Speaks, thank you for believing in our mission and helping us continue this important work.

CBH CO-OP Foundation Awards $10,000 Grant to St. Onge Volunteer Fire Department for New Firehall

CBH Co-Op
Special to the Beacon

ST. ONGE, S.D. — The CBH CO-OP Foundation has awarded a $10,000 grant to the St. Onge Volunteer Fire Department to support construction of its new firehall, an investment aimed at strengthening emergency services and rural vitality in the St. Onge community.

The St. Onge Volunteer Fire Department has served the community since 1948, providing fire protection, rescue, emergency medical services, community assistance and mutual aid to surrounding areas.

The department's current firehall was constructed in 1950 and no longer provides adequate space for all of the department's vehicles and equipment. The new facility is intended to give the department the space and resources necessary to meet the needs of a growing community for decades to come.

The $10,000 grant will help fund site preparation for the new firehall, including fill material, surveying, dirt work, water and sewer installation, contracted equipment and labor associated with preparing the site for construction.

The first concert will be September 24th, so get your tickets soon from a CON board member or the Belle Fourche Chamber of Commerce. The variety of musical genres and great ticket prices make this a very popular concert series. Season tickets for all five concerts are $50 for individuals, $25 for students, and $120 for the family.

The Belle Fourche Area Community Theater Board is looking to fill a vacancy on their volunteer board for the position of "Member at Large". Butte County A more thorough and pleasing instance of transmogrification would be difficult to find that that presented by the Butte County Star, since the advent as publishers of Messrs. Dawley and Sayre, whose accomplishments as printers and newspaper men are indicated by every line, letter and feature of their paper. The Star is not only a handsome but a very readable sheet, and a credit to the Hills and of South Dakota. From its newsy columns we take the following: Prominent gentlemen are at work in the Interest of Minnesela and Spearfish, to get if possible, a daily mail line between the two places. It now takes five days for a letter to reach here from Spearfish, da distance of only fourteen miles. William Todd of False Bottom, has ten acres of sode corn that stands just four inches high about the sod, and has only been in the ground two weeks. How is that for high? Three gentlemen, who names we did not learn, have located an extensive horse ranch about fourteen miles below here. Thoroughbred, highbred trotters and draft horses will be their three specialties. Butte county is already democratic by a small majority when it comes down to a slow down. The republican majority given on the 14th of May, was due to the fact, that Butte county wanted a representative and got it, there being no candidate in the field for this couity in the Third district, of any other political complexion .

Grocery Changes Hands A deal was made on Tuesday whereby E. M. Sly purchased the grocery stock, fixtures and bakery equipment of the C. & G. Grocery and Bakery. The sale was made by the executors of the estate of the late J. W. Couch, senior member of the C. & G. firm. Several bids were made for the property, but that of Mr. Sly was the highest and it was sold to him. The grocery stock will be moved to Mr. Sly’s store as rapidly as possible, as he has sold the bakery equipment to the Model bakery. Mr. Sly will retain possession of the building lately occupied by the C. & G. store, for several months, having purchased tenants’ equity, which expires next August. It is understood that Brackett’s drugstore will occupy the building in the near future.

Broadus Banks Combine The Powder River County Bank purchased the assets and good will of the First National Bank of that city and took over the business of that institution. It is said that the directors of both institutions have felt for some time that the best interests of the community would be served by this action. W. T. Waite tendered his resignation as cashier of the First National bank and will return to his ranch on Little Powder river. Powder River and Carter counties may feel justly proud of the record made by their financial institutions during the several years last past when almost every other county in the state had one or more bank failures. The strength of the banks in Broadus and Ekalaka has never been questioned by those who are conversant with financial matters and have been in position to know.

Russia Will Probably Stir Up Row At Peace Parley Kremlin Will Try to Spilt U. S. And Asiatic Countries On Jap Pact Washington – U. S. authorities predicted today that Russia’s decision to attend the Japanese peace treaty conference will stir up a row almost certain to increase friction in the troubled Far East.

Diplomatic sources said the Kremlin was sure to try to split the United States and Asiatic nations on the peace pact, and probably would convince some Asiatics that the United States is trying to impose a “white Man’s” peace. NO CHANGE Officials were certain, however, that the treaty itself would not be changed much in spite of the Soviet maneuvering. The Soviet delegation, to be headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, is certain to attack U. S. treaty proposals and demand changes that will appeal to some Asiatics. A “final” treaty draft sponsored by the United States reached many foreign governments today. A last-minute changed recognized Japan’s full sovereignty over its own territory. The United States rejected proposals by India and Indonesia which would have limited American influence in the Pacific.

Belle Fourche women isn’t doing badly For one who has just taken black and white photography, Mrs. Helen Runholt of Belle Fourche isn’t doing badly. In fact, she won the sixth and final week of the Rapid City Journal Summer Snapshot Contest. And she also got second place in the last week of competition. And she also won first place last week, which amounts to two $10 winners checks in as many weeks. Her first place winner, chosen from 52 entries, was a character study of 95-year old Frank “Boomer” Glover of Belle Fourche. Glover is one of the few living members of the Cow-boys of ’02, all of whom worked on a famous cattle roundup of that year. Glover is a resident of Belle Fourche and well known as a maker of diamond willow wood canes. That’s what won second place this week for Mrs. Runholt – a closeup of Glover’s gnarled hands as he carves on a piece of diamond willow. Mrs. Runholt’s winning photo last week – a farmstead scene – was on the first roll of black and white film she ever shot.. She had used color film four years and switched to black and white for the Journal contest.

Fastpitch Softball It’s hard to pin down the Thorpe jewelry team, which played in the Rapid City Men’s Fastpitch Softball League, is sponsored by a Deadwood business and is composed about equally of Rapid City and Ellsworth Air Force Base players.

But Manager Bob Prieve says the team is out to “make a name for South Dakota” in next week’s Northern Regional “AA” tournament at Duluth. Last weekend at Mitchell the Thorpe team captured its first state “AA” championship by winning five straight games. For most of Thorpe’s players, the regional tournament will be a new experience, but Gene Keil, the standout pitcher picked up from Belle Fourche, is a tournament veteran.

maintained, or it erodes. Here at home, I see the same pattern in miniature. The chambers, Main Street organizations, and tourism organizations that thrive are the ones where residents attend the annual meeting, participate on local boards, and volunteer for the committee nobody wants to chair. The quiet organizations, the ones where three people make every decision because nobody else shows up, tend to drift, eventually struggle and then become extinct. So here is my ask, and you can do it before the day is out. Look up when your next local election is, whether it is a city council seat, a school board race, or a special district vote, and put it somewhere you will actually see it. Then tell one neighbor to do the same. That is how Main Street gets built, one vote and one conversation at a time.

By John Newby

“Building Main Street, not Wall Street”

Voting Turnout Impacts Community Wealth

Let me start by saying that voter engagement impacts the vibrancy, poverty levels, and wealth of your community in a big way. Only one in five eligible voters shows up when a mayor’s race lands on the ballot. School board seats, the ones deciding how our children are taught and how our property tax dollars get spent, sometimes draw as few as five to ten percent of eligible voters. Meanwhile, when the same races get moved onto the same ballot as a presidential election, turnout can triple or more. That gap between what we care about and what we show up for is not just a civics problem. It is an economic one.

I have spent years writing about what makes a Main Street thrive. New storefronts filled apartments above them, a farmers’ market that draws people downtown on Saturday mornings. But underneath all of that sits something less visible and more foundational: whether the people who live in a place participate in deciding what happens to it. The research on this is not soft or sentimental. It is measurable, and it points in one direction.

When Baltimore shifted its local elections onto the same calendar as state and federal races in 2016, turnout jumped from thirteen percent to sixty percent. That is not a small shift. That is the difference between a handful of the most connected residents choosing who runs the city and something closer to the whole community having a say. Researchers who study municipal elections consistently find that when timing, awareness, and simple logistics improve, so does participation, and so does the sense that local government belongs to everyone rather than a select few.

There is another signal worth noting. Two decades ago, roughly four percent of voters left down ballot local races blank once they got past president or governor. By 2024, that number had fallen below one percent. More voters are finishing the whole ballot, not just the top of it, which means more of us are weighing in on the county commission and the school board rather than skipping past them.

The economic case is where this gets interesting for those of us focused on Main Street rather than Wall Street. During the last major recession, the National Conference on Citizenship tracked states by their civic health, meaning how often residents attended public meetings, helped neighbors, volunteered, and voted. The ten states that scored highest on civic engagement and nonprofit density had an average unemployment rate of nearly two percent lower than the less connected states and communities. Let me repeat that number, states with high social cohesion kept unemployment two full points lower than similar states without it, even after accounting for other economic factors. Civic participation, in other words, acted like an economic shock absorber.

There is a poverty angle too, and it comes from some of the most rigorous economic research done in the past decade. Researchers at Opportunity Insights, working with anonymized data from tens of billions of friendships, found that the strongest predictor of whether a child born into a low-income family climbs into the middle class is not the poverty rate of their neighborhood or its racial makeup on their own. It is economic connectedness, meaning how often people of different income levels know each other and interact as neighbors and equals. Children raised in counties with high economic connectedness saw incomes rise by twenty percent on average compared to children raised in disconnected counties. Voting, attending the pancake breakfast, sitting on a board, joining the volunteer fire department auxiliary, these are the everyday mechanisms that build the kind of cross class relationships that connectedness requires.

None of this means every ballot measure or candidate is the answer to poverty. It means the habit of showing up, in the voting booth and at the town meeting and on the sidewalk talking to a neighbor, is itself a form of community infrastructure. Just like sidewalks and broadband, civic participation must be built and

Central Meade County News

By Sandy Rhoden

I'm not sure, but I wouldn't be surprised to find out that we are setting new records for the hottest consecutive days in a row. Last week was hot and by last weekend temperatures in Central Meade County hit 112 degrees with Sunday hitting 108. The rest of the week looks to be in the upper 90s or hotter. If prayers

It's already fair time, for the people at Capitol and on Tie Creek. That means school starts right away, too. Many people went to Ekalaka for the fair this week.

Ronda Cordell was busy last week. Direct Electric had come to set up some Generac generators. When they tried to get them registered there was a glitz of some kind in Ronda's internet, so the generators had to be manually started. With the help of Curt and Carsen Zolnoski, Oren Basler and Erik Berglund most of the hay has been rolled up in bales. The crop was less than a fourth of what had been baled in ordinary years. Ronda thinks she's forgotten what those years were like. The last six years have produced far from what they previously had gotten. Drought and hoppers are a challenge against getting the hay fields back in production. Hay production is down in a widespread area of the country, and the buying and transporting costs are up. Alfalfa is pushing $300 per ton, and other hay is over $200 per ton. Ronda is glad to have quite a lot of hay leftover. Lots of temperature records have been broken during this 'Heat Dome' siege of high temperatures. What rain has fallen, during this time, evaporates and is gone in no time.

Lisa Koranda came to spend a few days in Camp Crook. She and Ronda went to Buffalo, in July, for lunch, a day late for her birthday. That Wednesday, Jake Reynolds, Oren and Ronda dropped tires off at Farmers Union, and went on to Baker for supplies and lunch. "The 'Effie Barn', as we know it, is slowing being torn down. Ronda has pulled half a five-gallon bucket of nails. Curt can't believe the number of nails those old timers pounded in 1909. Ronda is trying to salvage some of the old wood for other projects. The Bobcat has been of good help for lowering sections. It had to go, even though it's sad to see it go. Seventeen-year-old Swiss Miss, her calf and Doe-doe have been keeping an eye out wondering where their shade is going. During the last week of July, Ronda went to Spearfish for an eye appointment and a knee consultation with Dr. Little's nurse. She will be having knee replacement on August 31st. This Sunday, Ronda took in the Ladner Ice Cream Social and program, which is always so enjoyable.

Ryan Cordell and Collin have been busy hauling hay. Alvin and Marlee Cordell's grandson, Gavin Pearson, has already gone to Dickinson, where he will attend college and begin football practice. Alvin and Marlee went to Buffalo, on Friday, to meet with some friends for supper. They had a great visit with Dennis and Claudia Price and Laurie and Terry Goehring. It was good to see them and visit again. On Sunday, Alvin and Marlee went to Ekalaka for the parade, and to take part in the benefit supper for Travis Walker. The parade was great, and they especially liked seeing the beautiful teams of horses and wagons. The super was a wonderful success, and the auction brought in a good sum, to help the family with their great amount of hospital expenses. Alvin and Marlee enjoyed visiting with Frank and Karen Nies. It is always fun to see friends again, whom you seldom get to see.

the time you read this news.

As the first Sunday of the month, this is a reminder there will be a pot luck dinner after church services next week in Union Center. It's hard to believe the end of July is almost here. Any hay that's bailed up seems to be very slim this year. We have had wonderful, abundant moisture for the last two years so this year's condition is a bit hard to accept.

Reggie and Jennifer Rhoden were blessed with a baby daughter on July 23 in Rapid City. Louise Holly Rhoden came into the world at 8:51 pm weighing 7lb. 90z. and was 19 inches long. Big brother Lincoln settled into his new role right away and seems to adore her. Louise Holly is the tenth grandchild of paternal grandparents, Larry and Sandy Rhoden of Union Center. Maternal grandparents are Albert and Holly Bruch of Sturgis. Louise joined her family at home in Rapid City on Friday, July 24th. The Lord never stops His blessings from flowing.

PRESSED BETWEEN THE PAGES #44

by DeAnn (Wolkow) Kruempel

"I've learned that people will forget what you said, people will forget what you did, but people will never forget how you made them feel."

The older I get the more I agree with this statement by Maya Angelou. There are people in this world who simply know how to make others feel special. No matter our age, this conveyed sense of belonging is a wonderful feeling, but I believe it makes an even greater impression on youngsters.

My siblings and I had lots of aunts and uncles. Back then people had big families.

But pressed between the pages of my mind are fond memories of one particular aunt. Born in 1907, one of twins, Julia was a few years older than our mother. She grew up on a farm near Erwin, SD where the girls worked just as hard as their brothers. It was not uncommon for Julia and her sisters to head outside before dawn, help milk the 30 cows by hand, then return to the house and help their mother whip up seven loaves of bread.

Julia never married or had children of her own, but she knew how to treat her nieces and nephews to make us feel treasured. I can still see that twinkle in her eyes when she sat next to us at the kitchen table and told us the story of the mean goose that tried to chase her from the pond. She would ask about our lives and truly listen to us.

I loved sitting by my aunt at the annual REA meetings. She would find a package of Spearmint gum in her purse and offer me a stick. When the time came for the drawing for door prize winners, Julia held her ticket. Inevitably, as the numbers were called, she would smile. "That's me!" She would go collect the electric hand mixer, which she would later store in her pantry next to the electric can opener she won last year.

When Mom and I stopped to visit Aunt Julia, I got special treatment. "The Watkins salesman came last week." She smiled as she brought the bottle of Watkins cherry nectar concentrate from the pantry. I think Mom was nervous when my child-hands reached for the beautiful gold-rimmed wheat glass that held my drink. Julia wasn't worried. "You'd better have some cookies to go with that!" she winked.

"Do you want to play my piano? I'm getting pretty good at it. I practice a lot!" she chuckled. Julia fitted a brown paper roll in the holder, then sat next to me on the bench. Until I got old enough to reach the pedals, my aunt's feet would pump away. The keys on that player piano dipped and rose all by themselves while music poured out. "Daisy, Daisy, give me your answer do, I'm half crazy all for the love of you..." Our sister Deloris recalls sitting next to our cousin, Ruth at the piano. Each girl had a foot on a pedal. Aunt Julia cheered them on, almost as delighted as the children.

I hope you have had an aunt or uncle, a grandparent, other relative or friend who made you feel loved and cherished. Even better, I hope you can BE that caring person for others. Believe me, they will remember how you make them feel.

“Little Fires Everywhere”

The following statements are generally accepted as truth: Little wildfires are common. Little wildfires can become big wildfires. Big wildfires are super-scary, dangerous, and expensive.

Fortunately, given the current concern with wildfires, there’s a national organization that publishes vital information on wildfires. <https://www.nifc.gov/fire-information/nfn>

The National Fire Emergency Center (NFEC) in Boise, Idaho consists of several agencies whose mission is to help fire-fighting agencies throughout the US know what’s burning and where.

The NFES has a social media and Facebook presence too.

<https://www.nifc.gov/about-us/social-media>

<https://www.facebook.com/NIFCFire/>

Tracking wildfires is one thing, but experiencing a wildfire is another.

For our prairie ancestors, wildfires were just another routine scourge among many others.

In his biographical work, Pioneering in Dakota (1937) O.W. Coursey recalled several fires near the family homestead near Huron between 1883-1887.

Coursey described one October prairie fire in 1883;

“The prairie grass which had grown luxuriantly that summer, began, to turn, powder dry early in August. It turned brown; became crisp, and the cattle hated to eat it. And so, they began to appear here and there, early in September.

It [the fire] got started away up north some-where, and it was moving southward and devouring everything in its pathway. It looked and acted like a great luminous Bird of Destruction. Its feet were on the ground, moving forward at a rapid pace. Its head was in the skies. Its long sweeping wings were spread out across a wide range of prairie and were fanning great waves of flames. Its paunch was a big seething pot of fire that consumed all that came into it, and begged for more.

It was three days and nights making its way down into the south-central part of Dakota Territory, leaving nothing but blackened prairies, charred; remains of stock and of some people, behind it.

The first evening there was a golden-mellow tinge along the northern horizon, and occasionally tiny shafts of light would shoot up, something after the fashion of miniature Northern Lights.

Father knew what it meant: the prairie was on fire: Calling us all out to see the fire-sign, he said ‘it will probably be onto us in about three days. We must get ready for, it’. We all went to bed that night with forebodings in our souls.

Mother, with her great mother-heart already aflame with anxiety for her six children, and for our stock and other belongings; went into, our sod house, all alone, and turning her tear-stained face heavenward to pray.

Twice during the night father got up and went out to see if conditions had changed any, or to learn if he had been mistaken in his estimate of the distance, and if the fire might be nearer to us than he had calculated.

The night was clear and beautiful, and the thermometer was well above the freezing point, even though it was near the middle of October. A stimulating wind was coming, from the north. The sky was growing a trifle pinker, showing that the fire was making good progress.

October haze, augmented by great clouds of smoke from the prairie fire, obscured visibility the next day. The colorful horizon could not be seen during the day, but as night came on, the northern sky, became tremendously, illuminated. It betokened, the solemn fact that nothing but a miracle could save us from the attack.

Father estimated that the fire would be upon us by the next night, and his calculations proved correct. Toward evening, the third day, he enlarged the fire guard to the north of our premises.

All day our family walked around with bowed heads. A few neighbors rode up, exchanged anxieties and then rode away, to their own homes to make final arrangements for the attack.

Lily, the calf, and our two cows refused, to go far from home to forage that day. The horses in the sod barn were also visibly nervous. They held their heads high in their stalls, The chickens in the sod hencoop were delirious, and the roosters began crowing in the evening as if it were morning.

Presently rabbits and coyotes began bounding past our place. They too, were obeying the law of self-preservation.

Fortunately, the wind which had been blowing steadily from the north for three days and nights, began to lower toward sunset.

A little before midnight the blaze reached our home; but by this time the wind had died down appreciably, and the fire, although still leaping into the skies, had lost much of its vigor; and had been greatly diminished in its speed.

The fire spread all around our premises, leaving in its path absolutely nothing that was not protected by the wide fire guard. On and on it went, industriously crackling consuming - plundering destroying, committing arson, murder and theft, all at the same time.

The next morning, all was utter blackness as far as the eye could reach. The prairie, in every direction, looked as if some unknown force had stretched a big black blanket over all of it.

There wasn’t a single blade of grass left standing anywhere. Mother walked out to the west end of our sod house, stood in its shadow, and with her hands wrapped up in her apron looked out across the blackened domain, with a far-away look in her eyes. The tears came; she bit her lips.

Some of the fires ran from ten to thirty miles before they could be got under control. Homesteaders would plow fire guards around their homes but, these were scarcely any hindrance to the great leaping flames that rushed over hills, swept through valleys, and ate their way across the prairies, consuming everything in their paths.”

Despite the lack of early warnings, and few tools for fighting wildfires the Coursey family survived the 1883 fire to live through more fires and other disasters. The number of children grew from six to eight.

O.W. Coursey’s memoir was published in 1937. The writing has some lively metaphors and the descriptions are vivid. However, as with any memoir, given the passage of time and the subjective nature of memory, the narrative may be a bit idealized.

The author’s mother is oddly stoic. She embraces the harsh homesteading life with incongruous enthusiasm and gratitude. The wildfire descriptions ring true, but not the idealization of what was a very harsh existence.

In fact, life is still hard in many ways and wildfires literal or figurative, are super-scary, dangerous, and expensive.

Community Rallies Behind Vale Volunteer Fire Department

The Vale Community Hall was packed with folks for the Corn Feed. Seating extended to picnic tables set up outside as well. Longbrake photo

Robbi Longbrake
news@bellefourchebeacon.com

VALE—There is something special about bringing the community together over a meal, especially when it is for a good cause. When that good cause is helping the local Volunteer Fire Department during a really hard fire year, then the community is sure to show up and show support, right?

A resounding yes, as proven by the turnout at the annual Vale Volunteer Fire Department Corn Feed held on August 8 at the Vale Community Hall. The Community Hall was filled to the brim with neighbors showing up to support the Fire Department. There was also overflow to the outside picnic tables. They were full, too. “It is a good fundraiser and it brings a lot of people together here, and we need it, that’s for sure,” explained Mike Grubl, Vale Volunteer Fire Department Fire Chief. “Just like any of these area departments, we travel a long ways and especially this year our resources are—our funds are getting down. But you know, we’re not in terrible shape, but we still got to get through August.”

The hot, dry summer has brought a rough season for the local fire departments. They are called out to fight fires almost daily. As a result, their resources are getting depleted. Even though it is a volunteer fire department, it has a lot of expenses involved in fighting fires. “Anything that goes into [fighting fires] even if it’s extrication gear or extrication stuff—none of that’s cheap and it takes a toll on us—but we look at it as, if we can buy one piece of equipment that might be a $10,000 deal—if it saves one life then we know it’s well paid for—so we work at that and try to better our department every year or every time we get a chance,” said Grubl. “I’m blessed that we got such a good crew and we got great departments that are around us—we’re like a team and a family.”

The Corn Feed fundraiser has been around for quite a while and then the VFD took a break from having the annual event for about 10–12 years. They started having the Corn Feed about eight years ago and have been having it every August since.

Fire Chief Grubl has been the leader of the VFD for the past 23 years. He has around 28 volunteer firefighters at the VFD but relies on all of the surrounding fire departments when needed. “Some of ours are some of the Butte Fire Department guys, and then we do a lot with Sturgis—right now we have about six of ours that are doing shifts for Sturgis during the rally.”

All of the crews work together to take care of the entire area. “I just can’t say enough about how proud I am of our crews that are here and what we see every day—we are trying to eliminate some of the bigger catastrophes that could happen. Our extrication crews, between all of us up here, are just like you’re in Meade County, they are good,” said Grubl.

Youth Rodeo Takes Center Stage on the Fair’s Final Saturday

news@bellefourchebeacon.com

NISLAND—While the rest of the fair was winding down, the youth rodeo kids were just getting started! Once again, the last Saturday of the Butte-Lawrence County Fair was dedicated to the Nisland Fair Youth Rodeo, giving the young riders a day of their own to compete under the hot August sun. The Nisland Fair Youth Rodeo was held on August 1 at the Nisland Fair Grounds Arena.

This year, the rodeo was under new direction. Camarae Lei and Brady Lei took over rodeo producer duties from Alicia Jacobs. Jacobs had been running the show for the past ten years, with her dad, Rich Kokesh, and older sister, Meg McNeese, directing the small rodeo in the years before her.

The Nisland Rodeo is in good hands; the Leis are ready to step in and take over. “Me and my husband have been helping Alicia for the last two years,” explained Camarae. “She [Jacobs] was just ready to retire from it and we were already helping her so we just stepped in and took over.”

The rodeo can’t go on without volunteers helping out along the way. “It went good—we had a lot of help from a lot of parents, and it went pretty smooth today, I think,” shared Camarae.

The husband and wife team plans on continuing to lead the rodeo in the years to come. They are invested in doing their part to keep the rodeo tradition alive so other kids get to experience the joy of competing in the Nisland Youth Rodeo. Around 50 kids, including the Leis’ four daughters, came out to compete in a variety of events at this year’s Nisland Fair Youth Rodeo.

The events were for both boys and girls from under age six to age 18. They were as follows: Pee-Wees under 6 (all events on ground/stick horse): Barrels, Flag Race, Pole Bending, Goat Tail Snatching, Boot Race, Dummy Roping;

Ages 7-9: Barrels, Poles, Goat Tail Untying, Flag Race; Ages 10-13: Barrels, Poles, Goat Tying, Flag Race; Ages 14-18 Girls: Barrels, Poles, Goat Tying, Breakaway; Ages 14-18 Boys: Steer Dobbing, Breakaway, Flag Race and Gated Keyhole.

Entries were taken online and required a nominal fee from $5 per event for the nonhorse events to $10 for all other events not using livestock and $15 for events utilizing goats, calves or steers.

This was the fourth year buckles were awarded to first-place winners. Cheryl and Curt Westland donated all prizes for second-, third- and fourth-place winners, allowing all of the competitors who placed to receive awards as well. Older youth could pick between fly boots, halters and sports boots, and younger kids could choose between stuffed animals, grooming kits and braiding bands.

Kristy Eastman lent her voice to announcing duties throughout the rodeo, helping keep the events moving along and the crowd informed.

The wind was blowing so hard last Monday that I didn't hang the flag up outside because I didn't want it ripped up. Reub went with me to Rapid City with my last appointment with Dr. Troy Gust to see how well I healed up after my surgery in July and everything looked good so he told me I was free to do anything I wanted to do. I had to drive straight into that hard wind on the way home so I didn't get very good gas mileage.

It was nice and cool on Tuesday when the temperature was only 77 degrees, but it warmed up on Wednesday. When we got up Wednesday morning the temperature was only 38 degrees, but it warmed up to 87 degrees later in the day and Reub was spraying weeds around here. Our great grandson Knox Leroy had his birthday that day and he turned eight years old. Wow, that sure happened fast! I gave Knox his birthday card early that morning because Taz, Amanda and their kids were all going to Sioux Falls for a state school board meeting for the next couple days.

Reub went spraying at the east ranch and his sprayer developed a leak in a hose, so Reub called John Brown about it and then hauled the sprayer up to Reeder Wednesday morning for John to fix it for him. I picked up Reub in Reeder and then we went to Hettinger to have lunch at the American Legion. We stopped in Reeder on the way home to have coffee with the Prairie Pioneers.

Casey went to Buffalo on Thursday so I called him on his cell phone while he was over there and had him stop at the Reva Store on the way home to have Vince cut me a chunk of that delicious cheese he keeps there and bring it home for me, which he did. Missy was up in North Dakota that day visiting their daughter Lanie Klug.

Missy came home late Friday afternoon and I called Lanie on Friday, August 7, because that's her birthday and we had a good visit. That granddaughter of ours is such a little sweetheart. I had to call Dish TV that afternoon because I couldn't get the television to work. I could hear the sound, but couldn't see the picture but after waiting for a while they called me back and finally got the television to work again.

Reub and I went to June (Brockel) Shinabarger's Celebration of Life at Grace Fellowship Church in Bison Saturday morning and joined a lot of friends and family to say goodbye to my sweet Christian relative. June (Brockel) Shinabarger, age 69, was born in Sturgis, went to grade school near Scotch Cap and graduated from Bison High School in 1975. June's mother, Ramona (Smith) Brockel was my mother's cousin because Ramona's father, Sam Smith, was my Grandmother Lydia (Smith) Wilkinson's brother. Ramona is the last one left alive in her family and all of my mother's family are no longer here, so it was nice to be able to see her again, even if it was at a really sad funeral. June was buried in the Bison Cemetery north of town.

Sadly, there is another death to report: Sandra Faye (Goplin) Hofland, "Sandi" passed away peacefully on July 30, at West River Regional Medical Center in Hettinger. She was 75 years old. A Gathering of Family and Friends "Celebration of Life" was held on Saturday, August 8, at The Granary in Hettinger.

Pastor Henry and Linda Mohagen were up in North Dakota on Sunday getting to see their new born great grandchild so Pastor Tom and Karen Davis came down from Hettinger so Pastor Tom could give a really good sermon at Slim Buttes Lutheran that morning. Bob Tenold wasn't in church because he was in the hospital in Bismarck after having surgery so we prayed for our dear friend. Karen Wilkinson fed us a delicious lunch with coffee after church. Reub and I went to the Gideon meeting at the Coal Springs Church south of Meadow Corner Sunday afternoon and got to visit with a lot of Christian friends. We prayed for a lot of people with health problems and people who had lost loved ones.

When we got home from the Gideon meeting the yard was filled with people who came to Knox's birthday party that evening. Great Grandma Louise Jenson, Grandma Starla and Grandpa Ron Jenson, Grandma Missy and Grandpa Casey Olson, Jace and Kami Jenson and their boys, Trent and Syd Turbiville and their kids, Taz and Amanda and all five of their kids, and Huxton Parmely were all there already but they didn't have supper until after we showed up to help them eat all that delicious food along with the cake and ice cream. All those kids sure had fun riding bikes, jumping on the trampoline, chasing each other around the yard and playing with the kittens before they ate the hot dogs, watermelon, cake and ice cream. It was a really fun birthday party for Knox!

Pastor Henry Mohagen left this in the church bulletin for us on Sunday: For this reason, because I have heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus and your love toward all the saints, I do not cease to give thanks for you, remembering you in my prayers, that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give you a spirit of wisdom and of revelation in the knowledge of him. A herd of about 500 horses passed through Vale last Thursday from Montana enroute to Rapid City and this was quite a sight to experience.

A car collision on Friday night on the culvert near the Cunningham farm south of town resulted in two badly twisted Fords, the occupants of both cars however, escaping without injury. One of the cars was being driven without lights which accounts no doubt for the smashup. All parties to the mix-up are strangers in this section.

The Butte County Commission on Tuesday appointed Sam N. Moses as the County Sheriff to fill the unexpired term of A. C. Craven, who died last Sunday. Sam Moses, old time cowman and peace officer, is well and favorably known in northwest territory, comprising the old range cattle country. He also served as stock detective where he earned an enviable reputation for always getting results. His brother Wm Moses served as sheriff for Butte County 25 years ago. Moses announced that he would retain the deputies who presently serve.

Supplies of coal are still critical in the US, according to government statistics and it is expected that there will be no improvement in supplies this winter over those of a year ago. Coal dealers are still being allotted coal on a quota basis and it is unlikely there will be any increases. Consumers desiring to obtain coal should order and lay away their requirement at the earliest possible date.
