BELLE FOURCHE - Early voting has been steady but for those who have yet to vote, residents of Belle Fourche, Butte County and western South Dakota are encouraged to go to the polls on Tuesday, November 6th.

At the top of the ballot, voters will be asked to select South Dakota's lone U.S. Representative, Governor and Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney General, State Auditor, State Treasurer, School & Public Lands Commissioner, and Public Utilities Commissioner as well as district races for State Senate and State Representatives.

In addition there are three constitutional amendments on the ballot and two initiated measures. Two of the constitutional amendments deal with the amendment process. The other deals with campaign contributions. One of the Initiated Measures deals with campaign cash coming in from outof-state entities. The other would raise the state's tobacco tax.

Constitutional Amendment W is a proposal to change campaign finance and lobbying laws, creating a government accountability board and changing certain initiative and referendum provisions. The amendment would lower the campaign contribution amounts to candidates and political parties. It also prohibits contributions by labor unions and corporations. It also places additional restrictions on lobbyists.

Amendment X seeks to increase the number of votes needed to approve a constitutional amendment from a simple majority vote of the people to 55% approval.

Amendment Z states that any proposed constitutional amendment shall be limited to only one subject. In addition, multiple amendments proposed in the same election must be individually presented and voted on separately.

Initiated Measure 24 (IM 24) would quell out of state influence on statewide ballot questions. It BELLE FOURCHE - American Ag's Fall Equipment Auction drew a large crowd of consignors and buyers to the Branding Iron this past Saturday for their 2nd Annual Fall Equipment Auction. The Online and live auction was held inside the Branding Iron's event hall with standing room only for the over 300 local area buyers and consignors who attended. Tom Baer, owner and chief hamburger flipper of American Ag said that the combination Live/ Online Auction in addition to those in attendance had 500-600 "online bidders and buyers. He estimated that equipment was sold in over 30 states and several Canadian provinces.

Tom, who also takes turns as an auctioneer during the sale, said that, "It was a very strong sale. What makes a good sale is a line of quality equipment."

the accounting for American Ag, ramrods the 14 people who work the Auction. No simple task on an auction that featured 195 lots; started at 9 am and ran continuous till 3pm.

Somewhere in the area of 50% of the equipment was purchased by buyers in the local area

Baer remarked, "The sale was up about 30% from prior auctions. We attribute that to the very strong local (Tri-State area) farm and ranch consignors who bring to the lineup high quality equipment. To give you an idea of quality, some of it sold for near the retail pricing. We owe a great deal of thanks to all our consignors and buyers, especially to those in the local area. We couldn't have a great auction without the strength of the local support." American Ag will hold it's coming April (dates to be announced), and as the dust settles on this auction the husband wife pair are already starting to plan. They also hold a weekly online hay auction on every Wednesday, except the first Wednesdayof each month.

Belle Fourche Winter Weather Outlook

La Nina to return for our western South Dakota winter.

BEACON STAFF

news@bellefourchebeacon.com

BELLE FOURCHE- Belle Fourche and western South Dakota could be in for a milder than normal winter for 2018-2019. But Black Hills Meteorologist Jeff Johnson says that doesn't mean we won't have cold weather and snow.

According to NOAA's Climate Prediction Center the winter outlook for western South Dakota calls for a greater than 50% probability that temperatures will be warmer than normal. At the same time, they are calling for a 30% chance that our December – February precipitation could be drier than normal.

According to Jeff Johnson

INDIAN SUMMER - After a cooler than normal start to October Butte County residents have enjoyed a nice spell of Indian Summer during the latter half of the month. With the cooler weather this week comes the reminder that winter is still approaching but the National Weather Service long-term outlook for the winter season may be seen as good news for some.

of the Rapid City National Weather Service Office what this means for Belle Fourche and Butte County area residents it that the average temperature would be about 2-3 degrees warmer than normal and precipitation should be normal to slightly below.

Blame it all on El Nino.

"One of the main things we look at when assessing winter climate is the presence of El Nino or La Nina," Johnson said. "And this year we are seeing a good chance of El Nino setting up and that brings with it warmer temperatures and slightly drier conditions."

According to Johnson an El Nino means that the high altitude air currents, known as the jet stream, that steer most of our weather systems, will be set up in more of a straight line across the northern tier of states instead of taking north and south dips.

"With the flat jet stream coming off the Pacific through western South Dakota it tends to keep the prolonged cold snaps bottled up in Canada," Johnson told the Beacon. "It can also limit the amount of moisture we get. However, we are getting stronger signals on temperatures being warmer than we are on the precipitation being less."

But don't break out the Bermuda shorts or stow away the snow machine just yet.

"It doesn't mean we're not going to get snow or cold or blizzards across western South Dakota, we likely will, Johnson said. "But if we average out the whole winter from beginning to end, temperatures should be slightly warmer on average."

For Belle Fourche, Johnson says that for December our average high would be closer to 40 degrees than the mid-30's and the average lows would be

Pastor's Perspective Berspective Description of St. James Episcopal Church in Belle Fourche.

When Being First Means You Must Be Last

We perhaps thought that Jesus had settled the disciple's argument about "who is the greatest" back at Capernaum.

But, evidently, the closer they get to Jerusalem, and the more the disciples realize that something big is going to happen, the more they want to have a major role.

Jesus has announced, for the third time, what was going to happen in Jerusalem. For the first time, the disciples are described as being "astonished" and "afraid." I think we get a clue as to what they were thinking by the fact that Peter packed a sword when they went to that final prayer meeting on the Mount of Olives.

Another indication of their growing, but still inadequate, understanding is the question the Zebedee boys ask Jesus. They approach him by saying, "we want you to do for us whatever we ask," which in today's vernacular might be, "will you do me a favor?"

And Jesus, patient as ever, goes along with it: "What do you want me to do for you?" Now, it seems that the request has matured somewhat. It's not just a question of who is the greatest, but who will be at your right and left "in your glory." This may indicate that the disciples may have accepted the suffering part of Jesus prediction, but have now latched on to the glory part, after he will rise. When that happens, the whole world will take notice, and they want to be right there in the spotlight.

"You don't know what you are asking." With this reply Jesus acknowledges that for all his openness about what lay ahead, they did not really get it. He uses two familiar analogies for his suffering, a cup and a baptism.

In calling the coming crucifixion his baptism, Jesus reveals the deepest meaning of baptism. When Jesus was baptized in the Jordan by John, it was a baptism "of repentance for the forgiveness of sin." By submitting himself to John's baptism, Jesus will "fulfill all righteousness." At the Jordan he stands in line with repenting sinners who need cleansing. However, in order to bring release from the captivity of sin for his human brothers and sisters, he must undergo another baptism – the baptism of his own death on the cross. In that act, he completes his work of redemption and opens up the cleansing fountain of baptism for all. It becomes the sacrament of our death and resurrection in Christ.

So Jesus asks these two eager disciples, "Can you drink that cup and undergo that baptism?" "Oh yes," they answer. Of course, they don't really have a clue. But Jesus ignores their lack of understanding and tells them that, yes, they will drink that cup and undergo that baptism. He is referring to whatever suffering they will endure as his disciples, the cross they must take up when they follow him.

Then, Jesus tells them that it "is not mine to grant" who sits at his right and left in glory. To many Christians this comes as a surprising statement that can lead to the wrong conclusion, such as the idea that Jesus is in a subordinate rather than equal position to the Father. In his divine nature, he is one with the Father, but in his human nature, he shares our human limitations. There are things he does not know and special favors he cannot grant to his disciples.

But there is a bigger issue at stake, the nature of the church. The disciples seem to think of themselves, and by extension, the church, in the same way that they think of the structures of society and government. It is another hierarchy where some people lord it over others. Instead, Jesus insists that "it is not so among you, but whoever wishes to be great among you must be your servant." Instead of a race to the top, Jesus insists on a race to the bottom, the prize of servanthood.

The story of James and John is disconcerting because even the most devout listeners can see a bit of themselves in the story. How many of us are able to truly base our lives and actions on the divine definition of greatness – servanthood? As Jesus has taught over and over in our lessons from the Gospel of Mark, the sign of true leadership in the church is service, not power; self -giving, not self-seeking.

Fortunately, this story closes with a message of hope. Jesus proclaims that the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many. Jesus promises us that although we will all fall short, through his death we are redeemed.

And that is the Good News.

From Chamber Director Gary Wood What is Fall Flavors?

What is Fall Flavors someone asked me this last week? I was hanging the Fall Flavors sign at the Tri-State Museum & Visitor Center in preparation for Pumpkinfest. The Chamber has been sponsoring Fall Flavors events since the fall of 2016.

Where did the name and idea come from and why "Fall Flavors"? In 2015 we took a trip to Prince Edward Island, Canada's smallest province and made famous by the Anne of Green Gables books. We spent two weeks there in the fall of 2015 touring the island and taking in their Fall Flavors events. PEI has a very short tourist season, about 6 weeks and Fall Flavors was their effort to extend that season. They also have a culinary institute on the island and many graduate chefs have stayed and opened restaurants and bed and breakfasts across the island. They combined the need for an extended season and their great "island cuisine" and have thousands coming to Fall Flavors events annually. The Belle Fourche Chamber wanted to extend the "events" season beyond our summer activities so we started Fall Flavors and Winterfest to do just that. Pumpkinfest last week ended our 2018 Fall Flavors season that included a Festival at the Historic Roosevelt Events Center and a Fall Flavors in the Field event at the Scott McCart home overlooking the Redwater river valley and the Northern Hills. Those anchor events combined with other events put on around the community by businesses extend our events season and encourages customers to think about Belle Fourche as a destination.

Thanks to everyone that participated or sponsored an event this season. Fall Flavors now gives way to the holiday season. Le Belle Marche' will host two markets in November. November 9, 10 and 23, 24 which is National Shop Small weekend. The evening of November 23 starting with the Parade of Lights at 6 p.m. will begin our holiday season with several events that evening. Check our web site for events and times or pick up an event flyer at a Belle Fourche businesses. As the events get closer watch the Chamber article in the Beacon for further details.

City Hires New Finance Officer

Thurs. Nov. 1, 2018

BEACON STAFF news@bellefourchebeacon.com

BELLE FOURCHE - The Belle Fourche City Council at their October 1 meeting voted unanimously to approve Mayor Gloria Landphere's appointment of Breanna Schaefer as the City of Belle Fourche's Finance Officer. Schaefer has been employed by the City for the past four years. She served as Assistant to and is now replacing the retired Finance officer Sharon Mins. Breanna and her husband Jon have lived in Belle Fourche for the past four years. Jon is the Manager of the Knecht's store in Spearfish and the couple have three sons: Gabe, Adam, and Sawyer.

Originally from Sidney, MT she attended Northwest College in Powell, WY and then transferred to Black Hills State University for Business Administration with Management specialization.

The move from Montana to South Dakota came when husband Jon who was a Financial Advisor for Edward Jones had the opportunity to open an office branch. Breanna commented, "it could be in either MT, WY or SD, naturally, we chose the Black Hills".

In total Schaefer has worked ten years in municipal government.

Prior to that she worked in private business, as well as a stint for the MT Department of Labor as a Migrant Outreach Coordinator.

Beacon: What do you enjoy most about working for the city of Belle Fourche?

Schaefer: "The progressiveness and foresight. The city staff and local governing boards have been very pro-active about recreation, infrastructure, and industry. It's been a breath of fresh air to see everyone working together for the betterment of our community."

Beacon: What do you consider the most challenging part of the job?

Schaefer: "Right now it's just trying to fill the shoes of the Finance Officers that have come before me. The bar has been set high not only here, but across the state, and I fully anticipate meeting those expectations."

Beacon: Following after a key employee in any job is difficult, but now that the role and job responsibilities are yours is there anything you hope to change or improve upon?

Schaefer: "One of my main goals is to bring more transparency between city government and its constituents. Citizens of our community work hard for their incomes and want to know how their tax dollars are being utilized. We are working on getting our audits and budgets available on the city's website so that our citizens can see exactly what is being done."

Beacon: Is there anything about you that people would be surprised to hear? Schaefer: I suppose the only somewhat surprising thing I can think of is that I spoke Spanish before I spoke English. My father was a single military man who was stationed in California while he was in the Navy, so I spent a lot of time with our Hispanic neighbors.

Beacon: Anything else you'd like to comment on?

Schaefer: Just that I genuinely care about our community and that I fondly look forward to serving as their fiduciary.

Schaefer was hired at a starting wage of $65,428.09 (Grade D19, Step 4) annual salary as an exempt employee with a sixmonth review.

BF Middle School Teacher Travels to China with Research Team

BHSU Press Release - This summer, four Black Hills State University students and two local middle school teachers, including Andrew Johnson from Belle Fourche, also a BHSU alum, traveled to China to participate in an international meeting on furthering germanium technology. While in China, the students and teachers toured the Chinese Jinping Underground Lab, which is the deepest in the world.

The BHSU students and middle school teachers had this unique opportunity thanks to a National Science Foundation consortium award to further germanium research. Germanium is used in several applications underground including as a dark matter detector medium and at the BHSU Underground Campus at the Sanford Underground Research Facility to characterize materials for largescale physics experiments.

Dr. Brianna Mount, assistant professor of physics at BHSU, said the students and teachers who participated will bring the knowledge back into their careers and classrooms in South Dakota.

"Two of the BHSU students who traveled to China are now participating in research at the BHSU Underground Campus. We selected middle school teachers to be part of this project because that age can often be a turning point for whether or not students continue to pursue higher levels of science for future study or professions," said Mount.

To prepare to attend the international meeting in China, the four BHSU students took part in professional development, research talks, toured Sanford Lab, and learned the basics of particle physics.

Another key component of their preparation was learning computer programming.

"The BHSU students were from a variety of science majors. Computer programming is a tool they'll be able to use throughout their respective disciplines," said Mount.

K Dyn Newbrough, applied health sciences and exercise science major from Eagle Butte, said the biggest takeaway from the program was gaining a better understanding and knowledge of physics and neutrinos.

"My time at BHSU prepared me to take this experience and make the most of it by getting me out of my comfort zone. This experience has and will impact my future career by giving me a wider range of options to study," said Newbrough. "I am very grateful to have this opportunity to travel the world their expedient attention to the matter and I'm honored to continue to serve the people of Butte county." Ager will be sworn in as a new county commissioner at the first regular meeting in January2019.

Karen Wagner commented on the court's dismissal.

"According to South Dakota Codified Law 5:02:09:05 there are procedures that must be followed when a recount occurs for an elected office. There is a section of the state statute that specifically addresses how to proceed when there is a discrepancy in the number of ballots and the ballot book. The law states; when "the total number of ballots in a precinct exceeds the number of names in the poll book; the ballots should shall be placed in a box and the recount board shall draw from the box the number of ballots that is equal to the excess labeled ballots drawn by recount board to justify totals". There not match the ballot book count. When the Secretary of State's office was contacted by the Recount Board for advice, the Secretary of State's office did not advise the board to follow this step. My petition asked the Court to rectify the situation by following this part of the law. By removing one ballot the number of ballots would equal the number of voters listed. This step could have made a difference in the election outcome. My sole purpose has been to resolve this discrepancy and follow the law as written.

I am disappointed with the decision to dismiss my petition. In my opinion, it appears the court applied the wrong standard in reaching their decision. The petition I submitted was a request to address the issue of following the proper procedure for a recount per A.R.S.D 5:02:09:05. I never challenged or questioned the Recount Board's integrity and certainly never indicated they acted in a fraudulent or arbitrary manner as listed in the court's dismissal document. My purpose was to question the procedural recommendation provided by the Secretary of State's office. The solution provided by the Secretary of State's office did not follow the procedures as outlined in state statute. To dismiss my petition without allowing a hearing to bring forth my point, appears to demonstrate a pattern of disregard to follow the law as it relates to election procedures.

It is interesting that the court has not served me or my attorney with official notice of the dismissal of my petition. I wish my opponent the best."

questions. This would include residents and political committees as well as entities not registered for the past four years in the state that would go toward state-wide ballot question committees.

Initiated Measure 25 (IM 25) would raise the state tobacco tax with the idea to fund vo-tech schools. Packs of 20 cigarettes would increase $1 per pack while 25 cigarette packs would go up $1.25. Other types of tobacco products including cigars and chewing tobacco would increase from 35% to 55% of wholesale price. The proceeds would create a tuition reduction and workforce-training fund for the state's four vo-tech institutes.

Any voter who can't mark a ballot because they have a physical disability or can't read, may ask any person he or she chooses to help the voter vote, according to Elaine Jensen, Butte County Auditor. Polling places are open from 7:00am to 7:00pm. If you arrive at the polling place prior to 7:00pm you are allowed to cast a ballot.

And.... We're off!

From Belle Fourche Economic Development Exec. Dir. Hollie Stalder

.....Off and running with the tools to do the work we have the heart to do.

The October 17th Empower Belle Fourche community gathering opened the door for fresh ideas by community members to be brought to life.

I heard very positive feedback and the action teams are already meeting to further detail the work at hand to accomplish their goals.

The Leadership Belle Fourche class was fully engaged with class members joining projects, of which, a few are the lead on the team.

If you were not able to attend the January nor October community events, don't worry! We will be having more. In fact, we hope the process becomes the new way we grow as a community. Engaging people from all sectors of our community to make it the hometown we want with added benefits and amenities.

So far, those ideas include: more youth opportunities and activities; a revitalized downtown area with more green spaces to sit and enjoy our morning coffee on a walk with the dog, or reading the paper while listening to the river at the beautiful forks; enhancing the beautiful entry points to our community; welcoming new residents and businesses to town; improving signage promoting our community and a unified theme for city promotion; and a new focus on healthy living through new and established paths, programs and infrastructure.

If you haven't seen your passion for the community listed, contact us to take the steps to put your ideas to work. We love this community and the

"can do" mindset to continually make it an even more wonderful place to live, work and do business with our friends, family, and visitors.

From the Editor Anything Left in the Barrel?

I went out to the American Ag fall auction Saturday morning. Was impressed with the lineup of equipment on hand. I hadn't been to a sale with that much iron on wheels since the 80's when east river banks and their 20% loans got to heavy for many farmers to carry anymore.

In those days, I was considered reasonably handy around cattle and both of the local veterinarians would occasionally pull me away from breakfast or an afternoon pinochle game to pull a calf, castrate pigs, or whatever other kind of recreation that they had a mind to share. I think it must be a class they take in vet school. I imagine something like "How to Arrange Extra Help at no Cost", and to give young people free education"

One Friday morning at early breakfast (cafe didn't open till 5:30am) I was sitting in my pickup when Doc pulled along side and honked and motioned me to get in with him.

Having nothing other than pancakes and sausage to pass up I obediently crawled in.

"Morning," He said, "You got anything going on today? Rule #1 for this sport applies here.

If you ever crawl into a vehicle with a vet, you better not plan anything else for at least 12-24 hours. Later that day we're standing in a light misty rain at a farm sale in Burwell, Nebraska. The third hand was another friend of Doc's who farmed north By: Doug Cole and east of town. About 1/2 way through the auction he had the successful bid on an 8' disc. Doc said, "now why in tarnation did you buy that disc? You know I'ye got that disc? You know I've got one you can borrow when you need to."

Well Doc, replied the young farmer, " If I'm going to go broke too, I want to make sure I've got enough on hand to warrant a 2 day sale." It looked to me like American Ag had enough iron lined up for a good old fashion 1980's 2-day sale.

MIKE & VERN:

Mike: Vern, how do you know whether to vote for a Democrat or a Republican?

Vern: Well Mike, I am a registered Republican so I almost always vote that way. However, I do tend to vote for the "Person" not the Party.

Mike: Well if the Person is a Democrat does that make them suspect?

Vern: Well mostly it's what you see on the national level that tarnishes the image of a Democrat. Mike: Does that apply out here?

Vern: That's why I said I'm inclined to vote for the person, not the party. Most important thing to remember Mike is to vote. If you think your vote doesn't mean anything just ask the newly elected county commissioner. One friend, or one enemy, when voting can make the difference in any election. VOTE NOVEMBER 6TH-ELECTION DAY

The other thing noteworthy at that equipment auction: I ran across a pair of cowboys who like tumbleweeds on a windy day rolled into town for the sale.

I asked, "You buying or selling?"

"Not buying nothing," the elder of the pair replied. "I'm broke." I told him an old veterinarian (a vet is never bashful about giving opinions) told me years ago. "Don't worry about being broke." Being broke is just an inconvenience. Something you can always work your way out of."

"Just don't ever get to be poor . Poor is a state of mind. It allows you to get complacent, and think the government or somebody else should improve your situation for you."

GENERATIONS

This story is the seventh in a series about Belle Fourche businesses that have generational family involvement and ownership in their operation.

Banking and Belle Fourche is in the Clarskon DNA

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Parents Dylan and Nicki Clarkson, Spearfish, are proud to welcome Elyse Mae Clarkson into the family. Elyse joined the world and the Clarkson family on October 17, 2018. She joins older brother Ben who turned three on October 16th.

BEACON STAFF

news@bellefourchebeacon.com The birth announcement by Dylan and Nicki Clarkson, welcoming Elyse Mae Clark son into the family is the most recent addition to the Clarkson family. She joins older brother Ben who turned three on October 16th. Dylan Clarkson is..... Whooaaah! We probably shouldn't be starting a Generational "history" by reading the latest entry first. That is just who Elyse Mae (named for Grandma Dottie Mae) Clarkson is. The newest member of a South Dakota family who's story began over 130 years ago. It began with James Albert Clarkson leaving the Hills of West Virginia March 12, 1888 on a journey west that would make him the first Clarkson to inhabit Butte County. He made the trip with a cousin, John Dennison. John Dennison's cousin, William H. "Virginia Bill" Hamilton had moved to Dakota Territory in 1884. Hamilton had left a girl friend back east and was there for a winter visit, before accompanying the "cousins" back to his claim along the Belle Fourche River east of present day Belle Fourche.

In the spring of 1888 a train an urge to start on his own he headed north to the Cave Hills. He started at the Table Mountain Ranch, then went to the North Cave Hills and partnered with Ed Cox raising horses. In 1900 he moved to Camel Creek at the mouth of Davis Draw where he raised his first sheep. It became his homestead when the Homestead Act passed.

He later moved to the Dell Ranch at the mouth of Bull Creek. This ranch was one of the largest horse ranches West River until the the end of WWI. It was to this ranch he brought his bride Lelia Ashburn, also from W. Virginia. They had three children: Virginia Yvonne (Mrs. A.L. Ericsson; Maria Jane (Mrs. Pat Delaney); and Jim Clarkson.

Understanding the opporbegan in Harding County in 1913. Today we have a total of 8 locations, including 6 retail facilities, and have grown to a 650 million dollar (total asset size) regional bank still doing what we set out to do more than a century ago – still local, still helping our communities, still owned by the Clarkson Family.

Today Pioneer has total of 8 locations, including 6 retail facilities, and has grown to a $650 million dollar (total asset size) regional bank still doing what I set out to do more than a century ago – still local, still helping our communities, still owned by the Clarkson Family. The following is Dylan's commentary:

"Growing up on a small acreage west of Belle Fourche (GO BRONCS), being a "country" kid is part of who I am. As a child, I often contemplated my future at The Bank of Belle Fourche, which became Pioneer Bank & Trust. All of my life I was surrounded by bankers and was often a part, or at least a listener, of bank-related conversations at family events and just normal day-to-day life. Eventually, I came to the conclusion that as a potential fourth generation banker there was more pressure for me to prove myself outside of the family business; to earn my way back to the Bank, really bringing something other than my name to offer my family, our communities, and our customers. After graduating from Montana State University with a degree in economics, I was fortunate to run a car dealership in Bozeman for nine years earning my way up to the position of general manager of Dick Walter Audi. That led to an opportunity to work at a family-owned community bank in Bozeman for 10 years. I worked through multiple departments at American Bank, ending with the position of Bozeman Area Market Manager. After 19 years outside of the "family" business, I was proud to join Pioneer Bank & Trust last year. When my mentor, Kevin Whitelock, announced his retirement, I was able to humbly apply for, and eventually be named, as Kevin's successor as President and Chief Executive Officer.

My wife, Nicki, and our young son Ben relocated from Bozeman to Spearfish in February of 2016. We enjoy every day in South Dakota and spend much time together outside as a family enjoying and discovering everything that our great region has to offer. We spend many days hiking, fly fishing and generally exploring the Black Hills area.

trip west was a ride that ended on the Fremont, Elkhorn, and Missouri Valley Railroad in Whitewood, SD.

No one met the "cousins" at the Whitewood depot so the three left their luggage at the station to be delivered later, and started the 35 mile hike to Hamilton's claim.

It was love at first sight for young Clarkson and except for a period of time in the early 1890's when he was called home for his mother's illness and death he never left this country again.

The first two years he worked on ranches in the False Bottom and Belle Fourche River area. When he returned after his mother death in 1895 he worked for Henry Stearns near present day Fruitdale (whose family built the first saw mill in the Black Hills). He hauled hay up the long, steep Deadwood Hill to be sold in Deadwood.

In April of 1896 driven by tunity this land provided he brought his brothers here from the Blue Ridge Mountains of West Virginia: first H.W. (Herb) and later F.M. (Ferm), and Earl. We will take up their stories in a future edition, but let it be noted that Elyse Mae's father Dylan Clarkson is the Great Grandson of F.M. Clarkson.

Dylan is current President and CEO of Pioneer Bank & Trust. Owned by the Clarkson family, Pioneer Bank & Trust really is "Local." Dylan is a fourth-generation family member to be involved in the operation. Dylan commented, "I have witnessed families helping families and I am proud to continue helping our neighbors and communities, a practice my ancestors It is a great honor to lead Pioneer Bank & Trust and our extraordinary team into the future."

In the next chapter in this generational story of the Clarkson's we will begin to piece in the middle of the story and include how the brothers Al Clarkson helped establish their own ranches along with himself started in 1913 what is the family banking business known as Pioneer Bank and Trust.

HALL OF FAMER - James Albert "Uncle Al" Clarkson is seen riding Rosebud on his ranch in the Cave Hills in the mid-1900's. Clarkson, with help from his brothers H. W (Herb). and F.M (Ferm)., founded the State Bank at Buffalo which led to several generations of his family in banking and ranching. Clarkson is honored as a "Great Westerner" in the National Cowboy Hall of Fame. -Courtesy Photo

The Good Stuff

from Jim Thompson

The Good Stuff is heard on a 6-state network of radio stations twice each day in our area. Jim Thompson takes motivational stories that listeners and readers send him and incorporates them into the program. It has been on the air for more than 10 years.

An Old Irish Poem

On the Good Stuff, someone recently asked for this old Irish poem, written in 1910.. having heard it on my radio show, they asked for it for a funeral of a loved one. I agree. This offers comfort for the grieving and I offer it to you for whatever grief you may face.

by Henry Scott Holland.. Death is nothing at all. I have only slipped away to the next room. I am I and you are you. Whatever we were to each other, Play, smile, think of me. Pray for me.

Let my name be ever the household word that it always was.

Let it be spoken without effect.

Without the trace of a shadow on it.

Life means all that it ever meant.

It is the same that it ever was. There is absolute unbroken continuity.

Why should I be out of mind because I am out of sight? I am but waiting for you. For an interval. Somewhere. Very near. Just around the corner. All is well.

High School Rodeo Finals Moving to Ft. Pierre for 2020- 2021

Prospects remain strong to bring it back to Belle Fourche.

BEACON STAFF news@bellefourchebeacon.com

That, we still are.

Call me by my old familiar name.

Speak to me in the easy way which you always used.

Put no difference into your tone.

Wear no forced air of solemnity or sorrow.

Laugh as we always laughed at the little jokes we enjoyed together. Nothing is past; nothing is lost. One brief moment and all will be as it was before only better, infinitely happier and forever we will all be one together with Christ.

The GOOD STUFF is heard every weekday morning at 9:30am on Belle Fourche's KBHB 810AM and on two dozen other stations in the region. BELLE FOURCHE - The South Dakota State High School Rodeo Finals will be held this coming June in Belle Fourche just as they have for the past 13 years. But after that, the event will move to Ft. Pierre for the next contract.

In September at the South Dakota High School Rodeo Board's annual meeting it was decided to award the next host city contract to Ft. Pierre, SD, for two years beginning in 2020 with an option to add a third year. It was the first time that Belle Fourche's bid had much of any competition in the past #### decade.

"Once in a while Rapid City will put in a bid, or we've had Huron submit a bid but it's mostly been Belle Fourche for past few years," said Faye Pelster, a member of the Belle Fourche Host Committee. "It takes a lot of work and a lot of community support to make it happen and there are only a handful of places in the state willing to step forward and tackle that."

This coming year's finals will take place June 12 - 15, 2019 at the Roundup Grounds. It will mark the 14th straight year that the event has been hosted in Belle Fourche.

In September of 2021 Pelster says the Belle Fourche Host Committee representatives will be back to make a presentation to the board in an effort to see the event return to what she terms "a very rodeo friendly town."

"We have all the ingredients to make for a successful event," she said, adding she has every confidence that Belle Fourche hasn't hosted its last finals.

The first of those ingredients, according to Pelster is the venue. "Our facility, the Roundup Grounds are second to none and they are getting better all the time."

Then there's the support from local government leaders. "The support we receive from the City of Belle Fourche is top notch and that is extremely important."

In the third and fourth areas that need to be in place for a successful bid, she says, Belle Fourche also has a leg up on its

Splash Pad Planned for North Park in Newell

BEACON STAFF news@bellefourchebeacon.com

NEWELL – A group of citizens has been ruminating on an idea for several years now. It suddenly sprang to the surface like water out of a jet. And that is just what these people hope to see happen; a splash-pad in Newell.

The local Lion's club, which is a 501c3 organization, will be the sponsoring organization, and Rosemary Johnson, a Lion's Club member, will head the committee working to bring this project to fruition.

"With the low income level in our town, and the number of children we have with basically nothing to do, especially in the summer, I think this is an excellent idea," said Mayor Ken Wetz. And he supported that attitude as he and the entire city council voted unanimously to support the project; including the upkeep once the pad is constructed.

The location will most likely be in the north park between the horseshoe pits and the fenced garden as that is where the water main runs, according to City Foreman Larry Parker. He is planning to work with the company that will provide the splash-pad product to figure out the logistics of care and maintenance. A group will meet on Friday, October 26, at the Blue Line Diner in Newell to discuss and plan fund-raisers. Since there is no funding available in the city budget, the project will have to seek donations and grants to #### fund it.

But people are beginning to get excited about the project and many have offered support, be it through "in-kind" labor or supplies, donations and help with fund-raisers. The Horizons program, which was popular a number of years ago as they worked to improve the community through grant funding, and the STEW Organization, which was a similar program, will work together with the Lions and others. The goal is around $30,000 and breaking ground by spring.

"Long days of summer heat, with no more to offer for activities than a small playground area and picnic tables, means problem could abound," said Wetz. "A splash-pad could avoid at least some of those problems."

The group will be setting out fund-raiser buckets around the community hoping for big and little donations. They also hope the community will take ownership of the project by supporting it in a any way possible.

To donate or offer support people can contact Johnson at the Newell Hardware story, or any Lion's Club member. They can also submit a message to the Newell Lion's Club Facebook page, the STEW Newell Facebook page or by calling the city at 605-456-2737. Because funding will be handled by the Lion's Club, a 501c3 organization, donations are tax deductible.

Soon there may be shrieks of joy coming from the north park.

BELLE FOURCHE - More than 180 people gathered to enjoy a delicious beef meal, followed by the 78th Annual Butte Electric business meeting at the Belle Fourche Community Center on Thursday, October 25. The group elected three board members during the evening. District 2 and 3 incumbents, Tom Brunner and Thomas Casteel, respectively ran unopposed. For the first time in many years there was more than one candidate for District 1 representative. Travis Schenk of Spearfish, was the successful candidate and will serve a threeyear term. Other candidates for the position left open by the resignation of Matt Sleep, were Bill Coburn of Spearfish and Marilyn Hespe of Belle Fourche.

"The power's just there," said Schenk, in his speech before the vote. "We take it for granted." Schenk said he was influenced by his 1994 excursion with Butte Electric to their power plants. He said it was a big influence in his deciding to run for the board.

Ellie Greger, Butte Electric's emissary to the Washington, D.C. youth tour spoke and thanked the co-op for their help in sending her on this trip. "In South Dakota we're always trying to help each other out," said Greger. "I learned so much about our country during this trip."

"Thank you for helping us apply for a $900,000, zero percent interest loan, through the government," said Willard. "We now can help students reach goals and be job ready with set skills."

Treasurer Dan Hefner informed the audience that the co-op was actually going to drop the rates by $1 per month residential, $6 per month for business.

"If we had to raise rates I would have let John (Lee) tell you that," said Hefner. But because it was good news, I got to share."

Lee, the CEO for the co-op, touched on five things that he said were positives for the co-op for the past year. They included, a bigger community commitment, being a reliable cooperative for patrons, improving member services, creating the Member Service Office in Spearfish, and working with GenPro on a solar energy project. One thing Lee highlighted was the savings the co-op realized with the Beat the Peak program where patrons can receive bill credit by having less usage during peak times. As usual the co-op, through generous sponsors gave multiple door prizes, including $20 attendance prizes. Those lucky folks included: Judy Dague, Allen Williams, Rich Dorbeck, Slim Bedford, and Kim Johnson. The winners of the grand prize of a flat screen TV with Roku was Larry and Cindy Fairbanks.

This Column is written by Brian Mehmen, the Founder of Rolling Bones Outfitters in the Northern Hills. Brian hunts throughout the Tri-state Region, North America and the world. The Rolling Bones TV show, "No Boundaries" has been seen on the Pursuit Channel, The Sportsman's Channel / Outdoor Network and will debut this fall on CarbonTV.com

We are very fortunate to have a camp in Colorado that extends our hunting season into December and January. The Western Colorado location is just outside of Craig, Co.. The weather this time of year can be a bit unpredictable and down right cold. However if you can bundle up and get your mind around four days of bone chilling cold you could be in for some of the best hunting ever.

This years trip was a combo hunt for me. Elk and Mule Deer. The priority was to shoot a bull and glass and glass for the buck that the owner and head (Mitch) guide had seen the week before. We arrived in camp a day later than expected and my anticipation was high. The first night was as usual, get our vouchers go get our licenses and get back to camp for a fantastic home cook meal. The next day proved to be super tough to glass no snow, overcast and dreary. We saw about twenty bucks 100 does and about fifteen head of elk. We ended the day with a great anticipation for the next day. There was a cold front heading in with about ten to twelve inches of snow was in the forecast. As we headed back to camp evidence of the weather change was hitting the windshield, FRESH WHITE FLAKES. Tomorrow was going to be good!

Day two has arrived and it is what we were hoping for. Six below Zero, a foot of fresh snow and deer on their feet. Immediately we started see deer and lots of deer. Where yesterday we were struggling, it seem today was the total opposite. Now we are looking through deer everywhere we put or binos. Buck after buck and just not the one we were after. We came across a great deep forked buck that really had me thinking

STURGIS - Two local EMS team members, Casey Baker of Newell Ambulance and Colleen Brunner, PIO for Nisland/Arpan Volunteer Fire & Rescue, participated in a training session for Sturgis EMS. This time, however, they were "patients," rather than assisting in service. This training was set up by the National Guard Civil Support Team, a specialized unit that is our first line of defense against chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear (CBRN) threats. The Department of Defense, after 9/11, created these units all over the country to combat potential threats.

Each of the 57 teams has to be ready to go anywhere in (or around) its state at any time, to address any number of threats. One of the ways they do this is by training regularly with local, state and federal response organizations. From the FBI to local law enforcement, CSTs build relationships with first responders and civilian authorities so when they're needed; they're prepared, according to the National Guard CST website.

"The National Guard is postured all over the nation in little communities; we're a community-based defense force," says Maj. Gen. Timothy A. Reisch, adjutant general for the South Dakota National Guard, home of the 82nd CST. "The nature of the 82nd's mission is to provide immediate response to local officials who are responding to an emergency."

In the training on Wednesday, October 24, in Sturgis, the scenario was an explosion in the upper level of the Loud American Roadhouse restaurant. With the cooperation of owner Mark Bruchs, the scene was set. The headline would have read, "Four dead, multiple wounded." EMS responders arrived within minutes, putting their own health potentially at risk. However, only a couple first responders ended up at risk, as they quickly let Hazmat teams know this was a chemical or biological incident, based on the symptoms of those involved. Two police officers were the first to respond, and they were quickly followed by fire department and ambulance, National Guard units, and finally by the Hazmat teams.

Several had been killed at the scene while others were either incoherent or aware enough to share information; such as a loud explosion that caused injuries, burning eyes and lungs, which immediately alerted the first two police officers to make a special call.

This brought in teams trained to deal with this incident and soon people in blue and white Hazmat suits were swarming the area just south and west of the Lour American.

The training incident began at 11 a.m., with both Baker and Brunner making 911 calls to alert services, with the words, "This is an exercise message. I just got out of the Loud American and people are screaming about something that happened in the loft. People are complaining about burning eyes and skin. Please hurry! This is an exercise message."

This warned EMS that this was a training exercise, and in fact, Todd Chance, and Vincent Sharp, gave explicit instructions to the group on how to act. But neither the "patients," nor the responders were quite sure what to do, just as in a normal incident such of this kind. The walking wounded and those unable to move by themselves were moved to a cordoned area to be "hosed off" by firefighters, which would have been standard protocol under this type of scenario. They were then moved to a holding area, where each was assessed, and then transported to appropriate care facilities.

This type of training helps all involved in EMS provide quicker and better care, according to Shawn Fischer, director of the Sturgis Ambulance Service.

"It takes a lot of supportive sponsors," Pelster says, "and the sponsors over the years have always been there for us. They understand the importance of having the town full of visitors and how that is good for everyone. And there are also the volunteers. We have had amazing hard-working volunteers over the years that know what jobs need to be done and know what it takes to carry-out a successful event."

Each year the High School Finals Rodeo brings around 300 competitors and up to two thou#### sand visitors to the city over the week-long course of the event. And that has a sizeable economic impact. According to numbers supplied by Clay Birkeland, Sr. Vice President at Pioneer Bank and past host committee member/ volunteer, when the event was first held in Belle Fourche, taxable sales in the community increased by $2 million over the prior year.

The first SD State High School Rodeo Finals were held in New Underwood in 1949. In 1951 South Dakota was a charter member of the National High School Rodeo Association and was one of the first states to compete at the national event.

The Belle Fourche Arts Council, in conjunction with the South Dakota Arts Council's Artists in the Schools and Communities Program, will sponsor a four-day session in Jana Bastian's Belle Fourche High School art class taught by visual artist Ariadne "Ari" Albright.

Albright was born in Cheyenne, Wyoming and educated in printmaking and painting at the University of Washington and the University of South Dakota. An artist and art educator, she serves as the Arts Program Coordinator at Sanford Vermillion. She describes herself as an artist who has spent "three decades generating narrative paintings that explore themes of identity and belonging."

Albright will teach four classes over the four day period from November 5th through the 8th. Students will be encouraged to create a painting of a place in their neighborhood. In addition to traditional visual arts techniques, the students may make use of satellite images, available

In the second attack he hung on to the balloon basket with one hand while firing his pistol at the enemy with his other hand.

Neibling, who was born in Huron, was also a champion middlewight boxer.

The presentation is a noted one as November 11, 2018 marks the 100th anniversary of the World War I armistice.

CON Concert Series Hosted Former Glen Campbell Guitarist

BEACON STAFF

The second performance of the Center of the Nation Concert Series took place October 27. Minnesota native and now Nashville resident Jeff Dayton took the Saturday night BF Community Center audience on a anecdotal tour of his life's work playing with some of the best known Country Artists of all time. Dayton was aided by Minneapolis guitarist Mark Bendickson. The musical skills heard on the guitars of the two performers demonstrated why they have been in demand by many of the best artists in the music business.

Dayton's casual style was a real treat as he blended in a mixture songs of the musicians he had played with in his storied career. Songs and anecdotes from the stars he rubbed elbows with dotted the performance. He quoted Glen Campbell as saying, "Play one wrong note it's a mistake, play two wrong notes and it's jazz."

The second show of the series was co-sponsored by Bentz Equipment in honor of Joyce Bentz, Mason's 5th Avenue/ Buckstop Sporting Goods, and Richard Pluimer, Attorney, Prof., LLC the Concert series resumes on Sunday February 24, 2019 with "Chris Brubeck's Triple Play". The group will play everything from jazz to folk to blues, to classic. Mark your calendars!

Becky and Scott Sears New Owners of Crow Buttes Mercantile

NANCY HENDERSON

Belle Fourche Beacon

news@bellefourchebeacon.com

Call it karma, luck, good fortune, destiny or simply being in the right place at the right time, Becky and Scott Sears have become the new owners of Crow Buttes Mercantile on Highway 85, 46 miles north of Belle Fourche.

The Searses purchased the business in September from the original owners, Rick and Judy Brengle of Aladdin, Wyoming. The new owners, both raised in Indiana, had the Mercantile in their sites for some time. But there were a few twists and turns on their path to living in western South Dakota.

"South Dakota had been a vacation spot since 2004," explained Becky. "Our family fell in love with the Black Hills."

'Family' at that time consisted of Becky, Scott and their two young daughters, Rhonda and Mackenzie.

Although the Mercantile isn't officially "in" the Black Hills, the minute the vacationing Searses first saw it while taking a break to stretch their legs, get the girls snacks and let the dog run, they were hooked.

One of the first twists in the road was the fact that the family had just moved to Clear Lake, South Dakota. This was 2013 when, coincidentally, the Brengles had just put the Mercantile up for sale. Becky and Scott knew they wanted their daughters to finish school in Clear Lake, where Scott has family. But now knowing that the business was on the market, they kept a close eye on things, even making the occasional trip to stop there for snacks.

It was in the summer of 2017 that Becky suggested to Scott that they should look into buying the business. But this was when the twists and turns in the road led to a major roadblock. Becky was diagnosed with cancer.

"It really knocked me down," she admitted, "but with the help of the Cancer Treatment Center in Illinois and the love and support from my town and my family, I got through it."

With the route to their West River dream now unobstructed, and the Mercantile still up for sale, the Searses, in Becky's words, "sold everything and here we are!"

Future plans for Crow Buttes Mercantile include adding a full breakfast menu, expanding the lunch menu and introducing Becky's homemade desserts. She loves to bake! This is in addition to the snacks and hand-dipped ice cream already offered. Next spring will find a children's playground, a dog park where the pooches can run safely, more RV sites, tent sites and cabins.

B-6

Only in their early 40s and filled with determination after facing some pretty daunting challenges, Becky and Scott Sears invite one and all to visit Crow Buttes Mercantile where a dream really did come true.

Operating hours for Crow Buttes Mercantile are 6:30am to 6pm Monday through Saturday 9:30am to 6 pm Sunday. Gas is available 24 hours a day, credit cards only after hours and Lee did the photography. On Monday, Derrick and Michelle came out to the ranch hunting, and Michelle got a nice big buck. Donna went to Jed and Hazel Hendricks's for a 90th birthday party for Mrs. Hendricks. Then on Sunday, Gary Gorder came out to check cattle and work on the Bobcat. Justin and Shauna Kerr were on the road again this week to junior high basketball games. On Friday they went to Plevna for four games. Then on Saturday they were in Ekalaka for games against Wibaux. All of the Ekalaka teams did very well. Junior and Shirley Melum went to town on Tuesday for a doctor's appointment, but the doctor was sick, so they went over the Serenity Corners to visit with Maurice Overn. They had brought some pictures that had belonged to Junior's sister, Mary Ann, and Maurice had a great time remembering the people and events. On Saturday, John Ovitz stopped by to visit for a while. Ernie and Rachel Melum shipped calves on Thursday. Charlie Odell came to brand inspect. Rachel and Tommy caught the cold that has been going around. Tommy is recovering faster that Rachel, who has had it for a week. Bryce and Dawn Padden did preg-testing and preconditioned the last group. On Tuesday, Dorothy went with Bryce and Dawn to Ekalaka for Buffalo's last elementary basketball games. Later that evening, these three went in to Camp Crook to visit with the O'Toole family who were visiting from Sioux Falls. Dawn and Nita Loken went to Glendive on Friday, to watch the district volleyball tournament. The Ekalaka girls, as usual, had to come around the back way to win the double elimination tournament, but their stamina won out. They ended up playing Wibaux three times, but won the district tournament. It was raining on Saturday morning, so Dawn could not mover hay bales, but she spent Sunday hauling lots of bales. Lorraine came up from Texas this week. On Thursday, Loraine took Dorothy to Belle Fourche. Then on Sunday evening they both had supper at the Corner Café in Camp Crook. Ronda Cordell was out on Monday before daybreak to look elk. She headed west a little distance out of the yard, and saw figures ahead of her, that looked too big to be muleys, With binoculars, she realized they were elk. Ronda got her bull elk. Diane Wear had come up to doggy sit while Ronda was out, and she helped get the elk home, skinned and split in half. That evening, Ronda went to Camp Crook, stopping at Lowell Cordell's and Erik Loken's before going to a fish fry.

Why You Should Choose Physical Therapy 1st for Low Back Pain

About 80 percent of adults experience back pain during their lifetimes, according to the National Institute of Health. Are you one of them? October was National Physical Therapy Month and a perfect time to learn that patients with lowback pain have a lot to gain by seeing a physical therapist (PT) first. Low back pain affects 540 million people worldwide, and many patients are treated in emergency rooms, told to take time off from work and rest, referred for scans or surgery, and prescribed painkillers that include addictive opioids. Though most cases are shortlived, about a third of patients have a repeat episode of low back pain within a year, and it is increasingly viewed as a long-lasting condition. A study published in Health Services Research that reviewed

150,000 insurance claims, found that those who saw a physical therapist at the first point of care had faster, more effective relief from their pain resulting in 89% lower probability of receiving an opioid prescription, a 28% lower probability of having advanced imaging services, and a 15% lower probability of an emergency department visit. They also incurred approximately $1,500 less in medical costs compared to those who chose to go elsewhere for their pain first. Unfortunately, many individuals do not realize that you can directly see a PT without a physician referral. We are fortunate to live in a state where individuals have direct access to physical therapy, meaning that you can get relief right away by visiting your PT without needing to go to your physician first. However, there are still some exceptions with government insurance.

Physical therapy is much more than exercise. PTs have a doctorate level education and utilize spinal manipulations, many forms of soft tissue mobilization, dry needling, and various modalities to decrease pain. They will also educate you on how to improve your rate of recovery and ability to stay active with a home program. When we have back pain, our gut instinct tells us to get into bed or relax in the chair, but that is the worst thing you can do. Rather than being given painkillers, x rays and told to rest - choose physical therapy first. Call your PT today and get feeling better faster. Article submitted by Julie Wingen, PT, DPT. Dick Albert had an appointment in Spearfish on Wednesday, and he and Erma went to the Roy Hansen funeral that day. On Sunday they went to church at the Catholic Church in Buffalo. Don't forget that next Sunday is the Catholic Church Dinner and Bazaar, at the community hall in Buffalo.

Lynn Gustafson and Linda made a trip to Moorcorft on Tuesday, for appointments. The new family that will be working at their place came this week. They are Ian and Jenna Flatgard. They will be staying in the camper until their house is finished. The Flatgards and Gustafsons met with Pete Anderson and Dixie Garr, Terry and Laurie Goehring, and Mike Drury at the Over The Edge on Friday evening for supper together. Mike is a visiting worker from England. On Sunday, Bruce and Lynn went to church in the morning and spent the afternoon fishing. It was a little breezy. but they caught some fish for supper.

Doug Davis has been quite busy this week. On Monday, he went to Clark Blake's to help ship calves. On Wednesday, he and Julia went to his uncle, Roy Hanson's, funeral in Belle Fourche. Then they went on to the National Cemetery for the interment ceremony. On Thursday, Doug went up to Dan's, to help him ship calves. He made at trip to Belle Fourche on Friday for parts at Wells Plumbing and to visit the FSA office. On Saturday, he helped with fall shots at Darwin Latham's. They got to visit with Travis and Amanda in Ireland on Sunday morning. It was already evening in Ireland and they had already moved their clocks back, so there was six hours difference. Last weekend, Donna Lewis went to Ekalaka for the Rendezvous for disabled hunters at Livingston's. Terri and Lee Carter were here for the event, Prosperity or Bankruptcy – Which?

The election. It is over. Indentlous portal toward our defeat. 'Tis well. It is now to be hoped that we have lost both the senate and the house. This will give the opposition absolute control and effectually test their position. If they are right, and we wrong, why we are glad that they have won, and should do all in our power to help the cause, having naught but the best interests of our country at heart. But upon the other hand, if they are not right, they will go down to egnomious defeat in 1900, and we will place Bryan, or one of a like belief in the presidential chair by the heaviest vote ever received by a president, and may hope, too, for the support of the people until relief comes, having before us the dismal failure of our opponents. This latter hope, perhaps, could not be consistently indulged in, in case of our victory now, as it will take more time than some suppose to gain relief. Meanwhile, we remain loyal and true in our principles, believing before the American people before whom we must appear in life, and before our Creator before whom we must appear in death that we are right.

First Death From Influenzas Marie Christina Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fisher, died at the home of her parents in this city Wednesday, October 20, at 6:30 p.m. Death was caused by an attack of the dreaded Spanish influenzas, followed by pneumonia. Rev. The Influenza Statistics There are about thirty cases of Spanish Influenza in Belle Fourche, and while several of the patients have been rather seriously ill, they are reported to be improving at this time. Only on death, that of Miss Marie Fisher last evening, has occurred thus far, and it is hoped that the toll will be no greater.
